Many Douglas Co.
 Students at U. of O.

(By Jean Strachan)
 Roseburg has eighteen of the forty young men and women from Douglas county attending the state University at Eugene this year. Oakland is next in line, six giving that address. Riddle and Sutherlin have three. Wilbur, Myrtle Creek and Gardiner are each represented by two. Youella, Canyonville Drain and Glendale each have one representative.
 Eighteen departments are mentioned in the list of major subjects: Commerce leading with eight, and Pro Medics and English Literature coming second with four each. Mathematics and music have three majors. There are three, also, who are special students at the Eugene Bible University. Physical education, Law and Physics each have two students while one has chosen each of the Languages, Rhetoric, Economics, Architecture, German, History, Education and Biology.
 The list of students includes five seniors, six juniors, six sophomores, nineteen freshmen and four special students.

Farce Comedy Is Gem of Optimism

For smart comedy there is no dramatic writer of the day who can excel George V. Hobart. Co-author with Herbert Hall Winslow, of "Just Around the Corner," a new comedy gem produced by G. M. Anderson, which is due at the Antlers theatre on the night of November 10th.
 G. M. Anderson who recently brought his stupendous "Privileges of 1920" to the Pacific Coast with marked artistic and financial success, scored a notable triumph in New York last season with "Just Around the Corner." It fairly reeked with quaint situations and bubbling humor. The story deals with a pretentious New York Society widow who suddenly finds herself in financial straits and who decides to go to a small country village to conduct a general merchandise store left by her late husband. The advent of the society woman in this queer village and the effort to drive her out, form the basis of the action. The widow,

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Streit and Mrs. Susan Fairbanks sister of Mrs. Streit, arrived in Roseburg this morning from Hewitt, Minnesota, to make an extended visit here with Mrs. Streit's two sisters, Mrs. T. W. Devaney and Mrs. George Hess.
 Ernest A. Cass, who, for several years has been operating a garage at Marshfield has disposed of his interests at that place and will return to Roseburg in a short time to remain permanently. He is now in the city but will leave tomorrow for the town of Marshfield and will drive a car to this city.
