COSHOW EXPRESSES THANKS TO FRIENDS

Candidate For Attorney General Feels Thankful For Assistance Given.

PLATFORM IS STATED

Promises to Give Full Time and Attention and Devote Full Amount of Ability to Task of Conducting Affairs of the Office.

A vigorous campaign is being put up throughout the state by the democratic party for the election of O.
P. Coshow of this city to the position of attorney general, made vacant recently by the appointment of Attorney George M. Brown to the Supreme Court bench. Mr. Coshow has been well mentioned in the press

Hon. Oliver P. Coshow, candidate for position of Attorney General.

of "Let's Make It Unanimous for Coshow," has been adopted and is appearing in advertisements and on cards all over the state.

Mr. Coshow states that he desires to express his gratitude to his many friends for the excellent support and assistance already rendered. In speaking of his candidacy, Mr. Co-show says: "The office of Attorney General is judicial, and the Attorney General is described by our statutes as defining his duties as the "law officer of the state, and shall have charge and control of all the legal business of the state, or any office or department thereof, which requires the services of an attorney general to protect the interests of the state."

This discloses that the office is a very important one and imposes a great responsibility. It should be filled by one who has had a long experience at the bar, and has a mature mind and possesses sound judgment. Realizing this it is with no little misgiving that I consented to become a candidate. It will be my earnest endeavor to perform the duties of the office with all my ability, exercised by a diligent and persistent application thereto. I shall keep constantly in mind that I am employed by all the people and not by any part thereof; that I am employed to represent the public and not the private interests of the state in which every one of its citizens has an interest, and that the law forbids me from representing private interests.

"Further, I shall endeavor to perform all of the duties of that great office. As the state has grown in population, wealth and diversified interests, its offices and functions have likewise increased, and the duties of Attorney General have also correspondingly increased. It shall be my earnest endeavor to perform all the duties imposed on that office by law.

"I am most deeply grateful for the exceeding kindness of my friends in Douglas county toward me. The expressions of good will and offers of assistance from my neighbors and friends, regardless of party affiliations, have been so general and generous, that I cannot find words to adequately express my gratitude.
Whether or not I am elected, I shall always hold in grateful remembrance the kindness and generosity of my friends at Roseburg, where I have lived longer than any other place during my life."

AWAY FROM THE SOIL.

Everyone knows that there has been a heavy movement of population from the farm to the city during the past ten years, but the first official report, made public by the census bureau, is less discouraging than expected.

Compilation of returns from about 85 percent of the population indicates that the complete census of continental United States would give us approximately 195,768,199, a gain of 12,795,840, or 15 percent.
It is estimated that 12,172,800 of this increase could reside in cities, while 1,623,040 would be added to the farms.

This movement would make the urban population about 54,796,199, and the rural population 59,972,000.
Ten years ago the farm population exceeded the cities by almost 7,000, 000, there being 49,348,383 in the country and 42,623,383 in the cities.

That the movement from the farm to the city has been very much larger during the past decade than in any other previous ten years, it is to be remembered that we had five years of abnormally heavy movement. It began in 1915, when munition plants and other industries supplying the war needs of the allies drew a considerable number of men and women from the farm. This number steady-ly increased, and after we went into war, there was a tremendous increase. Many of the young men who entered the service from the farm took up work in the cities after they returned. Probably the movement during the last five years of the decade was three times as great as during the first five years. Since few who left the farm went back, nearly all of them this year were enumerated in the cities.

Whether or not there will be a back-to-the-farm movement in the next ten years is problematical. If there should be, it will be slow. The speed with which irrigation and reclamation projects are undertaken and completed will have an important bearing on land settlement. The movement toward good market roads will be another influence, but it is almost certain that the backward movement will be much smaller than the movement away from the farm in 1915.

The immediate problem is to keep upon the farm, those who are now there. We are already out of balance and some way must be found to maintain something like a balance.
The farm must be made to produce enough food for the non-farming elements of our population.

On one point everyone is agreed, and that is that our farm population cannot be materially increased unless farming is made profitable. Some of the evils which have attached themselves to the marketing of farm products must be eliminated. It appears now as if this reform could not be accomplished except by law.
This need brings us face to face with new problems, in the solution of which, the city dweller and the producer of food must co-operate.

For the present and the immediate future, co-operative marketing must remain a state problem, though some modification of the federal antitrust law will have to be made before the way is cleared of legal obstacles. In Oregon, the farmers hope to find relief in the state market commission measure which will be on the November ballot. The decrease in farm population as shown by the first figures from the census bureau invite exceptional attention to the proposal by all classes of citizens.—Portland Telegram.

Former Roseburg Boy Is Married

Announcement was received here today of the marriage of Shirley Goodman, a former Roseburg boy, to Miss Iona Kirk, a Portland girl. The marriage came as a complete surprise to the many friends of Mr. Goodman in this city. Mr. Goodman rescued Miss Kirk several months ago in the Elton Courts fire in Portland. Goodman was trapped on an upper balcony when the flames were creeping toward that part of the building. He tore moss off the walls of the building and improvised gas masks for several of those who were with him. Finally a ladder was put to the balcony below, and Mr. Goodman succeeded in conducting Miss Kirk and her mother to safety. Miss Kirk was quite badly burned and spent several months in a hospital recovering. Mr. Goodman is the manager of the Knight Electric company in Portland, where he has been employed since his return from the service in the U. S. Navy.

Theatre Making Some Improvements

The Antlers theatre is being remodeled in order to make it warmer and more comfortable in winter. The box office is being placed in the center of the present lobby, and the entrance will be to the right of the box office, so that a direct current of air cannot blow into the theatre when the doors are thrown open. This will aid in preventing draughts and will also make the lobby much more attractive. An illuminated bill board has been contracted for on North Jackson street and will be constructed at once.
