SUTHERLIN ITEMS.

SUTHERLIN, Ore., March 15.—One hundred dollars was realized for the proposed community fund, as a result of the drama presented at Gem theater last night by students of the local school. The parts were all taken, and the play gave excellent satisfaction to the large audience.

W. J. Ladd entertained the members of the Westminster Circle at home on the north side terrace yesterday afternoon. Over forty were present, and a most enjoyable program of vocal and instrumental music and recitations were rendered. Several matters of community interest were discussed, after a most pleasing luncheon was served by the hostess.

E. A. Tudor, of Bremerton, is visiting her daughter and son-in-law here this week. The building a fence near his east-of-town last Monday. E. P. Pelt, aged 17, severed the finger of his left hand with an

Troop Number 1 Boy Scout News

By Scoutmaster Lintott.
Just a reminder to the boys who are thinking of becoming Scouts. If you wish to attend the summer camp, you MUST join before May first. So you can get your tenderfoot tests passed before the camp opens. All members of the camp, remember, must have passed their tenderfoot tests.

Troop one has the pleasure of announcing that they have as member of their troop, a "veteran scout" in the person of Scout Monroe Hilton, who is a member of the "Veteran Scout Assn." of New York. The requirement for this honor is five years service as a Scout or more.

Veteran Scout Hilton today received his commission as an Assistant Scout Master to Troop One, as Dale Kelley, also. This gives Troop one three A-1 assistants, including Reginald Ashworth, who received his commission some time ago. With the aid of these three men, Scoutmaster Lintott is planning on putting over the best program of Scouting that Roseburg has yet experienced. We need three more men to fill up our troop. Is your boy going to be the lucky one? Our troop is divided into four patrols, two patrols consisting of the larger boys, and two patrols of the smaller boys. We have a place for your boy. LET'S HAVE HIM!

Scoutmaster Lintott had the pleasure of talking with a resident of Cow Creek Canyon this week whose homestead is close to the proposed camp site for the 1921 summer Scout camp. Troop one is quite enthused over this camp, as it is to be a Scout camp in every respect, and all moves will be along scout instruction. For instance along the lines of first aid, games, photography and many others. From the way the wind blows, looking signalling, trail reading, Troop one is headed for Cow Creek canyon this summer or bust, and Troop one was never known to bust.

Scoutmaster Lintott expects to make a trip to the canyon within this next month or so and look over the various sites for a camp. Remember, boys of Troop One, we will hold our meeting Monday night at 7 p. m. sharp, and all are requested to be present as we have a very important question to settle at this meeting. If the weather permits, we will also have a surprise for those present.

OREGON RELIEF WORKERS HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Rambo Return on Furlough From the Near East.

Oregon's pioneer missionaries, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Rambo, formerly of Baker, and for many years engaged in missionary work in India and the Near East countries, have returned to the United States on furlough. News of their return has been received by State Manager J. J. Handsaker, in charge of the combined China-Near East relief campaigns for the state, in a telegram from New York, where the Rambos landed a few days ago.

Throughout the Near East, the message states, everything is "generally amuck," with little prospect of improvement until definite action is taken by the Allies in regard to the Turk-ridden nations. Conditions in Greece and the Caucasus are touched upon, with details of the appalling situation at Batoum, where the veteran missionaries have spent several months among the 15,000 Greek refugees surviving from the thriving Caucasus colony located there before the war. The Rambos were on their way home last fall and had reached Constantinople, when the call came for them to go to Batoum and aid the refugees there until the latter could be brought back to Salonika, where the Greek government is endeavoring to make some sort of provision for returning Grecian refugees.

In letters written from Batoum, recently received by Mr. Handsaker, the Rambos tell of thousands of families being huddled together in rain-soaked tents and abandoned barracks, beset with typhus and other diseases, half-naked and starving. "And 10,000 more refugees are on their way here from Kars," the letter concludes. "These are now in the snow-covered mountains, and as many as can pull through will soon be here. What we shall do then we do not know. Everything here is unsettled and disturbing. It is considered certain that the Nationalists or the Bolsheviks, or both, will soon take the city and no one knows what will result." In a later letter they speak of the arrival of a ship to take back a load of refugees for repatriation and the joy it brought to the camp, although the Salonika camp to which they were bound could offer little additional in the way of food, clothing or other relief.

Previous letters, written from the Near East, tell of the enforced flight "at the whim of a Turkish official," of the Rambos and 200 little orphans in their charge. They had to leave at a moment's notice and in the dark, traveling all night on foot and carrying their own blankets, clothing and everything else they possessed. They were allowed no lights and were told not to speak above a whisper, as murderous Turks were running riot all along the way. After stumbling along through water and over rocks for hours, they reached the railroad station at day-break, exhausted but without the loss of one of the 200 children, but none too soon, for with the coming of light the Turks discovered what was afoot and began firing upon them from the hill-sides, the little caravan of exhausted children and missionaries making the last hundred yards through a hail of bullets.

The Rambos conducted their 200 charges, with many adventures and hardships, to safety within the walls of a British Relief station, and turned homeward, stopping over for a day for rest at Adana. While they slept, exhausted, the Turks tore up the railroad leading to and from Adana, and left them marooned in the hot, dusty, besieged city. They awoke to find bullets breaking through their walls and whistling all around them. With Miss Grane, a young American relief worker, they finally started from Adana in a Near East Ford, joining a refugee caravan and fleeing southward. They were shot at repeatedly and at a dangerous pass waited three hours before daring to attempt the run across an open space. At last with Mrs. Rambo and Miss Grane hunched to the running board of the Ford, behind a barricade of baggage on the opposite side from the heaviest firing, and Rambo himself at the wheel, with baggage piled high all around him to ward off the bullets, they made the rush, "driving like Jehu for two miles," until beyond the aim of the bandits. "After many other strenuous experiences they made their way to Constantinople, going from there to Batoum for several months, thence home to the United States.

Bishop W. H. Lambuth, in charge of the Methodist missions in North China, where 45,000,000 are faced with starvation as the result of a disastrous flood followed by two seasons of drought, says:

"Their clothes are ragged and scanty. Their only food is a gruel made of weeds, leaves, chaff and corn-cobs. One cold night in January in one refugee camp alone, one thousand of these starved, weakened human creatures froze to death. What is to be done must be done within the next five months, yes, within the next two or three months. Otherwise millions will perish."

The death rate in the famine section is estimated at 15,000 daily, with typhus and other diseases beginning to rage. The only hope of the despairing millions is in food supplies provided in tremendous quantities by the people of the United States.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC.

Having had my place of business closed by order of the Umpqua Valley Bank, without a stated reason, and being advised on every hand that the report is current that I am deeply in debt, unreliable, and will bear watching, I wish to advise the public, whom I have had the privilege of serving, that the entire program is a case of persecution and absolutely unwarranted. One year ago I purchased two restaurants in Roseburg for spot cash, and have paid spot cash for all supplies. If there are any outstanding bills against me unpaid, I have no knowledge of it. If I have overlooked any, kindly present them to the Roseburg National Bank for payment. Kindly thanking the public for their patronage in the past, I remain,
SAM COWLEY,
