GOVERNMENT BY FRAUD.

Harding said in his Der... speech, in discussing the League of Nations... I want to turn my back... It is not interpretation... Root said in his Carnegie Hall... therefore, that the... no League of Nations. The... whether the agreement... accepted absolutely un... or shall be modified to... American objections.

I am sure that my words could not be construed to say that the French Government has sent anybody to me. These exhibits might be continued indefinitely in their revelation of the colossal false pretense of the Republican campaign in respect to the League of Nations. There is no honesty in it; there is no integrity in it; there is no honor in it; there is no truth in it. It represents the lowest degradation of responsible free government.

Voters who favor the League of Nations are urged to support Harding, on the ground that no matter what he may say in his speeches, he is in sympathy with pro-League programme of Root and Taft and Hoover and Wickersham. Voters who oppose the League of Nations are urged to support Harding on the ground that no matter what Root and Taft and Hoover and Wickersham may say, Harding has scrapped the covenant and will keep the United States out of the League of Nations.

It is as if Abraham Lincoln in 1860 had gone before the country both as the enemy of human slavery and the ally of human slavery; a defender of the Union and the champion of secession.

It is as if William McKinley in 1896 had made his campaign as the advocate both of the single gold standard and of the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1. The whole Republican programme of 1920 is based on the premise that the American people are fools, that they are without character or conscience or conviction, that they are volatile and unstable ignoramuses who want a change of government and do not care what happens afterward, whether it be dishonor or disaster or chaos. Certainly in all American history there has never been such a campaign as this conducted by a great political party that habitually boasts of its record and its traditions. There has never been such self-confessed abnegation of principle, such cynical contempt for party responsibility, such a brazen admission that the chief concern of a political organization is to get possession of the offices and then betray the voters who put it in possession of the offices.

The same kind of fraud that is made a penal offense when practised by an individual has been erected into a system of government by the Republican leaders of the United States.

YOU HAD BETTER HURRY. If you have not already done so, you better hurry up and place your order for New Year and Christmas announcements with Bates, the printer, at the News-Review office. A swell line of engraved personal cards to make a selection from, but we must have your order early in order to make deliveries.

The South Deer Creek Grange orchestra has resumed practice for the winter months. This musical organization is very good and enlivens the community life.

A. TOWER CO. ESTABLISHED 1856 BOSTON, MASS.

Movie Closeups William S. Hart, who comes to the Antlers theatre tonight in "The Toll Gate," is said to have the most powerful role of his career as Black Deering, the bandit chieftain in the story which was written by Lambert Hillier and himself. Lambert Hillier is the director. It is a Paramount Aircraft release. This is a typical tale of the west or southwest of the days before the fences came; the days when bad, bold bandit bands, of promiscuous train holdups, with rides from Indians, and desperadoes. It portrays with startling fidelity the characteristics of a picturesque page in the history of the border. Black Deering, leader of the bandit, a rival refuses and leads the quit. A rival refuses and leads the band into a trap selling them out for "thirty pieces of silver." All of them are killed or captured. Deering escapes. He meets the woman who has been deserted by the culprit and his better manhood keeps him from wreaking his vengeance upon her instead of the real traitor. The latter meets his just deserts and Deering goes south and out of the hands of the law, into it is hoped, a better life, his eyes are opened at last to the realization that there are good men and good women in the world after all. Anna Q. Nilson and a fine cast of players are seen in support. Mr. Hart's famous pinto pony is also present. Joe August, A. S. C., made the photographic reproductions.

Capacity audiences at the Liberty theatre yesterday derived great enjoyment from the first showing of the Maurice Tourneur super production, "The Great Redeemer," interpreted by an all star cast including House Peters and Marjorie Daw. It is not stretching the truth to say that the picture registered a profound impression and it was declared by many to be the best photograph they have witnessed this year. The picture will be repeated again tonight.

Certainly Maurice Tourneur has outdone himself in the putting on of this super special. With all the sweep and power of the rugged west it has also a tender story, plenty of "punch," and points out a moral lesson that none can disregard. "The Great Redeemer" narrates the high lights of Dan Malloy, a train bandit. Pursued by a sheriff's posse he takes refuge in the mountain cabin of a beautiful young girl. She comes to love him and he her, when a pal induces him to have another try at train robbing. This he does and is captured and sent to prison. There the work of reform, begun by the girl is completed, when a miracle happens in the grim cell and Dan Malloy finds his soul. William Farnum, the well known Fox star will be seen for the last time today at the Majestic theatre in "Heart Strings." Mr. Farnum is here presented as a violinist whose soul finds expression in exquisite melody. He plays the part of a great hearted French Canadian, whose love for a young sister causes him to renounce an enviable career and devote himself to the care of the girl and her baby. The story is filled with big moments and intensely dramatic situations. It thrills and satisfies. In the cast are Gladys Coburn, Betty Hibburn, Kate Blanche, Paul Casanova, Robert Cain and Rowland G. Edwards. The story was written by Henry Albert Phillips, the scenario is by E. Lloyd Sheldon and the play is directed by J. Gordon Edwards.

HER DAUGHTER AND HIS SON. BY IDAH McGLONE GIBSON. An Unpleasant Experience. Again I looked at Mamie wonderingly. How could she have kept so sweet and full of good humor when every day she was a target for all the tawdry compliments that any man might see fit to give her? In my business life since then I have often wondered why almost every man, old or young, rich or poor, uncouth or polished, thinks he can attract any woman he may desire. Many times I have known men who seemed to think that with a silly compliment or two they could make a conquest even though the compliment were expressed in the most atrocious English. I have just found that a man never looks upon a woman impersonally. She is never just a human being. She is either his mother, his wife, his sister or a prospective romance or flirtation. However, at the time of my experience as hat checker, I had no parallel from which to draw conclusions, and it had never occurred to me that girls in business life had to put up with these things. Another would be flatterer tried to catch my hand as I held it out for his hat. Mamie came forward, saying under her breath, "Just act as if you didn't see it. It's nothing my dear after you get used to it." "Do you have much of this sort of stuff to put up with?" I asked as there came a lull. "Well, you can stand it up to a certain point. You can make a man groochy, and for your own sake you can't give him too much encouragement. You'll soon learn to have an answer ready—that is if you stay. But I don't think you'll stick. You don't seem to fit in."

Why stand for them any longer?

The Remedy is simple: Vote the Republican ticket on November 2 and put the United States Government on a sane, constructive, protective basis, in the hands of competent men.

Here's the way out:

"The Republican party reaffirms its belief in the protective principle and pledges itself to a revision of the tariff as soon as conditions shall make it necessary for the preservation of the home market for American labor, agriculture and industry." — Republican Platform.

"I propose to do all in my power, if elected, to restore the Protective Tariff and stop the dumping of cheap foreign goods and agricultural products on the American market in competition with and to the great detriment of our farmers and workers." — Robert N. Stanfield.

Harding and Coolidge need a Republican Senate and House to re-enact a Protective Tariff. Send them Stanfield and Hawley.

Vote the Republican Ticket Straight.
