Roseburg, Oregon, January 22, 1921

DON'T WORRY OVER PROFITS.

Communities shouldn't worry for fear their local newspapers are making too much money. On the contrary, it is to the advantage of the community that its local newspaper shall be prosperous. Some of the difficulties of newspaper publishing are pointed out in an editorial headed "Prices and Printers" in the current issue of the Extension Service News:

"Before a community starts to worry for fear the publisher of the local paper is making too much money, it is well to know the facts. Few lines of endeavor have been so severely hit by changing industrial conditions as have the small newspapers. It is abundant testimony that there were 123 fewer weekly publications in this state in 1919 than in 1915.

"Only recently has definite effort been made to study costs on country newspapers: this study shows that few publishers have been getting even cost for the advertising space and printed matter they have sold. Like the farmer, they have been producing their commodities largely with the unpaid labor of themselves and the members of their families, and without taking into consideration such items of expense as depreciation, interest on money invested, and the like.

"For the sake of his community, everyone should want his local newspaper to be prosperous. Only as country newspapers are prosperous will there be attracted to them men of the brains and training necessary for a position of leadership, unless he is prosperous, produce a paper which is representative of the community, and of which the community may be proud. Moreover, a paper struggling to make both ends meet is more likely to succumb to the luring offers of dubious advertisers or political charlatans.

"No newspaper, regardless of its circulation, can sell its advertising space at less than 20 cents an inch and be prosperous. A committee from the National Editorial association has worked this out after a careful study. The local newspaper of about 5000 circulation must charge approximately 55 cents an inch.

"A similar study has been made of the cost of job printing and the results have been compiled in a loose leaf book which is kept constantly revised. If the local printer and publisher quotes his price from this little black book the customer may know he is getting a fair price, and the printer is getting a living profit."

BUYMANSHIP NEEDED.

The public might learn a good deal about itself by reading some of the abundant literature on scientific salesmanship. There the curious consumer may find himself and his neighbors classed as "prospects," "the irritable customer," the "undecided customer," the "wealthy customer," and so on through a long list. There is a scientific and psychological brand of treatment for every variety of buyer. In much of this instruction to sellers it is assumed that the buyer does not know what he wants and will take whatever the salesman can persuade him to buy. Unfortunately, this is too generally true. According to the director of the bureau of vocational guidance of Harvard University, a good deal more instruction in the art of "buymanship" is needed to create an intelligent buying public. The consumer should know a number of things of which he is now usually ignorant. He should know his own needs first, then the quality of goods and comparative values. He should be shown that ignorance, carelessness and thoughtlessness on his part tend to increase prices not only to himself but to all subsequent buyers. "Buying intending to return is sabotage" and encourages deceitful practices on the part of the seller. The intelligent buyer ought to know, too, that advertising and salesmanship, as well as overhead, delivery, charge accounts, etc., all increase the price of his goods. They are necessary adjuncts to the selling game chiefly because he is uninformed and unintelligent in his half of the transaction. Buymanship is not an unattractive word, but the effect it would have upon goods and prices is very attractive, as expounded by the Harvard expert. It would bring about an attitude of "human helpfulness" and intelligent co-operation between buyer and seller, with better methods of distribution and a solution to many of the present-day problems of prices and commercial relations.

WHY BE UNREASONABLE?

Why be so unreasonable? Senator Farrell, of Multnomah county, has introduced a bill for the enforcement of the prohibition law, which, if carried out to the letter, would throw every home in the state of Oregon wide open to all the scandal mongers of every community. Any individual capable of carrying a tin star could walk right into your home and take possession, just as he would enter a barn or outbuilding. If there is any one place on God's green footstool, that a man, worthy of the name of husband and father, considers most sacred, it is his home. The law fathered by Senator Farrell is about the rankest piece of legislation ever proposed in this state and is a complete confession on his part that prohibition to date is a farce—which no intelligent minded person accepts as the truth. It is just such legislation as proposed by the Farrell bill that disgusts those who have been instrumental in bringing about liquor reforms. Law abiding citizens, broad-minded persons who are capable of taking a comprehensive view of the good results brought about by the laws already enacted to curb the liquor traffic, see in the Farrell measure bolshevik tendencies that would upset the entire machinery of the present prohibition laws. Our constitution provides: "The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses and effects against unreasonable searches and seizures shall not be violated; and no warrants shall issue but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched, and the person or things to be seized." If the Farrel bill becomes a law, every home in the state of Oregon should be provided with an arsenal as a matter of self protection against the intrusion of the great army of busy bodies who would be on the job day and night.

Nothing like having a good circulation these cold, brisk mornings. It makes a fellow alert to the day's activities. And speaking of circulation, did it ever occur to you that the News-Review has the largest bona fide circulation of any newspaper published in southern Oregon. Seventeen thousand people read this paper every day. Merchants who want their voice to reach every nook and corner of the county find in this paper the only legitimate way of reaching the buying public.

A bill introduced in the senate by Senator Bell yesterday which has to do with the expediting of election returns, requiring that ballots be counted as soon as twenty votes have been cast, is one worthy for favorable consideration. There is no plausible reason for waiting until the polls close before beginning the count and Senator Bell's bill, with proper protection thrown around it to avoid any leaks during election day, would be a mighty fine law to put into working order.

With the passing of John T. Bryan, forty-five years a resident of this vicinity, Roseburg has lost a most worthy pioneer, a man of good, wholesome attainments, leaving a business career perforated with honest deeds and upright methods in his dealings with the public. Those who have been closely associated with Mr. Bryan during his long residence in Roseburg deeply regret his death.

J. A. Rippey, president of the Seventh Day Adventist conference of southern Oregon, requested the other day that his salary be cut $400 a year, in order that he might do his part in hastening the return to prewar conditions. This is sound and commendable view to take, but it is not at all likely to lower the price of salvation, which has always been on the free list.—Eugene Guard.

It is sincerely hoped the legislature at Salem will not overlook the fact that the present session is intended to be one of strict economy. This is a period in the conduct of state affairs where the soft pedal should be applied to all unnecessary appropriations—and many of the alleged necessary measures to create funds at the state's expense.

If there are no other appropriations made during the legislative session some private citizen ought to suggest an increase in the pay of our senators and representatives. It is a rank injustice that these men receive the paltry sum of $5.00 a day. It should be $10, to say the least.

A prominent Cleveland, Ohio, woman, living a quiet and unpretending life, says her religious proclivities may be summed up thusly: "Live to make others happy." What a good old world this would be if everyone would put forth an effort to make another happy.

A Washington grand jury has declared that no woman has a right to go through her husband's pockets, and a Chicago man has had his wife arrested for violating postal laws by opening one of his letters. Whadda mean, women's rights?

Over in Marshfield the "Bootleggers' Union" is giving out information to the officers where opposition stills may be located. Evidently the whisky ring over at the Bay City don't believe in the slogan, "United we stand, divided we fall."

"Why do we have whisky in Pittsburg?" asks a dry ad in a Pittsburg paper. Judging by hearsay, it is because the bootleggers from the other cities haven't got hold of all of it yet; but given time enough, they will.

In spite of the higher cost of learning, American colleges have a heavier enrollment this year than ever before. Nothing strange about that. Americans believe in higher education.

Spring has almost arrived. But we are never certain of this fact until the spring poet begins to "warble." Make 'em short and snappy, please.

Every man has a cost—and it keeps some fellows visibly busy throwing dirt to keep their record covered up.

Once in a while you find a business that doesn't need advertising. For instance, bank-robbing and hoot-letzing.

Tomorrow will be "law and order Sunday." We've certainly got enough laws—now let's have a little order.

Look at Mother, how lucky she is! Her business is always picking up.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY COMMENTS ON BILL

Says Senator Eddy's Measure Would Be of Great Value To City Council.

MAKES NO CRITICISM

Bill Sponsored by Douglas County Delegation Would Mean More Improvement on Highways Leading to the City.

District Attorney Neuner returned from Salem Thursday night where he appeared before the supreme court and during his sojourn at the capitol naturally called upon the state officials and the Legislature, which is now in session. When asked regarding the activity of the Douglas county delegation, he said:

"The boys are all busy carefully scanning and studying the various bills that are being introduced and which effect our county particularly and the state generally and are very courteous in forwarding various bills and asking counsel and suggestions. Senator Eddy is sponsor for a bill, which, if enacted, would permit all incorporated towns of one thousand inhabitants or over, to expend a portion or all of their road tax obtained from the county fund on roads outside of the municipality or town. That is to say, it leaves the discretionary with the council if they see fit. It does not deprive the town of any authority it has at this time, but merely vests additional discretion in improving the highways leading to the town, if it so desires.

"I notice the comment of the Mayor published in the News-Review recently, in which this bill was criticised as being unjust. I think that the mayor is not informed of the purpose of the bill and his criticism is very unjust.

"Cities and towns under one thousand inhabitants would be subject to the jurisdiction of the county court. That is, while they would receive their proportion of the funds, yet it would be expended under the direction of the county court and road master, rather than the council. In my opinion the bill is a step in the right direction and for this reason: that it would be absurd to say that a city council of a town should have authority to expend this money only on any street or road, not a county road, thereby allowing the county roads to fall into disuse and the bridges in disrepair, and in case of accident by reason of such defective road or bridge, the county would be held liable. This is not just. If you take the funds away from the county court, they should not be held liable for the negligence of the city council.

"Legislators are sometimes unjustly criticised. Having been in that position myself, I know that they have many hard problems to face. They are constantly criticised by some persons whether their records are good or bad, their motives are sometimes questioned. One cannot appreciate their positions unless they have been a member, and therefore the people should co-operate with them, and if they do and perform acts that are for the best interests of the state a county, they should be encouraged and shown appreciation, rather than unjust criticism by someone who is not familiar with the facts."

MELROSE AND ELGAROSE ITEMS

The Elgarose Literary society held its semi-annual meeting for the election of officers on Saturday, the 9th. Virgil Woodruff was re-elected president, of which we are glad. Baxter Moore is to be secretary for the next six months. Mr. Slati gets to take care of the money, Oscar Hanson will keep order, and Clara Anderson will edit the "Journal." All others will help with the entertainment.

F. A. Goff, of Melrose, recently returned from Portland, where he attended a meeting of the Farm Bureau association of the state. The farmers are pushing ahead and mean to take a stand for themselves. The membership of the state is now over five thousand and growing. Mr. Goff reported that they have secured two favors from the railroad company for themselves already. One is that a livestock special train is to run once a week from the southern part of Oregon to Portland as a terminal. The other that lower rates have been secured for the shipment of mixed livestock. It is a start.

A pleasant evening was spent at the Sandquist home at Elgarose on Wednesday, Jan. 19, in honor of Mr. Fred Bateman's birthday. Mr. Batteman, Miss Mortensen and Clara Anderson were asked to the home for dinner, which served as a tool to keep Mr. Bateman from "getting wise," and the other members of the party came in later to surprise him. A special invitation was extended to the children, since he is so fond of children. Coffee and cake was served for lunch.

On February 12th a Valentine social will be held at the Melrose Grange hall. Watch for announcement of the program later.

Well, there has been a wedding of importance now. Edward Sindt, of Melrose, and Lulu Nokomas were married in Roseburg on Tuesday. A charivari and dance found them at home at Melrose Tuesday evening. When the cake was served, Miss Ella Anderson found the ring, which means that she is to be the next bride, and Maudie Stubbs got the thimble, signifying that she will live to be an old maid. Emerick Bursik is destined to be a bachelor, for he found the button. X. X.

LEGISLATORS BACK.

Senator B. L. Eddy, Representatives Marsh and Shirla, and Joint Representative Hopkins, arrived in the city yesterday evening from Salem to spend the week end at home. The legislature has adjourned until Monday, at which time the business of the state will again be taken up. The members of the Douglas county delegation will return to Salem on Sunday.

EAT CARROTS.

CORVALLIS, Jan. 22.—"Girls, to get rosy cheeks eat one carrot a day 365 days in the year."

This is advice that Mrs. Blair, of the University of Minnesota, gave to the college women in an address, "Health and Dress."

Mrs. Blair emphasized the importance of exercising. She told the girls that for many years she had had exceedingly poor health until she began taking exercises for her ailments. She illustrated her lecture by dances and exercises in Greek costume.

The Rumanian folk dance was shown for strengthening the ankles. She demonstrated posture, types of heels and efforts, power of voice, poise, breath control and power of muscle.

MISS PAZ PAMINTUAN

Miss Paz Pamintuan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Florentino Pamintuan, is one of the popular members of Washington's youngest set. She is attending college in Washington and will receive her B. S. degree next spring. Her father is a retired attorney from the Philippine Islands, where he practiced under Spanish rule.

DUDS FOR MEN

News Notes From Myrtle Creek H. L.

(By Lucretia Hoover)

The teachers zone meeting which was held at Riddle January 15, 1921 was very successful. Seven teachers attended from Myrtle Creek and vicinity. The subjects discussed were: Standardization, Rural Schoool programs, Better English, Club work, Inter-scholastic Contests and Professional Certificates. The second zone meeting will be held at Myrtle Creek February 19th.

The high school students are again engaged in an enterprise to secure more money for the annual school fund. This time it is a play entitled "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary." This play is a comedy and has never been given here and we feel hat it will meet with great success. "Aunt Mary" is a kind hearted spinster, who has always lived in a country town. She starts to the city to hunt up her nephew, whose guardian she is. She arrives at the time of the party given by her nephew, "Jack" and they do their level best to show "Aunt Mary" a good time. She has enjoyed herself so much that when she returns to the country, she finds that she cannot overcome the longing for the city, and so she turns the house over to the servants and returns to the city. A love affair is threaded through the story and altogether makes a delightful comedy.

The following cast has been selected:

Aunt Mary Watkins,—A wealthy spinster, Jack's aunt and Lucinda's "She" .....Agnes Knight
Denhan John Watkins, Jr.....
.....Donald Tibbits
Robert Burnett .....James Clack
Hubert Mitchell, ...James Rice

.....Ernest Wardrip
Bertha Burnett, ...Lena Anlauf
The Girl from Kalamazoo.....
.....Winifred Fugate
Mr. Atebins, ...Adam Frederick
Lucinda, (Aunt Mary's Property)
..... Lenore Hurst

Our basket ball team recently received a challenge from Mr. H. P. Jewett of the high school at Talent, Oregon. Mr. Jewett is arranging a trip north for his basket ball team on February 17. He desired that this school play one of those dates at Myrtle creek. Our soccer foot ball team has played several games, but on account of bad weather and no indoor court, we have been unable to organize a basket ball team. This is where a play shed would be greatly appreciated. However, because of the defeat of the two mill tax last fall we are compelled to wait until better improvements can be secured.

On February 11, a community meeting will be held at Myrtle creek at the high school. This date has been set by the county superintendent as a day for the discussion of community betterment throughout the country. We hope to have a general meeting, a program, some refreshments and a discussion of ways and means of securing a "clean up" within the power of everyone. We want a larger and better town so that people will make it a stopping place and a home town.

The first community orchestra practice was held at the school house on Friday, January 14. O. A. Kirby has been secured as instructor. A large majority of the members are school students and several other musicians of some experience have also joined. As their help is greatly noticed, it is also greatly appreciated. Rapid progress is being shown and it is expected that the first appearance of this organization will be at the Community Betterment ing.

The following is the instru tion of the orchestra: Vio Edna Puckett, Lena Anlauf, Deardorff, Bernice Hamilto Cleo Dick, Ernest Wardrip, a Kuykendall.

Clarinets:—Dell Wood, Ha len and Mr. Hermann. Cor George Rice, James Clack Laughead. Trombone:—F. C. Altos:—Eldon Hargis, Orin Bass,—Joe Rice. Drums,—Cle well. Cello—Alva Kirby. Ma James Rice, Agnes Knight. Reva Anlauf.

With the introduction of new dance pieces at the armory tonight and the placing of the in excellent condition, a fine is expected.
