FIRST OF ZONE MEETINGS SATURDAY

Teachers Gather In Roseburg For Purpose of Discussing School Problems.

OVER FIFTY PRESENT

Five Schools in County Almost to Minimum Mark for Standardization as Result of Campaign Started Here Recently.

The first zone educational meeting to be held in the State of Oregon was held in Roseburg Saturday and was a great success.

The meeting here was held at the high school building and was attended by over 50 teachers. The program was carried out in full and practically all took part in the discussions.

The standard requirements provide for proper lighting, heating, ventilation, certain equipment, etc. The new standard has only recently been approved and adopted, and these schools are the highest in the county in the list of requirements.

It was extremely gratifying to those in charge to learn the measure of support being given the campaign for standardization of the elementary schools. The roll call showed that the teachers have been holding conferences with the school boards, and have interested the directors in the standardization plan.

The teachers report that they are being given the best of co-operation and are very enthusiastic. Practically the entire morning was given over to a discussion of the standardizing campaign. A short talk on the "Better Speech" was given by Prof. H. Gustin and this was followed by a discussion of the subject.

In the afternoon the program included a talk on "The Necessity of Better Rural School Conditions," by Wilfred Brown and "The Rural School Program," by Mrs. Manlio Cachelin. These addresses were followed by discussions, and late in the afternoon a general discussion of the school problems was had by Mrs. O. C. Brown school supervisor.

These meetings will be held frequently in the county, a schedule having been adopted recently, which will give teachers in all sections an opportunity to join in one or more of these conferences.

DANVILLE, Va., Nov. 21.—Girls students at the Adolph Macon Institute, part of the great Southern Methodist institution, have been told in blunt terms they must wear their stockings as their mothers taught them and not in conformity with fashion's latest edict.

From sources of unquestioned authority comes word that within the next few days the faculty of teachers are called together and served with what was little short of an ultimatum to the student body.

QUAINT OLD-WORLD CUSTOMS

Whitsuntide Superstition in Parts of England—Annual "Cheese Rolling" in Small Village.

An old superstition still lingers in some parts of England, notably Derbyshire, and induces people to rise unusually early on Whitsuntide morning in order that they may see the sun rise, for they frankly believe that whitsover request is proffered the Almighty at that particular moment is certain to be granted.

The county of Northampton celebrates an old custom, dating from the time of Queen Elizabeth, once in 20 years. The scene of it is the village of Curby.

Very early on White Monday, bands of men are stationed at the by-ways of the parish, who demand toll of all pedestrians. Should they refuse, they are seized, hoisted on a stout pole, and carried to the village amidst the cheers and jeers of the spectators.

The origin of the "cheese rolling" which takes place yearly in the quiet little village of Biddip, in the Cheltenham district, is lost, like many more, in the mists of antiquity, but local sentiment forbids it dying out. A substantial round cheese is set rolling down a steep hill with all the young and active members of the population in hot pursuit.

BEAR MOST POWERFUL BEAST

Easily King of Them All, as Far as His Physical Strength Can Be Estimated.

A man rowing does one-third as much work as an ox plowing. An ox plowing does a little more than half the work of an average cart-horse hauling a ton of coal.

A camel carrying 500 pounds on its back is nearly equal to two average horses, while an elephant, which will bear a load of half a ton or lift a log of oak of the same weight, is worth in muscular power rather more than three good camels.

The lion, usually known as the king of beasts, is by no means the strongest. Its strength is estimated as that of six men only, while that of a full-grown Indian tiger is a third greater.

Neither of these animals is equal in muscular power to the bear tribe, of which the polar and the grizzly are the strongest. A grizzly weighing about 1,000 pounds has been seen to carry a steer weighing 800 pounds up a steep mountain-side for over half a mile. Its strength is at least twice that of a lion.

A gorilla four feet six inches in height has the strength of four strong men. It can bend double a pair of 12-bore gun barrels in its paw.

The African buffalo and the Indian gaur—or wild ox—are the two largest and most powerful of the buffalo tribe. It is doubtful if 12 men could hold a gaur, which stands as much as six feet high, and is over eight feet in length.

Attorneys O. P. Coshaw and Dexter Rice left this morning for Oakland to attend to business matters for the day.
