HANDLING "BAD BOYS"

Many people, noting deprecations committed by boys complain of the "lawlessness of youth" as one favorite phrase goes.

The proper rearing of boys and girls is a mighty big problem in every community. Lack of good, wholesome, amusements in the way of in and out door sports adds to the yearly toll of wayward children, and strange as it may seem, while much energy and attention is given to save the older heads, little or no effort is made by the public generally to direct the future welfare of the rising generation.

The average child of normal mind is entitled to a certain amount of consideration and latitude in the way of childish amusement. You cannot steele pleasures, that appeal only to adults on the mind of the young.

Those who had fears that the recent baseball scandals would affect the attendance evidently had no cause for their unrest. The fact that quick, firm and drastic action was taken in the matter undoubtedly saved the day and convinced the fans that the powers will not tolerate any crookedness.

Entries continue to come in for the annual spring bench show of the Puget Sound Kennel Club which is to be held at Seattle on May 5, 6 and 7.

Before Tex Rickard took hold of it, they were talking about tearing down Madison Square Garden in New York because it couldn't pay for itself.

The rules, ethics and morals of golf will be the curriculum of a school for caddies which is being contemplated at St. Louis country club.

Harry Rice, prominent resident of Merrill Creek, absent the day in the city attending to important business matters.

The strike season is approaching, but mother will continue to put in her usual sixteen hours a day at the spring housecleaning, with no extra pay for overtime and Sundays.

The backbone of the high cost of living was broken in Roseburg today. One leading restaurant is advertising home-made pies at the old original price of five cents per cut.

Don't overlook the special offers by live-wire merchants set forth in today's News-Review. It will pay you to scan closely the advertising columns of this paper every day.

Considering the speed that some "natives" travel when they hit the middle of the road, there is no wonder they meet up with an occasional automobile every now and then.

You get an awful pull when everybody pulls together.

It looks as if California would get in line to make it a felony for any work. The proposed California statute, if it passes will include school boys and collegians among those who can be reached by the law.

Some of these chess fans are likely to crack under the strain of the long drawn out contests between Cablanca and Lasker. How they can sleep when an unfinished game is adjourned until the next day is more than we can figure out.

Mr. Edwin Blaney, Jr., of Yale university will have to hire a private secretary and statistician if he wants to keep track of all the swimming records he is breaking this season.

The opening games of the major leagues drew an average attendance of 22,300 each, which would indicate that the various turnstiles are not likely to get rusty for want of use during the coming season.

Blue Laws and Uncle Sam's Tax Budget. By RALPH FORD COUCH. (United Press Staff Correspondent.) WASHINGTON, April 21—Sunday closing of movies, soda fountains, tobacco stores and the like as urged by blue law enthusiasts would cost the federal government nearly $1,000,000 a Sunday in reduced taxes, it was estimated here today on the basis of returns of the Internal Revenue bureau. The loss of $52,000,000 a year is a mere drop in the bucket to the government, which last year collected over $5,500,000,000 in taxes, according to blue law exponents. This shortage could easily be made up from other sources it is alleged. A federal anti-cigarette law, proposed by those behind the legal purification movement would cost the government approximately $150,000,000 a year. That is the amount collected last year on cigarettes. A law forbidding the sale of tobacco in all forms would cost the government approximately $26,000,000 a year. In this connection it is disclosed that snuff, so much affected by our grand fathers has not yet completely gone out of fashion. Snuff taxes last year the government netted 600,000 or nearly more than $2 more than the year before. Taxes amounting to about 1,000 are collected by the government on cigarettes, soft drinks, molasses and tobacco for each day in the year. This was set on the basis of one seventh a total tax collection from these sources, with the exception of one. From this source, only one-tenth or five percent was retained since it was assumed that the closing of tobacco stores would reduce sales in proportion to the period when purchases could be made. Addicts of the weed, it is summed, would stock up on Saturdays.
