Many Doctors Die From Typhus Fever

WARSAW, Jan. 1.—Poland lost 400 doctors from typhus fever last year and now has only 4,000 for a population of 28,000,000, or one doctor for every 7,000 people, according to an official report made to the American Red Cross by the Ministry of Public Health. The American Red Cross is constantly reinforcing its medical men in Poland for the purpose of helping the local health authorities to offset their losses in native physicians.

Lack of Rain Reduced Waterpower

BERNE, Jan. 1.—Lack of rain for ten weeks has so reduced the waterpower of most electric plants here that there has been a shortage of power. Steam locomotives, which had been replaced by electric engines, have been nput back in service, temporarily on some lines.

AFFAIRS OF BOND HOUSE IN TANGLE

Courts Called Upon to Settle Legal Status of City of Edmonton Bonds.

ROBBERY ATTEMPTED

Prowler Attempts to Break Into the Bonding House But is Frightened Away by Patrolman—No Description is Obtained.

Few new developments have occurred in the matter of the collapse of the Morris Bros. Bonding House. The tangled affairs of the defunct concern are being unwound as fast as the auditors can go over the books and investigations by the grand jury and the U. S. attorney are being conducted but as yet little new matter has been unearthed in the developments.

On the night of Dec. 30, some unknown person attempted to break in the building, evidently with the purpose of obtaining possession of some of the valuable papers in the building. The patrolman on guard, however, heard the prowler attempting to break in the door and frightened the intruder away. The would-be burglar escaped before his description could be obtained.

Fred Morris has turned over to the receiver all of the property belonging to the corporation which was held by him. The property is valued at approximately $75,000 and included approximately $25,000 in bonds which were held in Morris' safety deposit box. It also takes the Etheridge home on the Clackamas river and an equity in the Irvington home, which is now valued at $40,000. Mr. Morris has a claim of $15,000 in an interest in the latter place.

A rumor that a large amount of bonds held in trust by the company had been used as collateral in securing loans from banks, was denied by the receiver, who states that these bonds are safe and will be returned to the respective owners as soon as the affairs of the concern can be straightened out.

The legal status of the City of Edmonton Bonds is now being investigated in the courts. It is possible that the Canadian city will be held an equal creditor with the buyers of the interim certificates, and if the court decides that the bonding house was merely an agent for the city, then the creditors will doubtless realize much more on their money.

John L. Etheridge is on his way back to Portland from Minneapolis being escorted by two deputy sheriffs from Portland. His request that a guard from Minneapolis be allowed to accompany him was denied. His wife will remain with him, and upon their return to Portland, both will be put upon the witness stand. Mr. Morris will also be called into court to make a statement.

In a public statement, given by Mr. Morris to the press, he states that he had no interest in the concern. He states that he originally organized the company with a capital stock of $100,000, and that the business was carried on by Mr. C. K. Williams until his death in 1917, after which the services of Mr. Etheridge were obtained. In 1919, Mr. Morris says his health forced him to retire from the business and that all property was turned over to the corporation. He says that from that time he had no active part in the business and was consulted only occasionally by Mr. Etheridge as a friend. On December 23, Mr. Morris says that Mr. Etheridge brought to him what he claimed to be a true financial statement of the financial condition of the business. He says that Mr. Etheridge was in poor health and desired to take a long rest. Mr. Morris then loaned him $10,000, for which Mr. Etheridge turned over to him his home as security. Mr. Morris stated that it was not until he had started an audit of the books that he learned of the discrepancies and that he immediately turned over his property and such information as he had secured to the district attorney.

Oil Companies To Be Regulated

SALEM, Or., Dec. 31.—All oil companies and mining companies having permits to sell their stock in Oregon, together with dealers in automotive paper, will be compelled to submit to the state corporation department before January 15 a detailed statement of their assets, liabilities, properties and how and where the money received has been expended or suffer the alternative of having their licenses to operate in this state revoked, according to a statement issued here tonight by T. B. Handley, state corporation commissioner. "Recently there has been an unprecedented rush on this department by foreign oil and mining companies and other concerns dealing in automotive and similar paper, for permits to sell their securities in Oregon," said Mr. Handley. "Check on Loans Noted." "This is perhaps in a measure due to the fact that many banks and money lenders are placing restrictions upon the amounts and character of their loans, thus making it necessary at times for reliable and legitimate concerns to sell their stock to the public for the purpose of raising funds to finance their business. The present abnormal price of oil and oil products also has a tendency to cause speculation on the part of the public in oil stocks.

Taking advantage of this situation, many unscrupulous promoters and fly-by-night concerns are now flooding the country with literature through the United States mails soliciting subscriptions to their stock securities. These concerns are generally unreliable and have no real or tangible assets, yet they guarantee to the public large dividends and promise enormous profits on the investments. The result is that Oregon people are sending thousands of dollars out of the state to be dissipated by these promoters in other states.

M'Nary Takes Stand With Ex-Soldiers

PORTLAND, Dec. 31.—Have urged and will continue to support passage of soldier legislation, including compensation measures," was the message received by state headquarters of the American Legion yesterday from Senator McNary in reply to a telegram sent from Portland Wednesday.

This was the first reply to the barrage of messages sent to all of Oregon's senators and representatives. Senator Chamberlain is believed to be in favor of the legislation urged by the American Legion but his illness will prevent his taking an active part in the Washington fight, it is expected.

Church a Refuge For 800 Homeless

(By Associated Press). NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—Eight hundred homeless unemployed men slept in the pews of the St. Mark's church last night. A crowd of more than a thousand met in the hall on the Boverly and planned to break into the church for a night's lodging, if admittance was refused. When they approached the church they found it lighted and the rector waiting for them with an invitation to come inside.

Animal Circus Is Billed For Antlers

Permit Issued For Big Tabernacle

A building permit was issued yesterday for the tabernacle which is to be constructed for the Bulgian-Lewis local meetings. The vacant lots across from the Presbyterian church have been secured, having been donated for the use by Henry Harth, of Harth's Toggery, who is the owner of the property. Construction on the building will be started early next week, and it is planned to erect the tabernacle in as short a time as possible.

LEGION TUESDAY NIGHT

A rip snortin' session of the Umpqua post, American Legion, will be held in the armory Tuesday night. The bonus measure will be discussed from every angle and other questions of equal importance. The entertainment committee completed their plans today. They have made arrangements with Prof. De Buck, of the Honeybee university, to deliver a hygiene lecture on eugenics and other kindred subjects, and this renowned professor will no doubt have something worth while for the legionnaires. Prof. De Buck professes to have been in France and soldiered "over there."

A woman from the middle West spent a few weeks in Gloucester last summer and in conversation with a new acquaintance she made known the fact that it was her very first glimpse of the ocean.

"It must have been quite a treat," remarked the other. "And how did the ocean impress you?"

"Well," was the reply, "when I saw the amount of water they have here it struck me that fish might be a little cheaper."—Boston Transcript.

NAVAL MAN HERE WITH MACHINE GUN.

Ralph Carr, naval recruiting officer, arrived in Roseburg this morning from Portland and will be here for several days in connection with the picture feature, "Below the Surface," at the Majestic theater. Mr. Carr has with him a German machine gun which was captured by the naval battery at Verdun, and which will be placed on exhibition during the run of "Below the Surface," in this city. This is a vigorous story of undersea life and has been judged as accurate and true to life when witnessed by marine experts.
