Not since the advent of the original air brake or the initial development of the automobile has similar opportunity come into being as exists today in the financing and development of the automatic electric brake.

Unlimited Possibilities

This company has entered into an industrial field which is almost unlimited in its ramifications. When you stop to realize that every motor truck must have some kind of a brake and that right now there are only a limited number of companies manufacturing mechanical automobile brakes, you can then understand the all important part the Automatic Electric Brake Company plays today in the great American industry. As a matter of fact, it is the only company that is manufacturing a genuine automatic electric brake permitting the control of the motor truck as well as any number of trailers that might be attached to it.

OUR POLICY

In accordance with the established policy of the H. E. Wills Company to carefully guard the interests of its clients, a thorough investigation of the Automatic Electric Brake Company was made prior to our accepting this issue. We, therefore, feel justified in recommending to the public that they place their confidence and make an investment in the securities of the Automatic Electric Brake Company, as we believe it should not them a substantial return.

This company, while still in its infancy, is now well established and has, we believe, a brilliant future.

Limited Stock Offering at $5.00

As we have only the unsold portion of 20,000 shares of this stock to offer at $5.00 per share, and as this offer is made subject to prior sale and we are now negotiating with eastern brokers for purchase and resale of the entire issue, we therefore anticipate a very early over-subscription, and would advise all present stockholders and our out of town clients to telegraph their reservations without delay at our expense and forward their applications with remittances made payable to the order of H. E. Wills Company, at Portland, Oregon.

Any additional information furnished upon request.

NEW YORK NEWS LETTER

NEW YORK, March 2.—Another man comes forward to swear to the fundamental integrity of New York City. This time it is a laundryman. He is assuredly a stern personage, given to stern realities. His regular patrons, hurrying by in the morning, just tuck the bundles in around the door sill, and sometimes they are piled pretty well up and protrude several inches onto the sidewalk. But are they ever stolen? "Never" swears the laundryman. "I've been running this laundry for five years and the bundles have been dropped for that same time in that same old trusting way. And never once has the trust of my customers in his fellow men been misplaced or betrayed."

Lina Cavalieri, famed for her beauty, her beauty recipes, her marriage to Robert Chandler, and, incidentally her voice, has arrived back upon our shores from Europe. She is booked to sing with Mary Garden and she is understood still to claim the title of "the most beautiful woman in the world."

The biggest boys club in existence—or in history—has reached a membership of over 7,000. It was announced the other day. This is the Boys Club of the City of New York, and it was started one night when a group of small boys threw a stone through the window of a girl's club on Avenue A. E. H. Harriman was at the club at the time, and he conceived the great idea. "I know what's the matter with those boys, they want a club of their own. Let's start one." That started it, and today the seven-story building with a thousand boys using it nightly is the result.

Every once in a while the rotund women of the country hear the cheering rumor that hips are coming in again or that the new styles are all for the plump. The rumors always peter out though, in these recent years, and plumpness continues unappreciated by fashion. But not for long. Whatever was hopes may have been cherished by the lovers of sweets and loathers of exercise were swept away during the first ten minutes of the Spring Fashion show. Gymnasium classes have taken on a new popularity since then and so has every other aid to slimmness. One New York physician, Dr. R. Newman, 288 Fifth avenue, who devotes a great deal of his practice to reducing the too, too solid flesh, and not even making its owners take exercise or give up their chocolates, explains that his experience has been the same following every fashion show for the past five years. "A good many of my patients tell me that they want to reduce only because it improves their health," Dr. Newman said, "and, of course, if they are definitely fat, that is sufficient reason. But, I always notice that fashion shows and windows filled with new clothes, stimulate their interest in reduction more than anything else. And that's a perfectly natural and worthy motive, I would say."

Laurette Taylor is back in "Peg o' My Heart," and the audiences are taking her to their hearts as happily as they did in its first season. This story on a world old, yet never old Cinderella theme appeals to a larger group of people, undoubtedly, than does any of the ultra modern dramas of suicide and despair.

Queer lines are drawn in people's minds between the limits of honesty and dishonesty. Three men have just written to New York Newspapers and ask if they had to report in the income tax return the profits made from "bootlegging."

Literary night was a great night for this city. The school house was entirely too small to accommodate the large crowd that assembled to hear the debate. "Resolved: That we live on the inside of the earth and not on the outside as is generally supposed." Prof. Lee led the affirmative and P. W. Morgan and W. J. Morrow defended the negative. The debate was won by the negative side. On Wednesday, March 9, the question, "Resolved: That the Japanese are a menace to the United States" will be argued, with Wesley Meredith on the affirmative and O. G. Rodgers on the negative side.

Carl Coleman is with us again after spending the winter at La Grande Union county, Oregon. The many friends of Benny Lee save him a surprise party at the home of Prof. and Mrs. J. F. Lee on the eve before his departure for Astoria. The home was given over to the young people and such a jolly good party was enjoyed. Such parties make life worth living. Light refreshments were served at midnight.

The farmers are busy with seeding, plowing, spraying and cutting up their winters wood. Truly, there is always something to do.

Movie Closeups

A special policeman at the Paramount-Artcraft studios had a real job during the filming of "What Happened to Jones." Bryant Washburn's latest Paramount-Artcraft picture, which Manager Hill will show at the Antlers theatre tonight. This job constituted in guarding two bottles of aged whiskey used as props in the picture which is an uproarious farce of bootlegging and reform in a dry town.

Although many bottles are used for props, two at least, those used by the star had to be the real thing in order to make the film ring true to life. The precious fluid was borrowed from a famous figure in film circles with the express provision that it was to be returned to Director James Cruze intact. But the wily director took no chances but employed a special policeman to guard the precious spirits. Not even the wax on the seal was disturbed.

A cast of unusual excellence supports Mr. Washburn. Margaret Loomis, pretty and clever is his leading lady, while others in the cast are J. Maurice Foster, Frank Jonasson, Lillian Leighton, Caroline Rankin and Richard Cummings. The scenario was prepared by Elmer Harris and James Cruze was the director of the play.

New School Election Law

City School Superintendent Hamm today received a notice from J. A. Churchill, state superintendent of public instruction, that the Roberts' bill pertaining to the election of school directors has become a law. This bill provides that any candidate for director must file a certificate at least a week prior to the election, containing the names of three per cent of the number of qualified electors voting for the office of school director at the last annual election. In any cases the certificate must contain at least ten names. He must also file, five days before election, an acceptance of nomination. In Portland the certificate must be filed twelve days prior to election.
