GENERAL INFORMATION.

The prevailing comment upon Mr. Edison's test questions which he asked of applicants for business positions, has been that the kind of information sought is not essential in business life. Probably not many business heads in any community could show up well on such questions. The men who win are usually specialists, who have learned to concentrate on one field. Meanwhile they are often ignorant on points of general intelligence.

You sometimes find people who have accomplished little business success, but who are as the common phrase goes, "well posted." They read a lot, and they remember a good deal of what they read.

There could probably be some test devised that would determine more accurately whether or not a person had the capacity for successful work. The power of remembering and systematizing details, would be a large element in that success. It would perhaps be a better test of business ability, to ask a man to take a walk through a town, and see how many of the little details of condition in that place he could recall, and what general conclusions he would draw from these details.

The man who could recall a great many such facts, and reach intelligent conclusions therefrom, would suggest that he had keen powers of observation, and ability to classify and unify his observations. This seems to be the kind of thing that wins in business, rather than that meandering instinct that wanders all over the world and picks up interesting things from everywhere, and may not have the gift of organizing this wide range of memory into definite and forceful conclusions.

Yet general information has some value, and should not be despised. No doubt the proportion of well informed people who succeed is much larger than the proportion of those who lack such information.

THE WEDDING MONTH.

June has been from ancient times a favorite month for weddings, and a halo of sentiment surrounds this fraction of the yearly cycle. The reason is no doubt that the month is considered a favorable time for floral decorations. In spite of the tendency of many bridal couples to avoid the expense of elaborate ceremonies, yet most girls want to have a pretty wedding, even if it is a small one. The bride-elect's heart is full of imaginative impulse, and it takes the beauty of flowers to express her notion of the occasion. The wedding scene must be a picture, and nature must build the framework of floral loveliness, in which the spiritual beauty of a loving union is the motive.

Bridegrooms do not commonly care to have the wedding looked at in the light of a picture. They would rather slip out of town to the parsonage of some friendly minister, and have the frills and feathers omitted. But innumerable bridegrooms have been dragged behind the triumphal chariot, much as captive kings were paraded before the populace in ancient Greece and Rome.

Large and stylish weddings are sometimes condemned as ostentatious. They are so if people spend an unreasonable amount of money. The dollars fly fast in the hands of some of these spenders. Long ranks of dress suited darkies imported from some distant city have to pass the costly refreshments. Imported floral decorators lavish their orchids and palms, and expensive musicians contribute their art.

But many girls with democratic feelings have done the same thing in a much simpler way. They dislike to ignore any of their friends, but want them all to be there and see their happiness. The decorations are done by amateurs, catering is simply arranged by home town providers, the music is home made, and everyone is just as happy. But however the June bride sees fit to manage it, there will be no criticism of her methods. All hearts wish her and her choice the best of luck and all good gifts.

To get relief from discouragement don't think how much worse off somebody else is, but how much better off you are.

It just naturally seems to be ordained that those who have philanthropic hearts don't have philanthropic pocketbooks.

There is a difference between being a money-maker and a money-taker.

Every man has been in love at least once in his life—with himself.

An old dog that can't be taught new tricks isn't much of a dog.

Little Interest In German Bonds

By CHAS. McCANN, (United Press Staff Correspondent.) LONDON, June 10.—"As soon as is practicable" after July 1, the first lot of Germany's $32,000,000,000 reparation bond issue will be offered to the world in the open market. So far, there is little to be learned as to when "as soon as practicable" means. The first installment of the bonds—$3,000,000,000—will be delivered to the Reparations Commission on July 1. A second installment is due November 1, of $9,500,000,000. At the same time Germany is to deliver a third series, totalling $20,500,000,000, to be held without coupons until the Reparations Commission decides Germany is able to pay interest and sinking fund from her stated annual payments of $500,000,000 and a 2 1/2 per cent tax on her exports. That represents a total of $22,000,000,000 to be delivered. Not all $200,000,000. There is no authority to Germany provided for payment of this sum in bonds, plus $1750,000,000 representing Belgium's debt to the Allies. From the total must be deducted the amount Germany has already paid in reparations—so far $2,000,000,000. The total to be issued will be roughly $21,750,000,000. The Reparations Commission will await a favorable opportunity to open the first of the bonds to the market, according to plans. Though procedure has not been definitely decided upon, it is thought they, as the central governing special body, will be formed comprising delegates from bond-holding countries. The bonds represent Germany's total reparation debt, and they or their value will be apportioned by the commission among Allied and associated countries to whom reparations are due. The solution contemplated is to permit the recipients of the bonds to do most of the marketing, or to hold the bonds as they choose. In this case precautions will be taken against possible "dumping" by some country willing to accept too low a price for them. It is believed the first lot marketed will total from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000. There is no authority to Germany provided for payment of this sum in bonds, plus $1750,000,000 representing Belgium's

Great Year In Athletics For California

By HENRY L. FARREL, (United Press Staff Correspondent.) NEW YORK, June 10.—Eight young huskies will have a chance in Poughkeepsie June 22 to make California the biggest noise of the collegiate year.

If the California crew succeeds in winning the rowing championship, it will make three victories in the biggest classics of the season.

A football championship, a track championship and a rowing championship in a row would give the Pacific coast state something to crow about for a decade.

California's victory over Ohio's State football team, of course, was the cause of great jubilation on the coast, but the recent achievement in winning the track and field crown from the very best in the east, probably meant much more.

The coast was tired of having their feet on the home track and field laurels at by the east with snickers about "trick watches, pet judges, starters," and the like, so when the California team came east with a large handful of men and beat the east on its own soil it meant more than an ordinary victory.

The followers of athletics figured the California team as having a great chance for the track championships when they looked over the well balanced team that was being sent. It turned out just as expected. California won, not through any individual brilliance, but through the consistent work of the whole team.

The California crew which is to row in the Poughkeepsie regatta will have anything but an easy time to uphold the prestige of the coast on the eastern waters.

The world's champion navy crew had most of its cocking knocked out by losing to Princeton in an early race and can be counted upon to paddle a hard race.

Columbia perhaps will be the hardest to beat. The New York university has one of the best crews of the season. Cornell and Syracuse also can be counted on for a good performance as they are both being primed for that one race.

ALTAR USED BY COLUMBUS

Relic Intimately Associated With Great Discoverer Has Recently Been Brought to America.

Angel Curras of Coruna, Spain, and Gonzales Blanco, noted Spanish artist, have brought to Brooklyn the original small altar presented to Christopher Columbus by Queen Isabella and used by Columbus on his first voyage of discovery on the flagship Santa Maria. The antique was obtained by Curras after several years of endeavor, and is to be delivered to Pernas, Collado & Co., an exporting firm. The authenticity of this altar and a number of other antiques which Curras brought is certified to by affidavits made before Ralph C. Busser, American consul at Coruna.

The altar was originally a gift from Queen Isabella to Christopher Columbus, according to the account given by Mr. Curras, and, besides eight carvings in bone depicting scenes in the life of Christ, contains also small portraits in carved bone of King Ferdinand and Queen Isabella. The small shrine is about sixteen inches high and fourteen inches wide, and the hinged cover, in two pieces, folds over the top, making a compact cabinet.

Each of the doors has a hanging iron knob used to unfold the shrine. According to the documents in Mr. Curras' possession, this shrine is one of a collection of twenty antiques he is bringing to this country. On inspection by customs officials, the shrine was ordered sent to the appraisers' stores, that a valuation might be put on it.

SEEMINGLY 'TAS EVER THUS

Example of Eternal Triangle Will Soon Be Presented to Another Judge and Jury.

Not so very long ago there lived together in Indianapolis a certain man and woman. They were well past middle age, and their children were reared and gone. One evening the man of the family nervously marked the passing of time. Sad suspicion gripped the heart of the woman. The husband explained that he would have to be away from home that evening—on business. The wife explained that she did not wish to stay at home alone, and would go to a neighbor's home. She left the house first. But she did not go to the neighbor's home. Instead she slipped into the rear seat of the curtained darkness of her husband's automobile, and covered herself with a robe. After a while he came out of the house and drove away. He drove to another house in the city and threw up in front. He left the car and entered the house. The wife also left the car and took a position in the shadows nearby. After a few minutes' wait the man came out of the house with another woman on his arm. The eternal triangle was completed, and the same old thing happened. Now they are getting ready to tell it to the judge.

New Smoke-Burning Device.

A new water-cooled baffie-plate device for installation in the firebox of a conventional up-draft furnace has the effect of converting it into one having some of the characteristics of the down-draft type. It is described in Popular Mechanics. Its construction is simple, consisting of two hollow steel compartments of different heights, arranged crosswise of the firebox, at a point somewhat to the rear of the center, with the higher one at the back, thus dividing the firebox into two distinct combustion zones. As the two chambers are separated by a few inches and the higher one reaches to the boiler by the crosssheet, the gases and smoke liberated by the forward portion of the fire are forced to pass over the top of the low forward section, down between it and the rear section, under the latter, and over the hottest part of the fire, where they are consumed.

IT'S not a bit of trouble to have plenty of good things to eat on hand all the time, when you use Calumet Baking Powder.

It never allows baking trouble. You don't "dread" to bake. There is nothing to worry about—and that really is the hardest part of it.

Mix up a batch of biscuits—or the finest kind of cake—it's all the same. There is never but one result—the sweetest and most palatable of foods.

There is not as much worry over baking costs either. Because Calumet costs less—when you buy it—the price is moderate.

—the Kind Mother Uses!

CALUMET BAKING POWDER

It costs you less when you use it—because you don't use as much of it—it has more than the ordinary leavening strength.

You get more out of the flour, sugar, eggs, shortening, etc., because there are no failures—no waste.

The most critical of baking powder judges gave it highest awards, World's Pure Food Exposition, Chicago, Paris Exposition, Paris, France.

The largest selling brand in the world.

A pound can of Calumet contains full 16 oz. Some baking powders come in 12 oz. cans instead of 16 oz. cans. Be sure you get a pound when you want it.

Calumet Doughnut Recipe
4 cups of party flour, 3 level teaspoons Calumet Baking Powder, 1/2 teaspoon of salt, 1 cup of sugar, 1 egg, beaten together, 1 tablespoon of melted butter, 1 cup of milk. This makes the regular size.

Admits Having Husband "Beat up"

(By Associated Press.) HUDSON, N. Y., June 10.—Mrs. Eva Kaber, charged with first degree murder in connection with the slaying of her husband in Lakewood, Ohio, nearly two years ago, today confessed of "getting two men to beat up her husband in order to change his harsh treatment towards her," according to Chief of Police Christensen of Lakewood. She denies that she intended that he be killed. Christensen made this statement to an Associated Press representative in a train carrying him, Mrs. Kaber and her daughter back to Cleveland. Christensen denied the report that the two men had been ordered to pose as ghosts to frighten her husband. He also stated that Mrs. Kaber had not implicated her daughter.

Movie Closeups

Why should an innocent wife of a heliotope placed upon the scale be cupped by a fashionably dressed woman and her escort, at a cause cause her to blush with shame and pass swiftly from the picture?

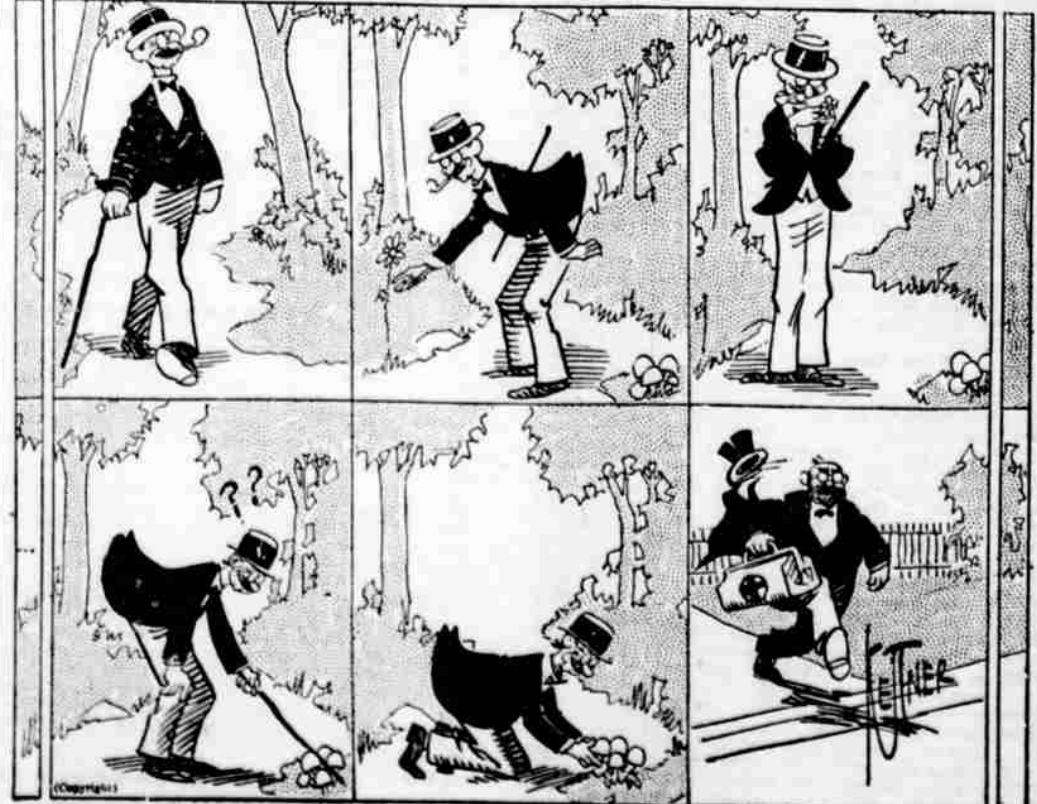

Why did she barrow the car and stand ready with drawn sword just because she snuffed the aroma of heliotope perfume in the room?

When you see "Heliotope," a feature attraction next Sunday on Monday, you'll say that don't you reason enough.

This deeply appealing story adapted from the well known play by Richard Washburn Child, tells the limits to which a father will protect the happiness of his daughter. Without far as she descends into melodrama, it unfolds a plot that for sheer emotion has seldom been equaled. It features Fredrick Brown, the great Allen, and Julia Swayne Gordon included in the cast, and George Baker, directed and wrote the story for the picture. It is the most brilliant production released through Paramount.
