THIS IS SOME DICTIONARY

Arabic Affairs Used by Scholars in 20 Volumes and Weighs About 100 Pounds.

The ponderous dictionaries of Europe, even the famous many-volumed etymological Index of Larousse, which is the monumental work of all modern tongues, are more than surpassed, says the New York Sun, by the Arabic dictionaries of 500 years ago, which are still the great authority for students in that language.

The Arabic dictionary most used by scholars who are familiar with no other language is in 20 quarto volumes and weighs close to 100 pounds. There is a 50-pound ten-volume abridgment of it, presumably for use at home. This and virtually all the Arabic dictionaries were made in the time of the Harun-al-Rashid.

The Islamic empire is credited by Moslems with two great eras. The first was that of conquest, when the only history was written with the sword. Then came centuries of Mohammedan domination, when the Moslems peacefully held the empires they had conquered in Asia and in the Iberian peninsula. During these art and literature flourished and the Arabic dictionary was born. In Arabia the flower of this period was in the golden time of Caliph Harun-al-Rashid.

Each of the words that have been familiar in the daily life of the nomad Arabs for centuries has an enormous number of synonyms. The lion, for example, was feared by villagers and hunted not only for sport but as a matter of necessity. Therefore in the Arabic dictionary the lion has more than a hundred different names. The camel was the sole means of transportation across the thirsty deserts and is characterized in 122 different ways.

But above all, the horse and the sword were the two great stand-bys of the Arab. There are more than 200 words that convey ideas of "horse" and "sword." All other familiar words, such as tent, flock, herds, water, woman, sun and air, have long lists of synonyms that are interchangeable and in constant use. This affords some slight explanation why Arabic dictionaries are of so large size.

Arabic, so the Arabs say, was the language of the Babylonians, and it is also contended by them that it was the tongue which Abraham spoke.

Younger Generation of Women Said to Look for Utility When Presents Are in Question.

One must mingle with the younger generation to comprehend the changing standards of domestic life. Those things once the heart's desire of women have not lost their charm, we are told. While the proverbial route to a man's heart has not changed its roadbed, and good cooking is still the trade-mark of a desirable wife, yet anniversary expressions of a husband's love are said to be changing in form.

The new note in utility. This is exemplified by a story that comes to us from one who recently visited a young couple while they discussed their approaching anniversary. "I think I shall get Ruth a necklace," the young husband said. Ruth demurred. What then did she wish, was his query, with the suggestion of a diamond or a piece of mahogany furniture, or some other embellishment for the home.

"If you really insist on a present," she said, "I have always wanted an electric washer and a vacuum cleaner."

This suggests the story of the negro bridegroom who, when the honeymoon waned, brought home a heavily mirrored dressing table and a washbowl. "Now, Mandy," he said, "you can sit down in front of this and watch yourself starve to death, or you can use this tub and earn yo' livin'."—Omaha Bee.

IDEAL SERVANTS IN MEXICO

One May Get a Descendant of the Incas and a Friend for Life, for $15 a Month.

Mexico is Utopia for American housewives, for there is no servant problem there, according to Mrs. S. C. Dunlop, wife of the chief engineer of Cia Transcontinental de Petrolco, the Mexican branch of the Standard Oil company.

"Ten years ago I could hire any servant for $2 a month," she said, "and now I have to pay only from $10 to $15. Often in my kitchen I have a descendant of the Incas making my bread, and when a Mexican Indian—who must not be confused with a peon—really attaches himself or herself to you, you have not only a servant, but a friend for life, one who really looks after your interests.

"Of course, in Mexico, as well as anywhere else, the servants stand on their rights." The cook only cooks and does not wash dishes; the chambermaid will have nothing to do with the kitchen; but after all, the wages of the five or six servants do not equal those of one servant in New York.

"I hear my New York friends groaning because the food of the servants costs more than their own table. Now, if you give your Mexican Indian her tortillas (cakes) and her beans with plenty of chili, she is perfectly satisfied and scorns a more elaborate diet."

ONE'S JOB MUST COME FIRST

Salary Should Be a Secondary Object for the Man Who Is Anxious to Advance.

I have never known a young man to advance far when he thought much about his salary while at work, or who let that salary have anything to do with the interest he was putting into his job. The job is the chance, the opportunity, to show what you are made of, to show what you have for sale—your ability, your personality.

If you have something unusual for sale you may be sure you have what every employer is always looking for. If you are alert, enthusiastic, original, if you try to stamp everything that goes through your hands with superiority, you may be sure that you will soon find a place at the front with commensurate salary.

On the other hand, the man who drags through just enough work to get by, who gets to his job when he has to and watches the clock for time to go home will not see his salary envelope fatten very rapidly.

Quibbling over one's salary has spoiled many a career. It is not what you are paid for doing, but what you do that you are not paid for that is the key to the position above you. This is almost invariably the case. The service you render which you are not obliged to give is the thing that attracts your employer.—Orison Swett Marden in Chicago Daily News.

Thermometer Deterioration.

Even thermometers become old, and consequently inaccurate with age, mercurial instruments reading too high and spirit instruments too low. In the former case the bulb appears to shrink, thus forcing the quicksilver too far up the stem. This gradual shrinkage is supposed to be due to the fact that the external pressure on the bulb may be considerably higher than the internal pressure, the air as far as possible having been removed before the glass is sealed. On the other hand, the spirit thermometer is sealed with the bulb covered in a freezing mixture, in order to lock up in the glass as much air as possible. The instrument thus starts with the internal pressure which in time appears to be reduced either by expansion of the glass under the internal pressure or by leakage.—Scientific American.
