

THE SIGNS OF THE TIMES

An Address Delivered by Senator B. L. Eddy Before the Members of the W. C. T. U. at the Convention Recently Held in This City

The following address was given by Senator B. L. Eddy before the members of the W. C. T. U. conference held in Roseburg:

I have been requested to give an account of the work of the session of the legislature. I am disappointed with the late session. Not for a long time has a session of the legislature been so generally commended as that one which closed, and yet, I do not feel that I have taken a part in it which I experienced no disappointment. Do not misunderstand me as criticizing the legislature in and of itself, but the legislature is a representative body and the state who have been chosen for particular work. The legislature, however, cannot be expected to rise above the average of the state and the average of the state has not fallen lower. Many measures were adopted by the legislature and I trust that some of them will be considered as having been passed. However, the things that ought to have been done were not done. There should have been legislation for the enforcement of the prohibition law. Of course, that did not go far, but at the same time, responsible measures were introduced to secure a better enforcement of the law had to be withdrawn at the last moment, not only because of the legislature, but in the state. A very mild measure was passed, but it was not the use of district attorneys in enforcing the prohibition law. On every side, the statement that the law was not to be enforced, but we wish to preserve our law. The situation simply is that the law is not to be enforced, but we wish to preserve our law. The situation simply is that the law is not to be enforced, but we wish to preserve our law.

With regard to the general disposition of men to follow after these false teachings, I cannot forbear recalling the criticism which Jesus made of the Pharisees. It seems to me that when he called them hypocrites, he referred not so much to the fact that they pretended to be righteous and were yet full of sin, but he referred to the fact that they pretended to accept the teachings of Moses, and yet, when he pointed out to them that Moses wrote of him, they would not believe. The Pharisees were saturated in a hypocritical philosophy. It seems to me that this is in some sense the condition of our day. We call ourselves Christians, we pretend to accept the Bible, we say much about the church and yet we are not showing by our works that we really believe. We pretend to accept Moses, but we do not follow the teachings of Moses. One of the signs of the times is the prevalence of this attitude of mind, which is essentially hypocritical.

"To you ladies of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, engaged as you are in a warfare for righteousness, I would like to bring a thought from the twelfth chapter of the First book of Chronicles. We have in that chapter the picture of the gathering of armed men of the different tribes of Israel at the city of Hebron for the purpose of making David King of Israel. In my mind's eye, I can see those stalwart hosts swinging in from the highway, stacking their arms, ready to fight if need be, for King David. We have not time now to call the roll or to mention the number of fighting men from the different tribes, but of two of the tribes, certain statements are made, which I would like to repeat in your ears. Of the tribe of Issachar it is said that they had understanding of the times, and to know what Israel ought to do. Of the tribe of Zebulun, it is said that they had fifty thousand men who could keep rank, or set the battle in array, and were not of double heart. To you who love and labor for the kingdom of David's Greater Son, does it not appear that we need in these days people with an understanding of the times and who can keep rank and who are sincere and not of double heart?"

"I have given you my thoughts in outline only, and in a very brief way. I commend them to your consideration, as there is no opportunity at this time to elaborate. Let us look around us, let us listen sufficiently to the voices which are abroad in the world to realize how mighty are the influences which are at work against every righteous cause. One more thought from the Scriptures, and I close. You remember that upon a certain occasion, Jesus was talking to people who considered themselves quite competent to forecast the weather, and he asked of them a searching question. 'Ye can discern the face of the skies, but can ye not discern the signs of the times?'

Everybody Knows Jiggs Mahoney

Boy, page Mr. and Mrs. Jiggs Mahoney. Don't know 'em? Where have you been? To the timberlands or in the desert of Sahara along with the other mollycoddles of oblivion? Stop your kidding. We knew you knew 'em all the time. Well—the favorite characters of George McManus' cartoons, "Bringing up Father" will be seen in an entirely new musical comedy at the Antlers theatre tonight only, for the first time in Roseburg.

The entire production, of course, is under the management of Gus Hill, who made it possible for the Mahoney's and other likeable characters of the universally well known comics to see the light of day on the stage. The title of the new play is "Bringing up Father at the Seashore," and is replete with original tunes, screams, surprises, novelties and ingredients sure to arouse mirth and laughter in a misanthrope. The entertainment is divided into three acts of speed, action and zest.

Winchester Poultry Farm Is Sold

The large poultry farm owned by J. H. Clark and located at Winchester was sold yesterday to Monroe Nance, of Davenport, Iowa. The place consists of 23 acres of land and one of the most modern and thoroughly equipped poultry plants in Douglas county. Mr. Clark has developed the place from a slightly improved farm to a complete poultry plant with over 500 laying hens. This is the second place he has established and sold in Douglas county and although he is not definitely committed in regard to his future course, he has practically determined to remain in the poultry business in Douglas county. The new owner will take possession in about two weeks. The deal, which was consummated by A. T. Lawrence, was in the sum of $7250.

GLENDALE NEWS NOTES

Sunshine, blue skies and the promise of a nice day. We hasten to note this for fear of a snow storm or a rain, yet, withal we are enjoying the evidences of springtime and prosperity all around us.

Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Greninger, of this locality, who are among our most esteemed residents are enjoying a visit from a cousin whom they have not seen for 30 years. We were much pleased to meet the gentleman who seems much pleased with our city and valley.

"Alice in Wonderland" the third of a series of home talent plays was given last Friday at the auditorium, and was a success, financially and socially and will add materially to our memorial monument fund. The plays have been one of the most successful and co-operative occurrences that have ever commenced in our city. They were planned and managed by the editor of the Glendale News, and our entire population responded to the call with a truly patriotic and loyal sentiment for all our soldiers who followed our flag on to victory, and especially those who made the supreme sacrifice and to all parents and kindred who were bereft by their loss.

"Alice in Wonderland" was excellently portrayed by our young people and to them all we extend congratulations.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Hamilton were the guests of Mrs. M. E. Hamilton on Monday.

U. S. Commissioner O. S. Brown, at his office in this city passed on the Chambers case last Saturday. The case was a violation of the Mann white Slave Act. Deputy sheriff Percy Webb and a federal officer brought Mr. Chambers to this city and he was then taken on to Portland the same night.

A call for Dr. Knott from Wolf creek last night, stated that a child had been run over by an auto and left unconscious by the roadside. No further information of the case has as yet been noted.

Earl Williams who spent the winter at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Williams of this city returned to his home in Gladstone where he is engaged. Earl is an excellent man and has almost recovered from his army experiences. His many friends here regret his leaving our city, and express the hope for him that he may prosper in his new location.

The Ladies aid of the Lutheran Church will meet with Mrs. J. C. Jones on April 7th. A general invitation is extended to all the ladies to meet with us. Special work will be considered.

The case of Enoch Barnett recently heard at Roseburg, is exciting the public mind in this community and very diverse opinions are expressed. Much sympathy for the old gentleman is felt. His brother John, of Custer, Montana, has been wired to come at once.

ELKTON NOTES.

There was a dance at Ed Grubbe's home last Saturday night. Everyone had a fine time.

Last week Earl Higginbotham accidentally shot his own hand, making quite a serious wound.

Walter Gorsline and Blossom Cheever are on the sick list this week.

Our minister, Rev. Dix, has been quite ill but is now improving.

Mrs. Boyle and daughter, Ruby, met with quite an accident while out riding in a buggy one day this week. Mrs. Boyle's knee was hurt quite severely.

Oliver McColeman has returned from Portland.

Prof. Emadson made another visit to the Willamette valley a week ago.

The road work between here and Scottsburg is under way once more. The road between here and Drain is also being gone over by Mr. Weatherly, the road boss.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Traylor and family went to Albany last Friday to see Ernest Traylor, who is now living at Albany.

W. G. Grubbe was seen on our streets Saturday.

Mrs. Hayden is very busy with her 200 baby chicks. She finds much work in connection with incubator chickens.

The Elkton high school will be out May 27, on which date will be commencement. One graduate will be far better than none.
