UNIONISTS DECLARE THAT THEY CANNOT MEET REPARATION TERMS DEMANDED OF THEM.

British Statesmen Also are of the Opinion That German World Trade Will Not Permit Them Meeting the Obligations of the Contract Presented to Them.

(By Associated Press.)
BERLIN, Feb. 1.—The Germans and the reparations terms decided on by the allied council as final and impossible of execution. It is the general opinion that the government cannot agree to them.

Cannot Pay Debt.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—It will be impossible for Germany to pay the reparations debt fixed by the sumner council, says Professor John Maynard Keynes, principal representative of the British treasury at the Versailles peace conference. It was stated that to make such payments Germany's world trade would have to be increased to such an extent that British trade would suffer.

Vanderlip Makes Statement.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—"Germany never will be able to pay the war indemnity fixed by the allies," Frank Vanderlip, banker and financier, declared in an interview.

If the allies should insist on many attempts to carry out the agreements made in Paris, the man children in the future would thank Herbert Hoover for keeping them from starving to death," he said.

Beyond Capacity.

There seems to be no question that 221,000,000,000 marks is beyond the Germans' capacity to pay. They might be able to meet their obligations up to 3,000,000,000 marks. But it is hardly possible they could pay the six billion marks provided for in the final part of thirty-one years and 100 days if they could avoid defaulting on the four billion marks period.

May Disorganize Europe.

Entirely aside from Germany's ability to pay, however, the effect of reparative indemnity upon the allied nations and their associates could be considered. It would be to disorganize the whole industrial life of Europe and seriously affect the United States and other countries.

North of Roseburg, a number of telephone poles were blown down, according to Mr. Farrington, the manager of the local exchange. All damage, however, was quickly repaired and communication was interrupted only for a very short time. Towards the coast the damage was quite severe, and along the edge of the territory controlled from the local office several lines went down. A definite agreement has been reached between the public service commission of Oregon and the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company regarding the adjustment of rates and the employment question. The employees immediately filed with the public service commission a request to advance its decision in order to forestall the action of the company in regard to discharging or transferring about 700 of its employees, the change being scheduled for Feb. 1.—The commission, however, stated that it was unable to comply with the request, as an immense amount of work prevented any action in regard to its employees until after Feb. 15. By that time, the commission states, it will have had time to complete its investigations and will be able to give its final report.

In answer to this letter, the company agreed to delay its action, a copy of the letter written by James T. Shaw, attorney for the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph company, having been received by John R. Farrington, the local manager, today. Official notice is being sent out by the company to its employees that it will defer transfers and reorganizations until after Feb. 15, after which time any action taken will be based upon the final decision of the public service commission.

MEETING MAY CONTINUE WEEK

Pressure Being Brought to Prolong Tabernacle Meetings for Another Week.

ATTENDANCE IS GOOD

Monday Night's Crowd Better Than Was Expected and a Large Number Responded To The Invitation of the Evangelist.

(By C. H. Hilton.)

On Sunday evening in response to the invitation given by Evangelist Bulgin, almost 50 people responded. Last night was a most interesting sight when the invitation was given and so many big strong men began to walk down the aisles. There were about 20 responses to the invitation last night, at least half of them being big, strong men coming in surrender to the Higher power. After a very strenuous day on Sunday such as was experienced here, it was thought there might be a falling off in the attendance last night. But once again the tabernacle was full to listen to a clear, searching explanation of a great theme. The Unpardonable Sin was made absolutely clear from the Scripture.

One of the most interesting things last night in the presentation of his theme was the setting forth of Egyptian life and customs, and the Gods they worshipped, bringing out in a very distinct way why God sent out the ten plagues to combat the ten gods of Egypt. Some of these gods and their worship was described, and the Scripture record was thus made to stand out in a way clearly to be understood. The evangelist made a searching study of his theme, using the thought as found in the old testament and the new. It was a stirring sermon and the response was almost immediate.

Today the dinners for men will begin in the M. E. Church with a special program. It has been decided, however, to hold only two of these dinners, one today and another on Thursday. The program today is centered around the theme "How to Build a Home Town." It will be treated hygienically by Dr. Houck, educationally by Prof. Hamm, financially by Mr. Hamer, and by Mr. Clark of the Umpqua Hotel. Rev. Phelps will speak from the church standpoint. The dinner on Thursday will have another live theme and will carry out the same plan of program. The evangelist closes these talks with his address. No address will be allowed more than five minutes of time.

The regular afternoon lectures are being continued. These lectures are being a searching Bible study, and many people are attending and are finding much joy in the work they are doing. Tonight will be a school night and there will be something doing throughout. The students will be there in large numbers and the evangelist will speak on "The Unreasonableness of Man's Reason." The tabernacle will be decorated with high school colors, the glee clubs will sing, and the meeting will be full of "pep" from start to finish. Wednesday night will be another enthusiastic night, because that will be Sunshine Chorus night. At least 300 of these young folks have been participating in the Sunshine chorus meetings. On Wednesday night they will show us what they have been getting. No one will want to miss the demonstration.

At the meeting last night the evangelist told the story of Sam Thackeray in his hour of sickness. Mr. Thackeray began as janitor of the tabernacle, but took down with an abscess on his stomach and has been in critical conditions. The big audience made a fine offering for Mr. Thackeray, and the news was at once participating in the Sunshine chorus meetings. On Wednesday night they will show us what they have been getting. No one will want to miss the demonstration.

Grape Growers Not Crepe Hangers

CLEVELAND, Feb. 1.—That prohibition did not ring the curtain down on the grape industry was the opinion of the delegates attending the recent convention of National Grape Growers here.

"Though we lost the sour wine trade," L. G. Young, grower of Erie county, Pa., declared, "there has been such an insistent demand for grapes for the making of home brew wine by the foreign elements, who are all wine drinkers, that the present price of grapes is higher than ever before."

Yum, Yum, the Good Old Days of the Maple Sugar Parties Are Now With Us

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Remember the days when you went to the maple sugar parties? Well, maple sugar time is here. The sugar and syrup industry is American and offers good commercial opportunities. Only the United States and Canada produce this much-prized product on a commercial scale, which is at once a delicacy and a highly nutritious article of diet.

Warm days and cold nights are essential to a highly satisfactory flow, and the sugar content may vary considerably from day to day. Tapping the sugar trees if done properly in no way injures the tree. Trees have been tapped for more than 100 years and are still in good condition. The maple is well up among the leaders in American forestry associations' vote for a national tree.
