OFFICIAL RECORD
WILSON'S SPEECH
Settle Controversy Between Senator Spencer and Pres. Wilson.
PUBLISH EXACT WORDS

Arose as to Whether President Promised to Send Troops Across the Sea to Defend Foreign Boundaries.

Washington, Oct. 11.—The House made public the "official version" of President Wilson's address at the 5th plenary session of the Paris peace conference. The address, directed to representatives of Rumania, Serbia and Czechoslovakia, has been the subject of a controversy between the president and Senator Spencer, Republican of Missouri. The senator declared that the president had promised to send an American expedition across the seas to defend their boundaries.

Wilson in a telegram to the senate on October 5th said that this promise was "false," and in reply called for the official record. The statement today, based on a list of the official stenographer, and the president as saying: "the rights of the minorities, that I might venture to say, is unlikely to disturb the peace of the world than the treatment which is met in certain circumstances be met out to the minorities and before if the great powers are to maintain peace to the world in any way, it is unjust that they should be satisfied that the peace and necessary guarantees be met. How can a power like the United States, for example, and I ask for no other after signing this peace, if it contains elements which are not to be permanent, go thousands of miles away across the sea and report to its people that it would settle on the peace of the world? It cannot do so, and there underlies all of these treaties the expectation on the part, for example, of Rumania, Czechoslovakia and Serbia, that if any of the covenants of this settlement are observed, the United States will send her armies and her navies to defend them as they are observed. In these circumstances it is unreasonable that the United States should insist upon being satisfied that the settlements are correct."

Brooklyn Blanked By Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Oct. 11.—"Duster" Mails, former twirler for the Sacramento team of the Pacific league, covered himself with fame and glory today when in a gruelling pitcher's battle Cleveland defeated Brooklyn by a score of 1 to 0 and brought the world series championship within hailing distance. Mails, who is a former Beaver pitcher, and who was only recently drafted from Sacramento, where he played in the Pacific Coast league, allowed the Brooklynites only three hits during the full nine innings and at all times had the game safely within his grasp, and at no time was there danger of a Brooklyn score, through the failure of the big southpaw to properly perform his duty.

He was opposed by Herrod Smith, who recently brought about a victory for the Dodgers. However Smith failed to stop the Cleveland slugger, who topped him for seven safe singles. Brooklyn failed to chase over a single runner, in spite of loose playing on the part of the Indians, who were credited with three errors.

The tide turned in favor of Cleveland in the sixth inning when Manager Speaker singled. He was followed by Burns, who smashed a double to the fence, scoring the Indian manager with the only run of the game.

The first five innings and the closing three were hard fought, both pitchers working hard and being given excellent support.

The score by innings follows:
1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9—RHE

In the apportionment one-fourth of the amounts originating in the various counties is returned to the county in lieu of property tax from which automobiles are now exempt, and the remaining three fourths is diverted to the state highway fund for good roads purposes. Of the total receipts $429,297 represents automobile licenses and $30,777.25 was collected from drivers in payment of the new license fee.

Administrative expenses in connection with the handling of the fund amount to $51,623.41, leaving a balance of $416,519.34 for distribution. Of this amount $104,129.34 is apportioned among the 36 counties of the state in proportion to the amount originating in each county and $312,389.50 goes to the state highway fund.

TRIBUTE IS PAID TO WORLD WAR VETERAN

Umpqua Post American Legion Conduct Military Funeral of Pvt. Smith.

SERVICES IMPRESSIVE

Slow Procession Led By Funeral Dirge Escorts Body of First Douglas County Boy to Give His Life in the World War.

Douglas county Legionnaires and hundreds of local citizens paid final tribute to the body of Private Roy A. Smith, who was buried yesterday, and the services for this young man, the first Douglas County boy to give his life for his country in the World War were extremely impressive. The services were held at the Presbyterian church, following the military escort of the body to that place from the undertaking parlors. Following the church services, the body was taken to the Oak Creek cemetery for interment.

Private Roy A. Smith, whose death occurred in St. Nazaire, France, was born December 2, 1895, and at the time of his death was 22 years of age. He enlisted in the vanguard of American troops for overseas duty and embarked for foreign soil with the 20th Engineers. The last letter received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Smith, of Glide, was written at Hoboken, N. J., prior to his sailing. The next word received was a telegram to the effect that he had passed away in an American Base Hospital in France, death being caused by pneumonia. The death of the brave young man took place on December 6, 1917.

Marching men with a flag in their hearts, still with serious expressions characteristic of American soldiers, marching men whose memories of other marches and of other comrades came back with the funeral dirge of the band leading the solemn procession and khaki uniforms—men who marched as though they were enroute to future objectives—this was the military escort formed by the members of Umpqua Post of the American Legion commanded by former Captain W. K. Wright, Lieut. Colonel George Houck and former Lieutenant Leo Devaney. This contingent of Legionnaires was drawn up in a "company front" at the undertaking parlors and brought to "present arms" as the flag covered casket was carried by the pall bearers, all Legion men, from the building to the hearse. A squad of Legion men in civilian acted as the honor guard to the bereaved relatives of the deceased. The American Legion Band started the procession to the church, playing a dirge. Following the musicians, slowly marched the uniformed ex-service men led by the firing squad. The six pall bearers marched at the side of the casket. At the Presbyterian church, the Legion men were again brought to a "company front" and saluted as the body was taken from the hearse.

The casket was placed on a flower bedecked pedestal in the church and above it floated a beautiful American flag. The legionnaires marched in a body to the section reserved for them. Every available seat in the building was taken and many were standing as Rev. Warrington delivered the invocation.

The funeral sermon delivered by Rev. Warrington, who was formerly overseas with the Y. M. C. A., was a masterpiece. Its every word carried an impressive lesson to the listeners and it not only served as a fitting tribute to the memory of one who died that we might live, but it also was comforting inasmuch as it reviewed the wonderful sacrifices made by the young man. The theme of the sermon centered about one's life work. It was emphasized that it would be better for one only to live a month and dedicate to the world the accomplishments of this young man than to live a hundred years and not be able to make the sacrifice for our countrymen. The Presbyterian choir sang three beautiful hymns closing with "Nearer My God to Thee."

Following the church services the legionnaires for the third time came to attention, present arms, and a military salute as the body was taken from the church. The funeral procession led by Lieut. Col. Houck marched to Cass street, thence to Jackson and returned to the Roseburg Undertaking parlors. The legionnaires saluted the body for the fourth time at this place.

Auto-carried legionnaires and others to the Oak creek cemetery where the body was interred. The last tribute was paid here when the American Legion firing squad fired a volley over the grave of their former "Buddy." Taps was played by bugler Lawrence Krogel and the many floral offerings were laid on the grave.

All of the flags in the city were placed at half mast yesterday.

HOLIDAY IS PROCLAIMED.

Special Meeting Called.
A special meeting of Umpqua Post of the American Legion has been called for tomorrow evening. This is a very important meeting, as at that time plans for the Armistice Day celebration will be completed. All members of the local post are urged to be present. In order that the work may be carried on in the best manner possible. The coming celebration is going to be a "hum-dinger" and every ex-service man should have a part and should do his bit in making it a success.

OPEN MEETING CALLED TUESDAY

New Constitution and By Laws For Chamber of Commerce To Be Adopted.

WORK SHOULD START

All Who Have Interest in Community at Heart Are Urged to Be at Public Meeting in the City Hall on Tuesday.

The regular monthly meeting of the Chamber of Commerce will be held at the city hall in Roseburg on the 12th day of October, 1920, and the president urges all members of the chamber to be present and participate in this meeting. This is important, for the reason that there will be adopted the constitution and by-laws that will govern the new organization in the future and provisions will be made for the coming year's work.

The officers of the Chamber of Commerce are very enthusiastic over the progress the chamber has made within a short time, which only demonstrates what an aggressive body of men can do. There is now on the press a book advertising the resources of Douglas county, and practically every town within the county is included and has space in this book, which will be the most comprehensive ever put out by the Roseburg commercial body and deals exclusively with facts and figures.

The work for the coming year should be begun within the next month or two and provisions made for an aggressive year's work. We must get our share of the home-seekers. The recent weather conditions demonstrate the superiority of the Umpqua valley over other portions of the state. Practically no loss was had in the prune harvest in this county, whereas the Willamette valley lost all the way from 25 to 50 per cent of its crop. New industries must be encouraged. Additional roads must be constructed.

Therefore, you are urged, if you have the interest of your town and county at heart, to be present at this meeting Tuesday. It is up to you whether or not you will help roll the wheels of progress or whether you will be in the indifferent class and let "George do it." You are earnestly requested to be present. We need your views—we need your cooperation. Let us make the coming year one that will excel all others.

Puts One Over On His Friends

Albin Bloom, a well known Southern Pacific employe, of this city, left for Nebraska and Kansas in September with the avowed intention of spending several weeks on a visit with friends and relatives in those states. His real intentions did not become known until later on October 5th, when his mother, Mrs. C. T. Bloom, of this city, received word that he had married Miss Lydia Swanson, a Nebraska girl. The newlyweds returned here on October 9th, and yesterday evening Mrs. C. T. Bloom celebrated the marriage of her son with a reception at her home in honor of the couple. The marriage was a complete surprise to all, and he was given a rousing reception upon his arrival here. They will make their future home in Roseburg.

CLIFFORD IN CITY.

Charles C. Clifford, whose recent lectures in this city were greatly enjoyed by a large number of local residents, has returned to Roseburg for a brief time. He is arranging for another series of lectures and will probably appear on the platform in the near future. He is again taking up his health class work and will form a number of new classes.

Supreme Court Refuses Reconsider

Poultrymen Meet This Afternoon

Over fifty poultrymen of the county met at the city hall this afternoon for the purpose of forming a local poultrymen's exchange to handle the produce in this vicinity. The meeting was called to order by County Agent H. E. Haslett, and was addressed by U. L. Upson, manager of the Oregon Poultry Producers Association. The increasing cost of feed and limited market make necessary some sort of co-operative action, the poultrymen state, and an effort will be made to form some system whereby a co-operative plan may be adopted and followed. At a late hour this afternoon the meeting was still in progress.

Mrs. Jones will leave Wednesday for San Francisco and Los Angeles where she expects to make an extended sojourn. She formerly resided in Roseburg and has many friends here.

Should Pay Tribute—When the announcement is made that the funeral services of a veteran of the World War are to be held, the legionnaires are of the opinion that everyone should display the American flag on the day of the services, and when the flag is flown from a pole it should be half-masted. The flag flying over the Umpqua Hotel yesterday was placed at half mast in honor of the services over the body of Private Roy Smith. The American Legion men were aroused yesterday during the funeral procession when a number of "sidewalk lizards" were seen wearing their hats and leaning against telephones as the flag draped casket passed by. Patriotism seems to be a dead issue with a few of them and a good quick jab with a bayonet might serve to make them "snap out of the dope."

APPLE SEASON AT ITS CREST

Local Packing Plant to Ship At Least Ten Cars This Week.

RAIN IS A DRAWBACK

Showers Keep Pickers From Gathering Crop as Rapidly as Desired, But Good Progress Being Made in Spite of Handicap.

In spite of the rainy and disagreeable weather excellent progress is being made with the apple crop. The picking is being hindered by the rain as the pickers cannot work during showers. Between spells, however, the pickers are kept busy and the crop is being removed from the trees in good time taking into consideration the handicap under which the growers are laboring.

Estimates are only slightly below those of last year, on the amount of produce. New orchards just coming into bearing have added a great deal to the volume of the apple crop while old orchards are all producing a normal crop.

The Oregon Growers Association will ship out about 125 carloads of apples from the county according to the present estimates. Ten carloads have already been sent out and 10 more will be shipped from Roseburg during the present week. Three cars were loaded at the local plant today one is being prepared for shipment at Sutherlin and one is practically completed at Riddle.

The variety of apples now being handled is Spitzenbergs and practically the entire carloads to be shipped this week will be of that variety.

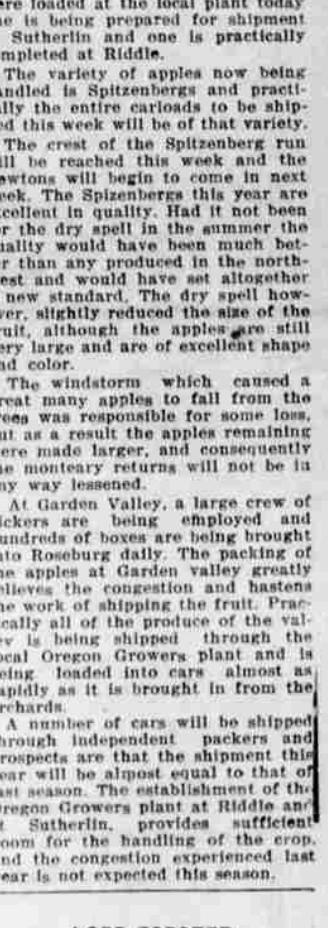

The crest of the Spitzenberg run will be reached this week and the Newtons will begin to come in next week. The Spitzenbergs this year are excellent in quality. Had it not been for the dry spell in the summer the quality would have been much better than any produced in the north-west and would have set altogether a new standard. The dry spell however, slightly reduced the size of the fruit, although the apples are still very large and are of excellent shape and color.

The windstorm which caused a great many apples to fall from the trees was responsible for some loss, but as a result the apples remaining were made larger, and consequently the monetary returns will not be in any way lessened.

At Garden Valley, a large crew of pickers are being employed and hundreds of boxes are being brought into Roseburg daily. The packing of the apples at Garden valley greatly relieves the congestion and hastens the work of shipping the fruit. Practically all of the produce of the valley is being shipped through the local Oregon Growers plant and is being loaded into cars almost as rapidly as it is brought in from the orchards.

A number of cars will be shipped through independent packers and prospects are that the shipment this year will be almost equal to that of last season. The establishment of the Oregon Growers plant at Riddle and at Sutherlin, provides sufficient room for the handling of the crop, and the congestion experienced last year is not expected this season.
