Scotland Voting on Prohibition

LONDON, Dec. 29.—Voting on the prohibition question in Scotland has been going on in the more remote districts for a month or more, and the final result will probably not be known until the end of the year.

The latest returns are: 196 localities for no change in the present system; 24 for limitation of saloon licenses, and 23 for the abolition of existing licenses.

W. E. "Passyfoot" Johnson, the American "dry" campaigner, stated to an interviewer at Bradford the other day that he was very satisfied with the results so far, which meant the closing down of 292 saloons in Scotland.

Asked how long he thought it would take to make Britain dry, Mr. Johnson said he believed that England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales would be bone-dry in 10 years.

The Cambridge Union, the well-known university society, held a debate the other day on prohibition and voted against prohibition 211 to 203.

Toy makers eagerly seized upon the "passyfoot" notion for the Christmas season, and all sorts of toys, dolls and mechanical devices have been adapted to the idea.

Juvenile Courts In This County

It is estimated, on the basis of a questionnaire study made by the children's bureau of the U. S. department of labor, that 175,000 children were brought before courts in the U. S. in a year. Of these, 50,000 came before courts not adapted to handling children's cases.

Although every state except one had laws providing for juvenile probation, according to the investigations of the bureau, less than half the courts hearing children's cases actually had probation services. The majority of the courts failed to make adequate investigation of the child's home and family circumstances, his physical and mental condition, and his personal tendencies.

Especially in small towns and rural districts the child is still subjected to the unsocialized treatment which the juvenile court was designed to displace.

However, certain important tendencies are noted in juvenile court work. The intelligent methods worked out by the best courts are being adopted by others. Facilities for mental and physical examinations are being extended. Co-operation between the courts and other social agencies has been increasing, and in some instances social agencies have given the service of trained social workers for probation work.

A further development is indicated in the tendency to merge the cases of children with those of their families, and to try them before "family" or "domestic relations" courts. In this way the child is dealt with as a member of his family and all the family circumstances are taken into account.

California Team Has Fine Training

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Dec. 23.—Attacks against opposing lines, mainly off tackle, featured the 1920 offensive of the University of California's undefeated football team which is to play Ohio State at Pasadena, Cal., New Year's day.

California made little use of the forward pass this year, probably because at no time was the team ever hard pressed. Only in the game against Stanford University did the Blue and Gold men "open up" and show they were effective in an aerial offensive. In the last period, with the game already won, California tried several passes and most of them were successful.

Charges through center have scored nearly as many California yards as have bucks off tackle. End runs have also brought in gains. But the main attack has been off tackle, with the two big Blue and Gold tackles clearing the way for the back field men.

Throughout the season the California men showed they had been drilled in interference. In running back the ball from kicks and in end runs and line work the interference has been a feature.
