

In the Alaska Gold Rush of 1902

When thousands of men rushed to Alaska for gold, it was necessary to ship in sufficient food to last through the long winter months. In such a climate, coffee, when packed in the ordinary way, deteriorates rapidly, but Hills Bros., who originated the vacuum process several years previously, were there with Red Can Coffee, packed in vacuum cans, insuring the Klondikers of having their coffee as fresh and flavorful as when at home.

What Roseburg Needs

A Column Devoted to Suggestions for the Benefit of the City and Community.

(Editor's Note.—For the remainder of the month of May, the News-Review will accept articles of not to exceed 250 words devoted to some suggested improvement of benefit to the city or to the community. Any plan which it is believed would bring about a better city or county, can be given recognition in this space. All articles must suggest new improvements or must be constructive criticism. No personal criticism will be permitted and no argument will be allowed through this column. All articles must be signed, but the writer's name will be omitted if requested. Address all articles to "Improvement Editor, Roseburg News-Review, Roseburg, Oregon." Any article not conforming to the rules will be rejected and in the event of too many articles only those of the most importance will be chosen.)

APARTMENT HOUSES.

Roseburg has a great and crying need for more homes, more rooms and particularly more apartment houses. There are few cities the size of Roseburg that do not possess several modern, high class apartment houses, where a suite of rooms suitable to one's taste can be procured at a reasonable rental. The housing situation in many of the cities of the coast has been practically solved by renewed building activity, but in spite of the fact that several new residences have been constructed in Roseburg, there is still a decided lack of rooms which is working a great detriment to the city. Families are leaving daily because they cannot find suitable living quarters. Large families are crowded up in a small number of rooms, where the pleasures of life cannot be enjoyed as fully as they should be.

There is no doubt but that a modern apartment house would pay well, and it is surprising that at least one has not been built. The hotels are crowded to the limit and during the tourist season will be even more crowded. It is next to impossible to find a desirable vacant house in Roseburg. A few sleeping rooms can be located, but there are a very limited number of these which can be obtained by a married couple or a small family.

There are a great many people coming to Roseburg during the spring and summer who will remain and be valuable additions to the population of the city if they can find suitable places in which to live, and it would greatly benefit Roseburg if some action could be taken at once to provide rooms where these people might be located.

BIG WASTE OF GOOD FOOD

Sudden Cold Snap Trapped Millions of Herring in Narrow Neck of Alaskan Harbor.

What is declared by Captain Brunn and officers of the steamship North-western to be the greatest fish tragedy ever enacted, to human knowledge, occurred at Klawack bay, Prince of Wales island, January 30, when at one stroke more than 2,000,000,000 good sized herring lost their lives, a Ketchikan (Alaska) dispatch to the New York Sun states. The crew related their remarkable experience of sailing through miles of dead fish.

They said Klawack bay was full of herring three days before the North-western arrived, when a sudden freeze caught the fish in the narrow-necked harbor before they could escape to sea. The freeze came with great suddenness and severity and about six inches of ice formed in the harbor. Millions of herring at the entrance could be seen dumbly fighting to get out to sea before the closed waters were frozen.

"It may sound like a fish story," said Mr. Brudovich, "but the fact is that the greatest chance in the world for obtaining good fish without a stroke of work was lost. For days a few persons tried to put some of the herring away for the summer, but made no inroads on the supply. The nearest Indians, who would have appreciated the fish, were 300 miles away.

"The ship had difficulty in navigating out of the harbor, as the propeller had to do the work of desiccator, and it barely made a knot an hour."

SURE ONE SIGN IS CORRECT

Worried Indianapolis Man is Very Glad to Let Things Remain on That Basis.

When Wallace O. Lee, chairman of the publicity committee for the Gypsy Smith revival arrangements, ordered the big sign on the front of the wooden tabernacle opposite the city hall, he told the sign man to spell it "Gypsy."

After it was painted and set up, somebody told Wallace that he was all wrong—that the first syllable should have been spelled with a "y" instead of an "l." So when Wallace the other day ordered 152 signs boosting the campaign, to be sent to evangelistic churches in the county, he told the sign man to spell it "Gypsy."

Then various ministers worried Mr. Lee by calling him up and saying that although they were glad to get the sign, and so on, still—well, what they were trying to hint politely was that what Wallace didn't know about spelling would have filled a bigger book than the unabridged.

So the harassed booster dug out a dictionary and 'lo, it said that the word, as a common noun at least, may be spelled either way without endangering the peace and dignity of the state.

And then along comes a letter from the evangelist himself and his signature read "Gypsy Smith."

Well, anyway, one sign is right—Indianapolis News.

Tongue Glove.

A glove for the tongue has been newly patented by Gaitley Gulise of Riley, Ind. He calls it a "tongue shield," and it is designed to enable the wearer to escape the unpleasantness of castor oil or other bad tasting medicine.

The contrivance might be said to have the shape of a miniature slipper without any heel portion, but when placed over the tongue is inverted. The tongue is inserted into the "toe" part and the back part of the "sole" extends over the top of the tongue toward the throat.

The device is made of thin sheet rubber, so as to be liquid proof, and is so constructed as to fit the tongue snugly without discomfort. When medicine is taken it passes into the throat without affecting the sense of taste, so that all unpleasantness is obviated.

"Maxim Gorky" a Pseudonym.

"Maxim Gorky," who was reported to be on his way to England on a visit to H. G. Wells, but is still held up by the Bolshevik authorities on the frontier, is Alexei Pyeshkof, the poet and chronicler of parishes and vagabonds of Russian society.

"Gorky" means "bitter." The full name, "Maxim Gorky," may, perhaps, be read to mean "the bitterest of the bitter." The pseudonym effectively symbolizes Pyeshkof's attitude toward life, for his fiction is distilled essence of the disappointed.

He was not at first a Bolshevik, and he seems only to have joined the Bolshevik ranks under pressure. Given his choice between low diet and high office, he preferred the latter, which is one, happily, that does not require him to take any active part in the perpetration of atrocities.—Living Age.

Matches in China.

One of the things that practically everybody in China can afford to buy is a match and as the population is estimated at 400,000,000, the number of matches consumed reaches a great volume. Chinese manufacturers have been making matches for thirty years, but they have never made enough for their own use so that the deficiency has been made up by Japanese and Swedish manufacturers principally. During the war when the outside supply was cut off the activity of the Chinese match-making establishments increased considerably as well as the imports of material for match making.
