

Farm Bureau Meeting Held Today

The circuit court room was crowded to capacity for the farm bureau meeting held this morning. Great interest was manifested, the women being present in almost as large numbers as the men. Fred A. Goff, county president of the organization presided and opened the order of business. Reports were made by the county agent, who gave a detailed account of his work, and reports were also made on the co-operative exchange and co-operative shipping projects, by the persons in charge of those activities. The chief speaker of the day, Mr. George Mansfield, was introduced and made a very interesting talk on farm bureau work and legislative matters incident with agricultural life. Mr. Mansfield is a very interesting speaker and had a fine and inspirational message. He is a firm optimist and believes that the nation's problems will be fully solved with justice to all within a short time. A banquet was given in Mr. Mansfield's honor at noon, with a number of the leading farmers and business men in attendance.

Entertain With Social Afternoon

The W. R. C. and G. A. R.'s held their regular social afternoon yesterday at the armory. Although the weather was stormy, there was a large crowd in attendance, and a most pleasing afternoon was enjoyed by all. Following the program a delicious luncheon was served by the ladies. The following program was given during the afternoon:

Recitation—John Hamlin.
Violin Solo—W. E. Page.
Reading—Mrs. J. Joderson.
Violin Solo—Mrs. George Chandler.
Violin Solo—Mr. Brewbecker.
Mr. Fullerton read a letter from headquarters, pertaining to the encampment at Pendleton in June.
Piano and Vocal Solo—Mrs. A. C. Kidd.
Ray Clark and W. F. Ramsdell representing the American Legion, spoke for a few minutes, on the preparations that were being made for Decoration day. The American Legion is to decorate all graves. Following the program they enjoyed an hour of dancing.

Drive Starting For Worn Out Clothing

An effort is being made throughout the city to raise old clothes for the destitute people of the Near East. The food problem in the stricken Chinese district has been somewhat solved but the clothing problem is one that is serious. The Boy Scouts today delivered printed appeals about the city and announcements will be made in all of the churches of Roseburg tomorrow morning. It is asked that any old clothing available be delivered to the Lawrence real estate office before May 25, when it will be collected by the committee from the local American Legion post and forwarded to headquarters and sent from there direct to China where it will be distributed to the needy persons.

Chautauqua Coming to Myrtle Creek

Mr. A. W. Caswell of Myrtle Creek, who is in charge of the Chautauqua which is to be held at Myrtle Creek from May 28 to June 2, was in Roseburg today, attending the track meet. Mr. Caswell states that a fine program is to be given and his statement is borne out by the talent which has been secured. One of the big attractions will be the address to be given Sunday, May 29, by Hon. Henry T. Rainey, congressman from Illinois, who will lecture on "Federal Taxation and the Miracles of Finance." This is to be a great attraction and as Mr. Rainey is a nationally known speaker, there will doubtless be a large number of people from Roseburg in attendance. The Myrtle Creek chautauqua annually attracts many people from Roseburg and the excellent offerings this year indicate that there will be an unusually good attendance.

SUNDAY AT THE CHURCHES.

First Church of Christ, Scientist—Services are held Sunday morning at 11 o'clock and Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock; this meeting includes testimonies of healing. Sunday school convenes each Sunday morning at 9:45. All up to the age of 20 years are invited to attend. The reading room is open daily except Sundays and holidays from 2 to 4 p. m. The public is cordially invited to attend these services and visit the reading room. The subject of Sunday's lesson is "Soul and Body."

Dr. Myron W. Haynes will preach at the Baptist church tomorrow in the morning. Dr. Haynes is one of the ablest preachers on the coast.

Even France Forgets Heroes

By EDWIN W. HULLINGER
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
PARIS. (By Mail.)—Even in France, the people who "stayed at home" forgot easily the sacrifices made by the men who fought in the war, but fortunately there are exceptions in civilian ranks to remember and take the part of their ex-comrades who fared less happily than they.

A regular "O. Henry" incident of this affection of a sound comrade for his crippled brother-in-arms occurred at a little open-air cafe opposite the Gare du Nord.

A beggar, with one leg gone below the knee and an empty sleeve tucked into his pocket, was making the rounds of the tables. His face wore that dazed, numb expression of one who has suffered so much that he has become insensible to any vicissitude of fortune. Three service ribbons were in his lapel buttonhole.

One of the guests, an ex-service man, noticed the ribbons and invited him to "have a look."

There was a whispered consultation inside and the waiter tugged the man's coat sleeve and informed him that the house "didn't serve beggars." The guest pointed to the cripple's service badges, and retorted indignantly:

"Perhaps, then, the house serves its benefactors. This man lost his leg and arm for the proprietor's patrie. The proprietor may have a sense of gratitude!"

The proprietor stood pat. Other guests, ex-service men, became interested and soon there was a crowd around the irate customer and the shoulder-shrugging "patron."

The beggar meanwhile sat in stupefied dazedness, listlessly fingering his crutches. He was so used to this kind of thing that it no longer surprised, hardly even seemed to hurt.

"Waiter, you can serve me, anyway. Bring me a beer."

With a flourish he seized the glass from the waiter's hand, strode across and deposited it in front of the beggar. The crowd cheered. The proprietor scowled.

The second guest, also an ex-service man, smiled at the beggar, bowed to the proprietor, and, with that sense of the theatrical which is one of the charms of the French temperament, raised his glass to the memory of the "grande guerre."

W. B. A. Held Rally Today

The Women's Benefit Association of the Macabee's held their rally in this city today, with an exceptionally large membership in attendance.

The afternoon was taken up with their regular lodge work, at which time initiation took place. Mrs. Adolphe, district supreme commander from Oakland, Calif., and Mrs. Pauline M. Riley of Portland were here to address the local ladies, and their addresses were thoroughly enjoyed.

A delightful banquet is to be served this evening at 6 o'clock at the Methodist church, with the ladies of that church having charge.

A fine program has been arranged for this evening, and the husbands are cordially invited to be present to enjoy the evening entertainment.

The all-day session proved to be most successful, and many candidates were taken into the association.

Seattle Rioters Get Jail Terms

(By Associated Press.)
SEATTLE, May 21.—Twelve rioters were given various fines and jail sentences in the police court today, following numerous waterfront clashes in the marine strike late yesterday and throughout the night. The police were forced to shoot in order to break up one of the brawls.

JOHN ERICKSON INJURED.
John Erickson, a prominent resident of Dixonville, was quite badly hurt this morning while at his work on the highway. Mr. Erickson had been setting fuses for blasting and all but one had successfully gone off. He returned to ascertain the cause for the delay of explosion of the last one, and at that instant it exploded, sending powder, rocks and dirt into his face. The seriousness of his injuries are not definitely known, but he was at once taken to the Mercy hospital, where he will be under observation for several days. It is thought that the most severe injury is to his eye which may be powder burned. Dr. E. B. Stewart is in attendance.

TAUGHT LESSON BY HUNGER

Good Story of How Franklin Was Converted to the Idea of Fish as Human Food.

One day Benjamin Franklin—James Parten tells us in his "Life of Benjamin Franklin"—was on a sloop which was becalmed on a certain island. The sailors, as is still the custom when a ship is becalmed, amused themselves by fishing. Franklin witnessed the catching of the fish with regret. But soon there came to tantalize his nostrils a most alluring odor from the frying pan. So, as Franklin used to tell the story, he went over his reasoning again to see if there was not a flaw in it.

It occurred to him that when the fish were opened he had seen smaller fish in their stomachs.

"Ah!" said Franklin. "If you eat one another I don't see why we may not eat you!"

So Franklin dined upon the fish very heartily, and thereafter ate what others ate. When telling this story Franklin ended with an observation which is often attributed to Talleyrand, but which we are assured was a familiar joke with Franklin. This was:

"So convenient a thing it is to be a reasonable creature, since it enables one to find or make a reason for everything one has a mind to do!"

Persian Bread Has Many Uses.
At Kasvin, Persia, a British patrol base, we were lodged in empty wards of the military hospital, writes Mary E. Griscou in Asia Magazine. Our provisions had almost given out by this time, and we were reduced to Persian stone bread. So far as I know, only the coconut and the bamboo serve more purposes than the flaps of Persian bread, which are about two feet long, one foot wide and a quarter of an inch thick. If it is raining, the Persians use them on their heads as umbrellas; and if it is sunny, as parasols; in winter, they wrap the flaps around their shoulders. If they do not need them for protection they roll them up and carry them under their arms. In the hospitals they spread them out on empty beds to dry.

CAREERS FOR YOUNG BRITONS

Compared With Opportunities in America They May Be Said to Be Decidedly Limited.

Here in America we are quite likely to take for granted that if a man has a good education, then his finding of an opportunity to apply it profitably is a comparatively simple matter. Certainly our whole educational program, and especially our whole line of educational appeal and propaganda, will have to be changed the moment that assumption is no longer to be made. Whiting Williams writes in Scribner's, "Equip yourself, Young America, and the country's yours!" we say in effect to our youth whether in school or at work.

In Britain there is much testimony to the effect that that assumption is not thus to be made.

Unless they spend additional years training for medicine, the law, or other of the professions, graduates of the universities must pretty much expect to find berths in the civil service. The exams for that are extremely difficult. Those who come out of them with marks at the top of the list get the best of the positions in the most important departments at home. They next go out to India or other provinces, while those below them take the second grade of the places here—and so on.

The pay starts at about £300 (nominally $1,500, and considerably more in buying power), with gradual yearly increases up to a certain maximum and a pension.

Up the Flowery Mountain.

Every year thousands of Chinese pilgrims risk their lives in climbing up the side of Hua-Shan, the Flowery mountain, which is sacred to the Taoist religion. Any one reaching the temple far above is supposed to have any request granted as a reward for valor and endurance. The Hua-Shan mountain is over 6,000 feet high, and the ascent in many places must be made along a narrow ledge of branches laid on posts driven horizontally into the face of the precipice. There are no handrails, but a chain held on a rock face offers some security to the ascending or descending pilgrim.

Entrance Must Have Made "Hit."

One Sunday morning a crowd was standing on the depot platform, a short distance from our home, waiting for an excursion train. The night before we had hung curtains around the broad front porch, and were sleeping out there on our steel-winged cot, as it was very warm. I was sleeping close to the edge and when my wife got up rather suddenly over went the cot and I rolled out into the lawn, clad only in my nightshirt, in plain view of the waiting crowd.

I didn't go with my wife to meet the returning excursion that evening.—Exchange.

Two Methods.

"Now that you are earning a bigger salary," said the wife with social ambitions, "surely we can afford a bigger flat?"

But the husband was a man of simple tastes.

"We're very comfortable here," he said. "But if you like we'll ask the landlord to raise the rent."—Tit-Bits.

State Invests In School Bonds

SALEM, May 19.—Bonds of 100 school districts were given a way over all other offerings of a morning by State Treasurer Goff investing $150,000 of the funds of the industrial accident commission. A total of $76,800 in school district bonds was purchased direct from districts which had been offered $100,000 and $15,000 was placed through bond dealers.

Issues purchased direct were: District 137, Douglas county, $100,000; district 41, Columbia county, $100,000; district 54, Columbia county, $100,000; district 18, Douglas county, $100,000; district 14, Walla Walla county, $100,000; district 44, Lake county, $100,000; district 77, Marion county, $100,000; district 8, Douglas county, $100,000; district 18, Coos county, $100,000.

The following issues were purchased through dealers: Union school district, Jefferson county, $100,000; district 19, Lane county, $12,000; district 31, Tillamook county, $10,000; union high school district 12, Klamath county, $22,000.

All the issues will net the state 6 per cent, and all were purchased at par with the exception of the Tillamook bonds, which brought our net 1 1/2 of 1 per cent, and two Klamath county issues, which brought our net 1 1/2 of 1 per cent.
