might marks the opening night of the new policy of the Majestic in showing their big feature for three and four days. They will open tonight with the new Paramount-Artcraft picture classic, "Everywoman."

of action. The settings were designed with an eye to the fanciful, the gorgeous and the striking. While there are moments required by the exigencies of the plot when the sordid must be presented by way of contrast, the scope of wondrous charm and color. The gowns worn in the picture are the creations of Clare West, of the Lasky costume department, while the bathing and chorus suits were designed by George Hopkins. All are advance models, exquisitely designed and composed of the richest fabrics obtainable. They form a veritable fashion show, and many changes are afforded both the principals and the extra people—the latter reaching into many hundreds. The production as directed by G. H. Melford marks an epoch in the artistry and the beauty of the screen entertainment, for not alone is the picture physically beautiful, but the story itself possesses a charm and a compelling power that is inescapable. "The Fortune Teller," Picturized by Albert Capellini, and released by Robertson-Cole, will be the feature attraction at the Liberty theatre for the last time today. Renee Browning, (Miss Rambau) Horatio Browning, scientist, believes in the superstition that cards reveal the future. Her jealous, tyrannical husband, occupied with his scientific researches scoffs at her only pastime but Renee braves his displeasure by reading the cards whenever the opportunity offers. The ace of spades, the card of ill omen, persists in turning up. And at the very moment when the cold, calculating scientist is engaged in a diatribe against the fulfillment of his wife's harmless enjoyment, tragedy stalks in. And tragedy holds the attention of the spectator until mother love triumphs over seemingly hopeless obstacles, convincing the hard hearted husband of the insecurity of his position, and brings to the long suffering wife the happiness she had longed for. Miss Rambau, who completely dominates the picture, is supported by an excellent cast, including E. Fernandez, who played the heavy in the stage production, Frederick Burton, Raymond McKee, T. M. Koupal, Franklin Hanna, Virginia Lee and Cyprian Giles. William Farnum puts one of his most dramatic and intense fights ever staged into the thrilling ending of his new protoplasm, "Wolves of the Night," a fight into which Farnum throws himself with the agility of an athlete and the skill of a champion. As the desperate man, resolved to win back his wife, child and fortune from devilish schemers, he locks himself in a room, attacks the three who attempt to coerce him with a pistol, and there, in an stirring encounter as has ever been picturized, baffles them. The fight, which is just one of the many intensely thrilling and most appealing scenes in that compelling photoplay, "Wolves of the Night," a William Fox production, showing at the Antlers theatre tonight. It is another demonstration of the surprises Farnum has up his sleeve. It proves that Farnum, popular, handsome, magnetic though he is, is no mere matinee idol, but a man's man for all his charm and a man of power in the bargain. No Penalty Set For African Golf charged Thomas Hagsdale who was before him on a charge of having violated the anti-gambling law and was arrested on a charge of shooting craps. In general according to the court, the law specifies certain games which are prohibited and erects a permanent barrier on all the percentage games or those with a banking feature. Craps, unless banked, would not fall within either prohibition. As crap shooters in numbers are being arrested daily in various towns of the state, lawyers believe that the ruling of the court will be used very frequently as a precedent. NOTICE TO PUBLIC.
