Ceylonese Plumbago.

Plumbago, Ceylon's most important mineral product, is known all over the world for its luster, lubricating, polishing and binding qualities. In appearance it is a strong black crystalline. There are now about 1,000 plumbago mines in Ceylon, including all the shallow pits, open works and deep mines. The depth varies from a few yards to as much as 700 feet. Most of the mines are worked by natives, the only important one controlled by Europeans being the Medapola. In the majority of the mines the only machinery used is the "dabare." This consists of a long wooden barrel with handles at each end. A rope is wound around this with a bucket fastened to each end. It is worked by seven or eight men turning the handle.

Time Has Brought Changes.

When I was a young lady I was extremely thin and tall, and very sensitive in regard to my figure. Our club was about to give a masquerade which I was anxious to attend, but realizing how hard it would be for me to disguise myself, and yet wishing to represent something original, I remarked this to a young man at the club. He looked at me with a smile, and in the presence of all the other members said, in a most sarcastic voice, "Well, why don't you wear a rubber on your head and go as a lead pencil?" Oh, if he could only see me now, I know he would say, "put a couple of hoops around your waist and go as a barrel."—Exchange.

STILL IS DESTROYED

The copper still recently confiscated by the officers in the raid at Colos Valley was destroyed last night by Sheriff Starmer and a government officer. The copper kettle was broken up so that it cannot be used again. The metal will probably be sold and the proceeds will go to the county.

Those Who Dare Not Smile.

The fallacious has its place in the universe. It is not a human invention, but one of the divine ideas illustrated in the practical jokes of kittens and monkeys. Curious it is that we always consider solemnity and encounter of wits as essential to the idea of the future life of those whom we thus approve of half their faculties, and then call them blessed.

There are not a few, who, even in this life, seem to be preparing themselves for that smileless eternity to which they look forward, by banishing all gaiety from their hearts and all joyousness from their countenances. I met one such in the streets not infrequently, a person of intelligence and education, but who gives me (and all that he passes) such a rayless, chilling look of recognition—something as if he were one of heaven's assessors, come down to doom. I don't doubt he would cut his kitten's tail off if he caught her playing with it.—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Extraordinary Time Keeping.

Methods of reckoning time have always been a source of trouble to scientists. The first standard was the lunar month—that is, the period of about 29½ days between one new moon and the next. Twelve of these months seemed to correspond to the four seasons, and so the year was fixed at 354 days. They soon found that they were getting badly mixed, that the seasons did not correspond to the months; in the course of 10 years they were more than three months wrong. The Jews and Greeks stuck in another month now and then. They added seven months in 10 years and managed to keep a clumsy track of time.

Hayden Studio Sold to James Clark

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Clark today completed the purchase of the photographic studio formerly owned by Mrs. Edith Hayden, located in the Bell building on Jackson street. The firm of Clark and Clark was formerly in business in this city and will probably change the name of the Hayden studio to conform to the old firm name which will be resumed. Mr. and Mrs. Clark recently moved back to this city after disposing of their fine poultry ranch at Winchester and will make their home in this city in the future. They expect to obtain a place near Roseburg where they can continue in the poultry business and at the same time operate the studio. Both are expert photographers and will doubtless enjoy a fine patronage.

KLAMATH HEARING IS SET

SALEM, April 20—Next Wednesday has been set for hearing arguments before the supreme court in the mandamus proceedings filed by J. M. Dougan, of Portland, to enforce payment of approximately $20,000, alleged to be due for the erection of a courthouse in Klamath county.

The Klamath county treasurer is named as defendant in the action. Two courthouses were erected there but after years of litigation, the supreme court legalized the so-called Dougan structure and awarded the contractor a judgment for about $100,000. Mr. Dougan claims that $20,000 remains unpaid.

The records before the supreme court indicate that the Klamath county clerk issued warrants for the payment of the money alleged to be due Mr. Dougan, but the treasurer failed to honor them.
