DISARMAMENT FOR AUTHORS.

The Publishers' association estimates that the average American family buys 600 newspapers and magazines a year, and only one book. In the entire country there are about 200,000 "persistent book buyers"—one-fifth of one per cent of the whole population. If the interests of literature and the book business the Publishers' association and the Booksellers' association have combined for a three years' advertising campaign at $100,000 a year. As part of the program for moving books more rapidly from author to reader, Lowell Brentano, an authority on literature and its marketing, suggests "literary disarmament." He would have authors cease their rapid-fire methods of production, write fewer books and make them better, "worthy of a three years' advertising campaign." In these days the public wants only the newest thing in literature as in everything else, and the sale of a book stops when a new one is announced. Also sales of the newest ones are not so extensive as they would be if the standard were better. This leads to an accumulation of unsold matter which reacts to the disadvantage of both author and distributor. For whatever reason the proposed "disarmament" is urged, if it is carried out the public will benefit no less than the producers, for it will mean better reading matter and better influence upon the public taste. It will mean more books that are worth buying than have been seen for a long time. If in connection with the campaign, prices are adjusted to a point more consistent with the average reader's purse, the three years of advertising should reap golden results.

BUSINESS FOR EDUCATION.

An English business firm not long ago gave over $500,000 to certain schools and dniversities for encouraging research and education. A few of the firm's shareholders challenged the action as extravagant. The directors of the concern then explained that the company's business requifed the research and trained assistance which, as a practical matter, could only be obtained from efficient schools and universities. This is one side only of the awakened appreciation of the value of education. Business finds education essential to its own progress, for it requires trained men and women and it requires the help of skillful research work. If brains and skill are needed in private business, are they any less useful in the conduct of public business and government? Why should not the private citizen take a hint from selfish business interests and look out for its own good by promoting and supporting the best in education? When business in the United States condemned the liquor traffic, the large number of private citizens who had long favored prohibition, but had been unable to put it across from lack of co-operation, suddenly found it a comparatively simple matter. Perhaps business interests, working primarily for their own development, will enable educators to hasten the development of a better national educational system and a higher general regard for real education.

Even the most conservative business man does not object to hearing the cash register say it in jazz.

There is nothing in chemistry that tells how to mix sentiment and common-sense to the best advantage.

Being held up and robbed by a bandit is not accepted as an excuse for non-payment of income taxes.

Oregon's New Senator

ROBERT N. STANFIELD

New Faces in Congress; Old Ones Are Missing

WASHINGTON, Mar. 4—The new congress which will legislate during the first half of Harding's administration, should uphold all Harding's policies in spite of the opposition if party preponderance were the only test. For in the house, the republicans are 300 strong, while the democrats have only 132 seats. One is occupied by a Socialist and two are vacant.

In the senate there are 59 republicans and only 37 democrats. That body got into action today, but the house will not be in session until the extra session is called. The senate was called into special session to confirm Harding's appointees to the cabinet and other positions, and it is expected that the session will last a week or ten days at the longest.

But though the republicans are much stronger numerically than the democrats, they are not so compact. There are more groups, shades of opinion and jealousies among them. The first task probably of the G. O. P. leaders in both houses, will be to unify so far as possible their forces either by pacifying or disciplining the insurgents.

Many new faces appear in both houses and long familiar ones are gone. Miss Alice Robertson of Muskogee, Okla., will take her seat as the second woman to sit in the house while W. Bourke Cochran, of New York, a former member, noted for his Celtic wit and powerful oratory, will again make "the welkin ring."

In the senate, Larry Sherman of Illinois, the man who looks like Lincoln, Charles Thomas of Colorado, the dryest wit in the senate; George Chamberlain of Oregon, much loved among his colleagues; Thomas Gore, the blind Senator from Oklahoma, and others who have long served, will be missing after today. A number of senatorial golf foursomes were broken up by the November election, and the hunt for new partners is on.

The new senators who took the oath of office today are Ralph H. Cameron, Arizona; Thaddeus H. Carraway, Arkansas; Samuel M. Shortridge, California; Samuel D. Nicholson, Colorado; Thomas E. Watson, Georgia; William B. McKinley, Illinois; Richard P. Ernst, Kentucky; Edwin S. Broussard, Louisiana; Orvington E. Weller, Maryland; Tasker L. Oddie, Nevada; E. F. Ladd, North Dakota; J. W. Harrold, Oklahoma; Robert N. Stanfield, Oregon and P. Norbeck, of South Dakota.

FARMERS--
GET TOGETHER NOW!

Get together, work together and join together in a state and national way. There is only one way to get into the State and National Federation of Farm Bureaus, and that way is thru the County Farm Bureau. Every unit must be organized.

Have you ever had an opportunity to belong to a farmer organization that had a local county body to work thru and a state body and a national body? If so, was that body strong in numbers and strong in finance, so that it was really capable of getting results? Be serious with yourself now. Is there today such an organization for farmers that is so organized and growing so fast as the Farm Bureau?

IT'S WINNING FARMERS LITERALLY BY THOUSANDS

Will you be one to join or will you stay out and continue to say that farmers will not organize? While you are knocking, they are organizing as they never have before. 120,000 in Iowa now; 102,000 in Illinois, who pay $10 and $15 per year; 90,000 in Michigan.

Douglas County is a Big County. At Least 1000 of its Farmers Should Join. Do Farmers Want this Organization? Absolutely!

There are now approximately 1,800,000 farm families represented in the membership of the American farm Bureau Federation. Thirty-nine State Farm Bureau Federations have grown strong enough in members and money to take part in the A. F. B. F. Nearly 1500 County Farm Bureaus are now actively carrying on their work. The Farm Bureaus is far beyond the experimental stage, in county, state and national work. You do not need to wait for results. They are already being accomplished. Isn't it a sensible, business-like thing for you to join this big, national farm organization?

A Farmer Solicitor in Every Community Following the Speaking Campaign

Every one of whom is a thorough believer in the Farm Bureau, will come to see you on your own farm the week of March 14th to 19th

They will ask you to join with them in this great effort to put all farm folks on an equality with those in other walks of life.

THE DOUGLAS COUNTY FARM BUREAU
AND
THE OREGON STATE FARM BUREAU

HAVE AGREED unanimously that the Greater Farm Bureau in county, state and nation is worth $5.00 per year for each family, or it isn't worth anything. And, furthermore, after February 1st, no one is taken for a member for just one year. If it is worth anything it is worth supporting for a period of years. HERE IS THE BLANK YOU WILL BE ASKED TO SIGN:

MEMBERSHIP AGREEMENT
DOUGLAS COUNTY FARM BUREAU

Co-operating with the Oregon Agricultural College, United States Department of Agriculture, Oregon and American Farm Bureau Federations.

I hereby apply for membership in the Douglas County Farm Bureau and the Oregon and American Farm Bureau Federation, in consideration of w hich I promise to pay the sum of $5.00, payable annually January 1st of each year, this amount to cover membership dues in the associations named and $1 per year for subscription to the Douglas County Farm Bureau Monthly.

I hereby authorize.....Bank of.....

Oregon (or such bank as may be handling my account) to charge orders for the above amount to my account when such order is signed by the Sec.-Treas. of the Douglas County Farm Bureau. This pledge shall become void in case of my death or removal from the county, or after 1921, upon written request to the Sec.-Treas. of the Douglas County Farm Bureau prior to the date payment becomes due.

Name.....P. O.....

Date.....Solicitor.....

Read it carefully. It is all there. It's right. It's fair and square. By signing it you join a great host of American farm people, who are earnestly and honestly seeking to solve the farm problems in fundamentally sound ways.

WATCH FOR DATES AND PLACES OF PUBLIC MEETINGS AND ATTEND. ACT NOW.
