Home From College—
George Willett, a student at the U. of O., arrived here yesterday morning and spent the day with his buddies helping them to celebrate. Two years ago George was celebrating in "Sunny France," and he states that yesterday's weather reminded him of his sloppy time in Brest.

John Ashworth, overseas veteran, who is now rusticiating in the mountainous district of Tiller on a homestead, arrived in Roseburg early yesterday morning all dolled up in an O. D. uniform. John said that the uniform had been thoroughly decontaminated.

A Few Moonshiners Were Busy—
The officers reported several "jags" last night but very little disorder. The few drunks were not Legion men, but others who were "having a good time" at the expense of the Legionnaires, who were trying to make the day's celebration a clean one. The officers commended the "jags" on their excellent conduct of yesterday.

Pass Through—
Misses Eva and Evree Applegate, former teachers in the Roseburg schools, passed through Roseburg Wednesday evening and were greeted at the station here by a number of friends. They have been visiting their parents at Youcalla for the past few weeks, and were enroute back to Atlanta, Georgia, where they are doing reconstruction work among the returned soldiers.

Boy Scouts on the Job—
The two patrol of the local Boy Scouts were on the job the first thing in the morning and to the last thing at night. Their hearty cooperation which served to make the celebration a success, was greatly appreciated by Umpqua post. The Wright, who will visit there for a short time.

A Sign of Welcome—
The Umpqua Hotel yesterday had a big sign hung above their doors bearing the words "Welcome, Buddies." Many of the ex-service men took advantage of this hospitality and between events lounged around in the spacious lobby. Nothing was too good for the soldiers yesterday and they showed their sincere appreciation by putting over one of the best celebrations Roseburg has ever been privileged to witness.

One "Smart Guy"—
During the parade staged in connection with the Armistice Day celebration held in Roseburg yesterday, a party driving a large Cadillac car, and none of the occupants ex-service men, "cut in" behind the tank and the marching Legionnaires at the corner of Lane and Jackson streets, and evidently intended on continuing down the street until another intersection was reached. Those in charge of the parade, however, soon "spotted him" and told him in words more positive than polite, just where he belonged. So far as is known, this was the only case of "cutting in" in the day's program of events.

Jack Roach will be on hand at Drain depot paying highest market prices for turkeys, same as last year. Remember it was through him you got that extra bonus Xmas. He will do all he can to co-operate with the producer to obtain more money for turkeys than they get elsewhere. Inquire for market day. (Adv.)
