Movie Closeups

The Revue of Revues, a musical comedy, with Roy Hiram Clair, is the attraction at the Antlers tonight. The seat sale for the offering has been excellent and a record making crowd is expected. This is the first stage offering of the season.

One outstanding feature of J. Warren Kerrigan's latest Brunton production, "No. 99" a W. W. Hodgkin release, which comes to the Liberty theatre tonight is the powerful and assembled to support the handsome hero. Practically every part in the picture, from the star role to the smallest character bit is played by a well known artist of the stage screen.

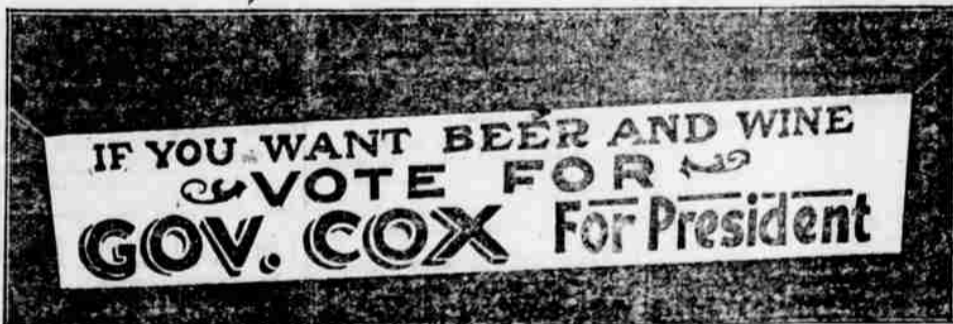

As a resourceful young aristocrat Arthur Penryn Kerrigan offers to the public one of the strongest and most entertaining roles he has ever created. Fritz Brunette, who played opposite Kerrigan in "The Lord Loves the Irish," and other prominent success of late, adds another triumph to her already enviable career as the charming little debutante who helps Penryn through some of the rough places.

Lila Leslie, former Belasco star and one of the cleverest dramatic actresses on the screen, excellently portrays the part of "Renée Etherington," a wealthy widow who believes in obtaining a husband by fair means or foul.

Emmet King, John Stepping and Thomas Guise are seen in strong character roles; William V. Mong gives a masterful performance as "Mike Trebe" the crafty czar of the underworld; and Charles Arling is particularly hilarious as the pernicious political grater. The picture is a screen dramatization of Wyndham Murray's magazine serial, "One Week end."

fighting country where innocence and honesty is an exotic flower—an orphan. From the outset of her entrance into the town her destiny is shaped by the friendship of "The Curly Kid" a young crook and four scallawag partners, and the enmity of Denton, a gambler. Later she meets Harry Hope, a local capitalist and her romance begins.

money which he honestly believed he would be able to restore, but Denton's craftiness prevents his doing so. When affairs have reached a climax, in which June and Hope are both helplessly involved, "The Curly Kid" comes to the rescue, and, at the cost of his own life destroys the paper which prevents the consummation of the romance. Denton kills him, but the kid's chinese cook gets revenge for his dead master. And "The Girl From the Outside," is accepted as a member of the community as the wife of Hope.
