Jerry Proposes.

"Do you mean to tell me, Jerry," she asked when he had told me that he never paid attention to a woman for which she did not ask, "do you mean to tell me" for even then she did not take him seriously, "that you are lavishing you to propose to me?"

"I am sorry Jerry, but it must be," she said, "I may come and see you at the restaurant when I am glad, Ann, that I can at the moment have that effect on your face."

"I looked at Jerry Hathaway in surprise, and I wondered what it was made both Jim and he, both splendid fellows, despite their somewhat unpolished manners. I had not known these two men. I had even so much sorrow in the game of hearts as it played at the restaurant when I had there; and here I had found two young men who seemed to be true blue."

if, as Jerry said, the woman invited it.

All the way back to the house my mind was in a jumble. Why wasn't it possible for me to love one of the two men who had just proposed marriage to me? Why must my vagrant heart keep turning to Kenneth Halsey, who, probably had never thought of me except as a good little childhood pal?

But I was determined that I would try and bring Kenneth to me. Other men had told me that I was just as fair as Grace Cameron; other men had told me that they cared more for me than they ever possibly could care for her. In my heart I knew that I was more worthy and in my soul I knew I could make him happier than Grace Cameron ever would.

Although Jerry was driving his car at high speed, I suddenly noted that he was taking me out through the park.

"Oh, Jerry, you must not—you must not do this, I have an engagement at home, a very important one. My voice trembled a little as I had thought that possibly Kenneth and his father might come and go away again, for I remembered of Ken's imperative request that I should break Jerry's engagement for him."

"I beg your pardon," said Jerry contritely. "You did not tell me you had an engagement. I will take you back immediately, but if it is with Jim Callahan, I shall feel like driving into a tree or something."

I saw from this rejoinder that Jerry had gotten back into his old smiling self. Unconsciously I drew a little closer to him. He was so big, so handsome, so gentle, a real tower of strength. I understood that if I could love him enough to marry him I would never want for anything more. "This is the man you would marry if you had the disposition of Grace Cameron," I said to myself; and yet, even as I said it, my heart seemed racing, racing back to the house where I should look into the eyes of Kenneth Halsey. "Hurry, Jerry, hurry!" I said breathlessly. "I must not miss this engagement. It is very important."

Jerry said nothing, but the car leaped forward. We broke all of the speed ordinances before we drew up at the modest flat building which I called my home.

"Mr. Halsey is in the living room," said Mammie, as I came in the tiny hallway. My heart sank, for I knew that he had not come with his father.

A. E. F. Buddies Meet Once More

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 15—When T. A. Ryan, member of the Cuyahoga County Council of the American Legion and the Henry P. Shupe post at Cleveland, was hurrying in search of a doctor to preside at the birth of a baby girl, he did not dream he would meet one of his ex-service comrades in the person of the doctor.

Ryan's family physician was away and Dr. C. A. Sibilla, a hospital physician consented to attend.

"Haven't I seen you before," Ryan asked, when the first proud thrill of fatherhood had passed.

"Just once," said Dr. Sibilla. "It was in Ireland two years ago. You were on leave from France, and I was just returning to my ship. Do you remember how astounded we were when we found out we were both from Cleveland?"

DEAR OLD PETE:

Just wound up the one swellest day of my life! Since early this morning, when I got an invitation to visit P. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. factories, I've been in the midst of millions of Camel cigarettes.

Man—the happiest idea you or I ever had as to the size of this Reynolds enterprise, or the number of Camels manufactured daily, is simply piker-stuff! Wipe off the slate and start fresh! Why—Pete, it seemed to me like a couple of those cigarette-making machines could keep half the nation smoking Camels steadily—BUT—honest to goodness, there are hundreds of these machines batting out Camels at the rate of 27,000 an hour—EACH!

Pete, you wouldn't have to consult a guide book to know you were in the Camel factories! The atmosphere is charged with that wonderful aroma you get when you open up a deck of Camels! And, you know, old elephant—you've had a trunk full!

As the Camels dropped into the containers I figured the delight each one would supply! And, how Camels mellow, mild body would hit the right spot and how Camels refreshing flavor would cheer up some smoker's jaded appetite! And, each Camel free from any unpleasant cigarette aftertaste or unpleasant cigarette odor! And—

Pete—I'll have to lay off and light another Camel! Write you some more soon.

Yours joyously
