

To the Workers of Oregon

By Otto R. Hartwig
President, Oregon State Federation of Labor

DURING these days of reconstruction and uncertainties, it becomes more than ever necessary for the citizens of Oregon to patronize the industries of Oregon by buying such products as are made in this state.

Industries of Oregon cannot be expected to grow and furnish continuous satisfactory employment to the workers of Oregon if we spend our money for products manufactured elsewhere.

It is a well known fact that on the whole, Oregon workers are receiving better wages and working under more satisfactory conditions than is true of the workers in many of the eastern centers where a good deal of the products that the careless purchaser buys comes from. It is the height of stupidity and selfishness to demand decent working conditions from the Oregon employers and then turn around and use the money earned in Oregon to buy products made under sweat-shop conditions that exist in many of the eastern and middle states.

Let's buy Oregon Products!

ADVICE TO LOVELORN AND OTHERS

BY MRS. ELLSBURY.

A Daily Column of Questions and Answers Conducted by a Woman
Who Knows. Address your Letters to Mrs. Ellsbury
Care Roseburg News-Review.

Dear Mrs. Ellsbury: I have been reading your column in the News-Review, and I have come to you for advice. I was once engaged to a young man but about two months ago I broke the engagement, because I was so jealous of him. I have been going with several different men. My folks object to me marrying the young man I was engaged to, because he did not give me a good reason for breaking it. I am eighteen years of age. Will you please advise me what to do.

Yours very truly, E. M.
A. The young man must have been terribly jealous if you considered that alone reason enough to break your engagement. Very few men are that jealous, and you must not act hastily. Remember that men are jealous of the girl they love, and sometimes it seems that they are unreasonably so. Are you sure that you did not give him reason to be jealous? If you sincerely love him, make up with him by all means, and see that you do not give any cause to be jealous again. Then if he persists in being jealous, then you are worthy of his trust, and that he is ruining both your lives. Only one man in a thousand will respond to that treatment.

Dear Mrs. Ellsbury: Is it proper for a girl ten years old to give and receive Christmas presents with a boy she has known all her life?

MARGERY GREEN.
A. It is proper if the two families are friendly and in the habit of exchanging gifts, or if you and the little boy are in the habit of playing together a great deal.

Dear Mrs. Ellsbury: Will you please tell me in what year the flood at Heppner, Oregon, occurred?

O. L.
A. The flood at Heppner, Oregon, occurred June 15, 1903.

Dear Mrs. Ellsbury: Should a girl of 13 have an allowance? How much a month should it be?

BLUE EYES.
A. Yes, she should have an allowance, and the amount should depend largely upon the means of her parents. The best plan is for her to receive a weekly rather than a monthly allowance, and this should be in return for certain household tasks which she performs regularly. She should not spend her entire allowance for sweets and amusements. It should be enough to cover the cost of school supplies, ribbons and other small belongings, and she should have each week a definite amount, however small.

Dear Mrs. Ellsbury: Where is the American Hall of Fame?

S. F.
A. The "Hall of Fame for Great Americans" is a building on University Heights in the grounds of New York University. It was completed in 1900.

Dear Mrs. Ellsbury: Which was more expensive, the Woolworth building or the giant steamer Leviathan?

CURIOUS.
A. The Woolworth building cost $14,000,000; the Leviathan cost to build approximately $8,000,000.

Dear Mrs. Ellsbury: I have been going with a young man for six months and love him dearly. Other young men tell him things about me which are untrue, and he tells me what he has heard. This hurts my feelings very much and causes quarrels between us. He will not believe me when I tell him that the things are not true. He will not even tell me who it is that is talking about me. Sometimes I think he makes up these stories himself. Do you think he would keep on going with me if he didn't care for me?

M. A. The young man might pay your attentions even if he did not have a deep regard for you; but if he truly cared for you, even as a friend, he would not make you a subject of discussion with his men friends. Neither would he be so inconsiderate as to repeat to you remarks which hurt your feelings. Since this is the case and since this man so evidently doubts your sincerity and you doubt his, the friendship does not promise much happiness. Give your interest to those who show more appreciation of your friendship.

There will be lots of good things to eat placed on sale. The ladies of the church are requested to have their home-cooked foods at the sale as early as possible Saturday morning.

Dear Mrs. Ellsbury: What is Camembert cheese?

E. J.
A. A soft, cream cheese made in the vicinity of Camembert, near Argentan, France; also any cheese of the same type wherever made.

Dear Mrs. Ellsbury: Will you please tell me how to prepare cinnamon toast?

HOUSEWIFE.
A. Cream two ounces of butter with five tablespoons sugar. Flavor with one teaspoon ground cinnamon. Spread on slices of hot toast and serve at once.

Sinnott Offers Bill to Clear Land Title

(News-Review Washington Bureau.)
WASHINGTON, May 6.—Chairman Sinnott of the house committee on public lands has offered the committee report favoring a bill recommended by the secretary of the interior, clearing title to 200 acres of land owned by E. W. McComas, on the Columbia river, near Pendleton, Ore. This land was brought from the state under the swamp land act a number of years ago, and it has been impossible to perfect the title, although the property has been greatly improved.

CHINESE STUDENT WAS CALM

Slightly Disturbed by Soiled Necktie, but Not at All by Coming Important Debate.

It is only 15 years ago that Wellington Koo—to whose efforts are largely attributed the election of China to the council of the League of Nations—entered Columbia university, New York. In definite preparation for a diplomatic career he specialized in international law under Prof. John Bassett Moore, and it was in this subject that he took his Ph.D. degree, with a thesis on "The Status of Aliens in China." He was one of the most active and distinguished of the Columbia undergraduates of his time; says the Detroit News. Not only was he elected to the Phi Beta Kappa, the most famous of the American college fraternities, but he became editor in chief of the Columbia Spectator.

As a debator, too, Mr. Koo made his mark among his contemporaries. In 1908 his speech turned the tide in favor of his own university in a debate with Cornell. The story is told that when the Columbia team reached Ithaca, the seat of the rival university, most of its members were in a state of blue funk, owing to the high reputation of one of their opponents. This attack of nerves was at its height when they sought out Koo. "Yes," he told them, "I, too, am worried. I have brought only one evening dress tie with me, and look at it—soiled! What is to be done?" His fellow debaters fled to the nearest haberdashery's and returned with half a dozen ties of assorted models. Koo selected one, arrayed himself, and in it went forth to the fray with a light heart.

OVERLOOK BEAUTY OF FERNS

Choice Varieties Seem Not to Be as Greatly Appreciated as They Should Be.

One of the things which the florists of the United States have neglected to a great extent is the growing of ferns. To be sure we see many beautiful specimens in the windows of city establishments, but very few of the more choice varieties, which are really just as easy to grow, provided a little care is taken with them. How many know, for instance, that there are scores of varieties of the "maidenhair"? The baby maidenhair is one of the daintiest of these, its leaves being but little larger than the head of an ordinary pin. Another variety which is especially beautiful is the New Zealand maidenhair. The stem of this fern flattens out as it nears the leaves, and the leaves themselves are superimposed one on another, which gives the effect of several shades of green. Of course there are also the gigantic tree ferns of the tropics, which have fronds from five to fifteen feet in length, the trunks sometimes being four or five feet in diameter, but these would hardly do for a lady's bouquet.

First American Airway.

The "cornerstone" of America's first airway from Washington to Dayton, Ohio, was laid at Rolling field, Washington, with appropriate ceremonies, designed as a part of the celebration of the anniversary of Lincoln's birth. High officials of the army, members of congress and aviators of note attended.

Army aviation officials described the event as a "milestone in the progress of American aeronautics."

A feature of the dedication was the first public appearance of the American messenger airplane, one of the smallest in the world, which is planned to take the place of motorcycles for certain messenger work. The plane has a wing spread of only 20 feet and stands 7 feet high. It will carry a load of 240 pounds and with its 60-horse power motor makes 95 miles an hour.

Remarkable Belgian Gun.

One of the most curious products of the Belgian gunmakers' art, says Popular Mechanics Magazine, is now in the possession of a Colorado sportsman. This gun is remarkable for its arrangement of seven barrels in one, the composite tube with its cluster of parallel bores being about the size of a heavy-gauge shotgun barrel. Seven 22-caliber rifle cartridges are inserted in the breech openings, and fired simultaneously by a single firing pin and hammer. The shell ejector is a removable disk with seven holes, which swings back when the lock is opened.

Oak in Hall of Fame.

Before Basking Ridge, N. J., took its place in the world an oak stood there. The people of this New Jersey town can trace the tree's history for 400 years, but the church is only 200 years old. It has just celebrated that event. Miss Margaret Hitchcock of Morristown, and Mrs. William D. Baneker of Basking Ridge nominate the tree for a place in the Hall of Fame which the American Forestry association is compiling of trees with a history. The tree has a circumference of 15½ feet 6 feet above the ground.

Indian Chief Drives Auto.

An Indian Chief, Tony Tommy, of the Florida Seminoles, who still wear the garb of their forefathers, is the first of his tribe to buy and operate his own automobile. After a course of instruction at a garage in Miami, the chief now rolls into town each week from his village, near Fort Lauderdale, at the wheel of his machine, but with a pair of horn-rimmed glasses as his only other concession to the ways of the paleface.
