

Official Republican Statement

By Douglas County Republican Central Committee.

W. W. stands for Woodrow Wilson. It also stands for Watchful waiting. Also for Wiggle and Wobble.

The democratic party has been claiming credit for the federal reserve bank idea. As a matter of fact, the republican party had caused in former years exhaustive investigation of this matter to be made and when the democratic party came into power the foundation already was laid for legislation of this kind.

Here are some of the achievements of the republican party: The replacement of the destructive Free law of 1846 and 1857 by a protective tariff that immediately brought industrial activity and unexampled progress and prosperity.

The abolition of slavery and the restoration of the Union.

The homestead law, passed by a republican congress and signed by Abraham Lincoln.

The acts for the issuance of legal tender and national bank notes which gave the people a currency of equal and stable value in all parts of the country.

All existing laws for the payment of pensions to veterans of the civil war and their surviving relatives.

The anti-trust law. (This was drawn by Senators Sherman and Edmunds, and introduced by the former. In the house its passage was secured by William McKinley against an attempt to have it side-tracked in behalf of a bill for the free coinage of silver.

Model child labor law for District of Columbia.

Government compensation law, providing compensation to certain federal employees for injuries received in line of duty.

Excise tax imposed on all corporations, consisting of one per cent measured by the amount of their net receipts.

WARREN G. HARDING

The census laws, providing for the taking of the census and permanent census bureau.

The railroad rate bill, compelling railroads to secure the approval of the interstate commerce commission before advancing rates; authorizing the interstate commerce commission to institute proceedings without waiting for the complaint of a shipper; creating a special commerce court, granting the commission complete authority over classifications and regulations; and bringing telegraph and telephone companies under the scope of the interstate commerce act.

The creation of a system of postal savings banks, thus gaining for small depositors the security of the United States treasury and guaranteeing two per cent interest on their deposits.

Creation of a tariff board to ascertain the difference in the cost of production at home and abroad.

Law requiring use of safety appliances on railroads made broader and more complete.

White slave traffic penalized by a system of heavy fines for interstate commerce therein.

PURPOSE OF THE BILL

In submitting the Port of Portland consolidation bill to the voters of Oregon, the people of Portland ask the people of the whole state for authority to provide means of shipment by sea of the state's products.

Upon the Port of Portland has developed the duty of providing a navigable channel up the Columbia and Willamette rivers, of building docks and other shipping facilities. The increased number and tonnage of ships requires that the channel be deepened and widened and more docks be built.

MEASURING THE PUBLIC BROW Revivals of Charlie Chaplin in Carmen are still more potent box office attractions than "Village Life in Korea," and "How Manila Rope is Made."

Yet there are hopeful signs. An editorial digest like "Topics of the Day," now familiar all the way from the Broadway places to the smallest village theatre, not only does not drive the "masses" out of the house but interests them so strongly that in two years it has developed from a hopeful experiment into definite success.
