Sounds a Little Like Old Times

PORT AU PRINCE, Dec. 18.— Labor and living are cheap in Hayti. There is a hotel in Port au Prince, rated as the best, that charges only $4.00 a day for a room and three square meals. True, the rooms are small, with the ancient wash-bowl, and unlockable, with concrete floors and rugs, but they are clean and comfortable.

The same meals could not be obtained anywhere in the United States at double the price. Luncheon is a regular dinner, and dinner is much like an eight-course feast. They never serve less than two or three meals, when one, according to the American habit would be enough. There is fruit in abundance in Hayti, and a boy standing on the front porch, overlooking the sea, often picks the breakfast oranges.

The favorite dish is the chicken, served 365 days in the year without the least variation. Nobody ever wants to see a chicken after staying three weeks in Hayti. A Haytian boy waiting faithfully on a guest for 21 meals, beams his delight when tipped three gourdes, which is sixty cents. The maid, whose chief duty is to spread the mosquito net, almost drops to her knees for the same fee weekly. The boy who fetches the water and fixes the shoes gladly slips a man extra towels for three gourdes a week.

Laundry at American rates would cost more than room and board in Hayti if there were laundries. There is much to go out from each room daily to washerwomen, and it comes back spick and span at nominal cost.

But Hayti has not reached the point where it may bid for tourist travel. A man stopping at the best hotel here for the first time, feels rather foolish when he asks for room and bath and is conducted to a little house 50 feet away where he may get a shower. It's a hard life for women.

The best, however, is in sharp contrast with the worst, for the laborer gets twenty cents a day, and thousands of natives live only on fruit that grows wild everywhere, the year round, like roses.

Fine Sermon Last Evening

"John, the Wild Man, Converted," was the subject last night of Evangelist Jerry Jeter in the old army revival. Mr. Jeter is a democratic sort of a preacher and any who hear him speak are generally convinced that he is a friendly sort, too, but "dead in earnest" about his work. He said last night in his sermon:

"I ran across John, the wild man, over in the 5th chapter of Mark. John, poor fellow, had become demon-possessed. They had no place to care for him in those days, so they put him out in the tombs to live with the dead. I'm sure the graveyard is not a pleasant place to live in—one night in a graveyard would be more than any of us would want.

"John was all to the bad. We call people like that crazy. From the standpoint of psychology, no one is crazy. You call central and ask for 42, and 116 answers, and after you have said, 'is this 42?' about five times, you proceed to tell central what you think of her and that she can come down and take the old phone out for all your care; that you haven't got it on your wall for a decoration, and that if you can't get the number you want, central and all the telephone companies in the world can go over the hill for all you care. Central says, 'I beg your pardon, but a storm wrecked the wires last night; the wires are all crossed up.' John was hit by the storm that started in the Garden of Eden."

From five to sixteen are coming forward every night when the evangelist makes the call.

"Prayers That Lift Men" will be his subject Sunday morning, and at night he will speak on "The sort of a young man a young woman should marry." Mrs. Jeter will speak in the afternoon at 3 o'clock on "Altruism."

Mr. Jeter speaks tonight.

Would Preserve Scenic Beauties

Governor Ben W. Olcott is leading a movement in the state for the preservation of the natural scenic spots along the highways of the state, and has asked the co-operation of the local chamber of commerce in this regard. Owners of land bordering the highways are being asked when they clear the land they leave a few trees for shade. Groves, parks, and camping spots are being left untouched wherever possible and a strong effort is being put forth to make the highway scenic spots where people can travel in comfort. In writing to the chamber of commerce, Governor Olcott says: "No doubt through the press you have noticed the efforts that are being made to preserve Oregon's natural beauty spots, especially the scenic natural beauties along our highways, for the benefit of ourselves, tourists and posterity."

"While I hope that legislation may be enacted to assist in this move, continuation of the strong public sentiment favoring it is essential and you and your organization may assist materially in this regard.

"May I ask your organization to watch out for and protect as far as possible your scenic assets locally and aid in this campaign for continued public opinion? Any suggestions you may offer will be sincerely appreciated."

VERY ENJOYABLE SOCIAL

The G. A. R. and the W. R. C. had a very enjoyable time Friday at meeting, which is held once each enjoyed themselves by talking and telling jokes for an hour, and then the meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Belle Case. America was sung by all Mrs. Fullerton presiding at the piano. The Santa Claus appeared and distributed gifts from a nice Christmas tree which was loaded down with presents, everyone receiving a gift from his hands. After all had enjoyed looking at their gifts, refreshments were served by the ladies of the W. R. C., those having birthdays in October and November being entitled to sit at the first table. There were over twenty, and as Mr. and Mrs. Fullerton had a wedding anniversary the day before, they were seated at the head of the table as the guests of honor. Mr. and Mrs. Fullerton have enjoyed 46 years of wedded life together and we all hope they may live to enjoy many more.

The tables were loaded down with good things to eat, such as pies, and cakes and cookies and many other things, including coffee, which the ladies of the W. R. C. certainly know how to make.

One of the most enjoyable things was some home made taffy, made by Mr. W. E. Page, who, though 79 years of age and is nearly blind he knows how to make good candy.

The ladies of the W. R. C. presented Mrs. Belle Case, the president, with a very pretty fruit dish in token of the esteem in which she is held by the members of the organization.

A very large crowd was in attendance, there being nearly 100 and all said good-bye with regret wishing the events could come more often, as all seemed to enjoy this meeting more than any of the year.

Fruit Growers are Receiving Money

Although there has been little cash buying of apples and pears this year, growers have been receiving some money and prices on an average have been good. The Rupert company has paid cash for Bartlett pears at from $85 to $95 per ton, which is an extraordinary price. Hunt Brothers Co. of Salem had the Overland orchards Bartletts and some others, paying $90 a ton cash. One car of Howell pears from the Overland orchards brought $2141 net cash, f. o. b. Roseburg, or about $3 a box.

The apple market has been rather a hard proposition this year, and cash buyers have been conspicuous by their absence. Nevertheless growers have been receiving some money. The Overland Fruit company sold to W. H. Glafke Co. early in the season, and Charles A. Brand, who represents the Glafke Co. here, has received and distributed to growers $10,000 to date. This covers the Jonathans and all but the very last of the Spitzenbergs. Very few Newtowns have been shipped to date by this company, but Mr. Brand expects to load several cars next week.

P.-T. MEETS. The Parent-Teacher association of the Wilbur schools held their regular meeting on Friday evening at the school house. A short business session was held, followed by a program. Mrs. G. W. Short played two instrumental solos, and the vocal trio consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Grae and Miss Helen Grae, sang several songs. Community singing of patriotic songs followed, and a social hour and dainty lunch was enjoyed. Cakes for the event were furnished by Mesdames Short, Howard, McClarnahan, Grae, Fraser and Demick.
