Witty Writings About 'Us Humans'

The Darwinian theory of our origin if often the topic of considerable debate. Whether or not we "humans" are descended from the apes does not worry us greatly. One thing we are quite sure of is that we all possess a sense of humor. We enjoy the witty writings about "humans" and animals and what not screened in theaters throughout America in "Topics of the Day" films. Just to prove our contention that a sense of humor is found in all people—even as you and I—the News-Review presents some selections of witty wordings all about animals and "humans:"

Out in Kansas a Mrs. Monkey at the zoo has given birth to a little monkey. And the little devil is so thin they've named it Georgette.—Ithica (N. Y.) Journal.

"A San Francisco man brought suit for divorce, objecting to his wife bringing a pet lion to bed with her." Gee! Some husbands are certainly finicky!—Helena (Montana) Independent.

About the only advantage a horse has is that he doesn't have to take off his shoes when he goes to bed.—Galveston News.

A horse bit the rear tire of our neighbor's auto and blew out his teeth.—Edmonton (Canada) Journal.

Walter Little, our well known fellow-townsman, was packing blackberries last week and was badly gassed by a skunk.—Arkansas Thomas Cat.

The chief aim of every alligator's life is to become a satchel.—Border Cities (Ontario) Star.

"Look, mother," cried Willie, pointing to the elephant, "he's bigger than h—l, ain't he?" "Willie!! How many times must I tell you never to say ain't?"—Boston Transcript.

A Prominent Druggist Testifies

Redondo Beach, Calif.—"I wish to call attention to my experience in the sale of Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets. I have never sold an article that has given such universal satisfaction. It seems that every bottle sold sells another. I am very much inclined, like most druggists of today, to sell the 'long shot' stuff at a greater profit, or something 'just as good,' but in suggesting Anuric for uric acid and rheumatism I consider I have not only created business along that line but have gained the confidence of the public which more than repays me for my interest and suggestion, together with the satisfaction I get from having an article that I can place with perfect confidence. Nothing would please me more than to be able to introduce Anuric to the world for the benefit of all mankind. However, I have to content myself by simply calling attention to the satisfactory results that follow as reported to me by the individuals, extending their thanks."—C. D. KNOX.

Many of Your Neighbors Can Say the Same

Tuolumne, Calif.:—"My back gave me considerable trouble, which I thought was due to kidney disease. After taking four packages of Dr. Pierce's Anuric (anti-uric-acid) Tablets I was fully recovered. I consider it a wonderful medicine, I also use Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets whenever I am bilious, and they give immediate relief. I consider them a great medicine."—WM. H. BOSCH.

HER DAUGHTER AND HIS SON.

BY IDAH McGLONE GIBSON

The Sins of the Father.

I left the room hurriedly for I felt that I could stand no more. It was the first time in my life that I had looked upon a human soul, naked and unashamed of its festering sores. I had come in contact with something so disgusting, so debased, that I was physically nauseated. I needed aid and the light of day.

So I walked to the hospital where I knew that Mr. Halsey was awaiting me, and I almost hoped that when I arrived there I would find Kenneth dead. It seemed to me that when he awakened to the consequences of the step he had taken, he would not want to live. And then I smiled to myself, because I was sure that Grace Cameron had never shown Kenneth the side of her nature she had revealed to me today.

Would she show this side of herself now that she had him, I asked myself? And I felt sure that she would, for sooner or later we must all doff our masks.

It was with heavy heart that I went into the reception room where I found Mr. Halsey pacing up and down.

One glance at my face and he said: "Then it is true."

I bowed my head and asked: "Hasn't Kenneth told you since I've been gone?"

"No. He sank back into a stupor soon after you left, but he seems to be sleeping peacefully and the doctors say he is out of danger.

"But Ann, honestly, I would rather see him dead than in the power of those two harpies. They will squeeze him dry, not only financially, but of his love of life and confidence in human nature. They will destroy all the good that is in him. What shall I do, Ann, what shall I do?" He came forward and taking my hands in both of his own, looked into my face.

"It's a pretty rotten world, isn't it, dear?"

I threw back my head and looked into his eyes.

"No, Mr. Halsey, it's not. It's a beautiful old world. The only trouble is we make it sometimes what it was never intended to be. You will forgive me, Mr. Halsey, if I say that you never have trained Ken in the way of right living."

"But he hasn't been a bad boy," he interrupted eagerly.

"No, he hasn't been bad, simply because his nature was sweet, but you have been selfish and he has been selfish. You did not tell him when he was doing wrong, because you did not wish to make yourself unhappy, and you have brought him up to think that his comfort, and what he thinks is his happiness, were of more importance to him than any service that he might render others."

"Ann, dear, where did you get these ideas?"

"From my mother, Mr. Halsey. I learned from her that the finest happiness in life lies in serving.

"It's just the difference, dear Mr. Halsey, between the philosophy of a man of the world—a philosophy of polished and good mannered selfishness which he teaches his son—and the spirit of a good woman like my mother, a spirit which she tried to instill into her daughter. My mother did not dream that I should meet the experiences which have come to me. And you, Mr. Halsey, had no idea that Kenneth would not be able to turn all of his worldly experiences to advantage. I have had to face the world in ignorance; Kenneth has learned that knowledge of consequences is not a sufficient barrier against temptation. Character must be more firmly built."

"Ann! Ann!" exclaimed Mr Halsey, "Why didn't you marry Kenneth?"

Conflagration Does Damage Liverpool

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—A half dozen men who were preparing to start a fire for destruction of a large lumber yard in the Finsbury district of London were surprised by a lone policeman Saturday night at about the same time several fires broke out in the cotton warehouses at Liverpool. The officer charged the lotterers, but the men showed fight, and while the officer arrested one of the gang his companions drew revolvers and compelled the policeman to liberate the man. All of the men made their getaway before reinforcements could reach the scene.

Discussing the incendiary fires at Liverpool Saturday night, which flames broke out in the warehouse district at several places almost simultaneously, Edward Shortt, home secretary, told the house of commons today that there was no doubt the fires were started following an organized Sinn Fein conspiracy against the government as a result of the Irish situation. The public gallery in the house of commons were cleared today, while the house of parliament was guarded by extra forces of police, owing to fear of violence from Sinn Feiners.
