

ADVICE TO LOVELORN AND OTHERS

BY MRS. ELLSBURY

Daily Column of Questions and Answers Conducted by a Woman Who Knows. Address your Letters to Mrs. Ellsbury, Care Roseburg News-Review.

Dear Mrs. Ellsbury: I am a man 17 years of age. My mother made a bet with me that I could take a certain trip, and held interest for me. I did not take the trip and now they say I did not take the bet for certain reasons. What shall I do?

THE CHEATED, Roseburg.

As it is a family affair I can't forget all about it. If they pay the bet even though you say you will have to forego it this time, let some disinterested person hold stakes.

Dear Mrs. Ellsbury: I have a new spring suit and have not yet put a hat or slippers. Will you tell me what kind to buy that will make the suit look more dressy, and also brighten it up a little?

CLARA B. Oakland.

A. I would suggest a grey hat, and grey slippers and stockings with also grey gaiter socks. The combination is very good this spring, and is an exceedingly pretty one also. Either a black or grey bag would be appropriate.

Dear Mrs. Ellsbury: What does a "fine" ounce mean in weighing gold?

R. C.

A. A "fine" ounce means an ounce of pure gold. However, it is not used in weighing gold. The unit used in weighing gold is the troy ounce. The troy ounce contains 480 grains.

One Thing After Another.

In many years since man was created of all his ills by the removal of a largely superfluous appendix, the magic of that operation became the palladium of the chief of the medical profession, and the discovery of the "dead tooth" in all its perils of life. But man's health is still indifferent, and the discovery of a pathway to centenarian life. Passing by monkey glands, we come to the nerve centers of the seat of all trouble and delicate combination of osteopathy and massage as the infallible for perfect health.—London Express.

Permanent Color Improvement. Your face is no longer flushed with red. Uncle Bill Bottletop, who they proclaimed prohibition and pale and never got over it.

Another Victory for Machinery. From Lyons, France, comes the report that a machine has been developed making raised embroidery in gold silver. It is stated that the machine is a copy of an ancient form and gives an impression of handwork, and is also the first machine that has been successful in using the metallic thread. It is stated the machine is the result of seven years of study, and that the results are very satisfactory.—Scientific American.

Are You Up-To-Date?

Do you load it at the muzzle
When you want a shot or two?
Do you wind it with a watch-key
Like your father used to do?
How'd you like to hop a horse-car
Like you did long years ago?
Don't an auto beat an ox-cart?
Well, I rather reckon so.
Do you argue that an hour-glass
Beats a Waltham all to smash?
Do you use the same old system
Keepin' books and countin' cash.
Do you trim a goose quill neatly—
When you want the ink to flow?
Don't you think there's been improvement
In the last decade or so?
Tell us, are you advertising
In the same old foolish way
That your grand-dad did before you
And persist, "It doesn't pay?"
Think the whole world knows your address
"Cause it hasn't changed in years?"
Wouldn't the paths of such logic
Drive a billy goat to tears?
Just a card is all you care for?
Hidden, lonesome and unread,
Like the sign upon the tombstone
Telling folks that you are dead.
Wake up, and take a tonic,
Bunch your hits and make a drive,
Run a page and change your copy,
Advertise and keep alive!

BIG "GATE" FOR COMING FIGHT

Receipts For Dempsey-Carpentier Battle to Surpass All Records.

SEATS WILL COME HIGH

Ringside Boxes Selling At $50 Each Exhausted and Only General Admission Tickets Remain To Be Disposed Of.

NEW YORK, June 15.—The Dempsey-Carpentier boxing bout for the world's championship at Jersey City, July 2, will draw the greatest "gate" in the history of the sport.

A month before the fight, Promoter "Tex" Rickard announced that the seat sales totaled $650,000. Since that day, the sale of all seats has gone on briskly except for the $50 pasteboards, which are exhausted, and the general admission seats, to be placed on sale the day of the fight. Rickard estimates that approximately 65,000 persons will pay $1,000,000 to view the ring action at Boyie's Thirty Acres.

Those figures will eclipse by far all previous records for ring contests or any other sport in this country. The Willard-Dempsey battle at Toledo, O., which established the previous record drew $451,000 at the box office, a puny figure as compared with what the coming spectacle will attract.

The Harvard-Yale football game and the Indianapolis Speedway races are annually reckoned among the largest and most widely patronized sporting events in this country. Last fall, 79,000 persons were jammed into the Yale Bowl when Harvard met the Bulldogs and the total receipts were approximately $250,000 about one-quarter of the amount which will be paid for the coming fight. The attendance at the Indianapolis Speedway event usually ranges between 100,000 and 12,000, but the total receipts fall short of what Rickard and his assistants will have gathered in when the gong sounds for the first round of the Jersey City battle.

"Tex" Rickard stated his career as a promoter of championship bouts on a large scale began when Joe Gans met Battling Nelson in Goldfield in 1906. The receipts for that memorable battle were $69,715. That figure was topped when Jack Johnson fought Tommy Burns in Australia on Christmas day, 1908, but Rickard again established a high mark in 1910 when fighting fans from all over the country paid $270,775 to see the Jeffries-Johnson conflict at Reno, Nev. Figures for the Willard-Dempsey fight at Toledo, July 4, 1919, supplanted even that large total and Rickard, in the coming Jersey City match, has entered the select circle of "million dollar business men."

Figures on leading bouts of recent years follows:

Principals	Gate	Receipts
Willard-Jeffries	$452,521	270,755
Johnson-Jeffries	270,755	270,755
Willard-Moran	140,000	97,000
Johnson-Burns	97,000	69,715
Gans-Nelson	69,715	68,000
Willard-Johnson	68,000	66,300
Jeffries-Sharkey	66,300	63,340
Jeffries-Corbett	63,340	56,350
Corbett-McCoy	56,350	52,000
McGovern-Ernie	52,000	x estimated.

Jackson County Sheriff In City

Sheriff O. E. Terrill, of Medford, arrived in Roseburg today accompanied by Jasper Loomis, of Ashland. They are here to take back J. R. O'Donovan, who is charged with having stolen the Chevrolet car belonging to Loomis. O'Donovan was arrested here after he had obtained a position as cook in a local restaurant, leaving the car in a garage.

Rev. R. S. Bishop, formerly of this city, now pastor of the M. E. church at Yamhill, is visiting for a short time with his friend, Rev. Guy Fitch Phelps, pastor of the local church. Rev. Bishop formerly was pastor of the Roseburg circuit.

COUNTRY OF SWEET SCENTS

French City of Lyons Center of Region Which Supplies the World With Perfume.

Lyons, in France, is the city of scents. It is the center of a region which supplies the world with perfumes, and has the only university that offers a course in perfumery-making to students. Within the last few years Lyons has developed a great laboratory system for the manufacture of artificial perfumes by the process of synthetic chemistry. Thus its technical experts convert oil of verbena into violet and, lily-of-the-valley, oil of camphor into heliotrope, aniseed oil into hawthorne, oil of clove into vanilla, and oil of rosewood into bergamot. Toluene (a derivative of coal tar) they transform into jasmine and artificial rose. From xylene (likewise a coal tar product) they obtain artificial musk.

Roses are grown on an immense scale in the region about Lyons for the manufacture of perfumery. Likewise sage, thyme and sweet marjoram. That region produces 80 per cent of the total world's output of real lavender oil, representing a value of 20,000,000 francs a year. One concern has 10 square miles planted with lavender.

ALMOST GAVE AWAY SECRET

Little Girl Would Have Had Sweet Revenge If She Had Reached That Troupe.

A prominent Vigo county business man wears a toupee. Only his family and closest friends know. But recently it almost became a public fact. He was dining with his wife and some friends at a large hotel, when he walked another friend with his four-year-old daughter. The business man likes to tease children, so he immediately began on this one. He called her a little boy, and persisted in addressing her in that way.

It was evident she was not enjoying the incident, and the Vigo county man's wife came to the child's rescue. "If he doesn't stop calling you names I'll pull his hair if I were you," she advised.

The little girl started to follow that advice, and then fun did begin. The way that man ducked and begged the youngster to desist threw the crowd into paroxysms of laughter. But the people who knew about the toupee nearly went wild. They were almost sorry when he finally persuaded her to be friends and leave his head alone.—Indianapolis News.

Movies In "Maths."

Movie aids to instruction in mathematics are being utilized at Huntington school here. Geometry, a dull subject in other days, is said to have become almost a thing of joy. Text-books are used, but only after an appetite for solids, surfaces and space has been created and stimulated by films that move and by animated angles.

Charles H. Sampson, the instructor, says he uses two reels of 1,000 feet each. "The purpose," he says, "is not to teach geometry but rather to gain a valuable aid in the teaching of it."

"The subject is introduced on the film by a Japanese juggler. He appears with a basket filled with geometrical figures of all kinds which he juggles with skill. Thus the students are early interested in the general subject. Because too few students appreciate the value of the historical background there is next introduced a series of short life sketches."—Boston Dispatch in the New York Tribune.

To Kill Wood Boring In Lumber.

Kiln drying is fatal to some of the most wood-boring grubs, the forest service laboratory of the United States Department of Agriculture at Madison, Wis., has discovered. This fact is of considerable importance to users of ash, hickory, and many other woods which are attacked by insects. Manufacturers using ash lumber, for instance, are much annoyed by the injury worked by the red-headed ash borer. Air seasoning has no effect on the activities of these grubs, but, according to tests made by the laboratory on wood infested with them, any kiln-drying process which can be considered practical for seasoning ash of any thickness will put an end to the borers.

ing mother boy. After proving their gu't, she turned the husky-looking youngster over her knee and administered a good, old-fashioned spanking. But at the other one she hesitated. She voiced her reason to a teacher standing near: "I hate to whip him. He's so thin and sickly looking," she said.

The chunky culprit overheard her speech. "I guess criminals can be skinny as well as fat," he sobbed accusingly.

Oak In River Bed.

Just before the war, says the American Forestry Magazine of Washington, it was discovered in Russia that the bed of the Moksha river, for a length of 400 miles, was full of magnificent oak trees. Oak has the peculiar property of lasting for centuries when buried in water or wet sand. Oak piles from bridges constructed by the Romans have been found to be as sound as when placed, nearly 2,000 years ago.

USED SYSTEM OF HIS OWN

Professor Refused to Allow Proper Spelling to Weigh at All Heavily Upon Him.

Of course "enough" spelled "buff" and yet "buff" is not spelled "caught." School boys, seasoned business men, not to mention school teachers, often find the spelling of the English language a bit troublesome. But here is a one-time university professor and now eminent scientist who not only admits that spelling "gets him rattled," but goes so far as to invent his own form of spelling, which exactly follows out the sound of the word.

Hence we find such sentences as these in a recently issued volume by the anthropological department of the university museum:

"His hair was still black."
"The two ritings when they wer don, ov course wer not alike."
"Some paragraphs ov hiz own wer dropt."
"I say az nearly az possible because—"

The author of the volume, which is the translation of a legend of the Kercal Indians of Guatemala, is Robert Burkitt, an Englishman.

Complicated Prescription.

She's sorry now that she didn't spend more time studying and less time on prom class day and similar commitments when she was in school and she's trying to make up for it by noting down every new and unfamiliar word she hears to be looked up later in the dictionary. This habit caused her a bit of embarrassment the other night.

A friend had told her a new remedy for sore throat and had written down its long name on a slip of paper.

Going to the busy prescription counter she handed a slip of paper to a clerk. He looked at it. He looked hard at it. The other waiting customers were beginning to get impatient before he finally turned to the girl.

"I can't figure it out," he admitted. "Why, it's simple," she told him. "It's 'sore throats, see—oh!'" She had started to read the "prescription" aloud when she noticed she had handed the wrong memorandum to the clerk. On it were the words:

"Precarious, imperceptible."

WON POPULARITY BY FEAST

How New Hebrides Outcast Chief Contrived to Become the Big Ruler of Vao.

Many of the inhabitants of the island of Vao in the New Hebrides are refugees from the big island of Malekula, who were vanquished in battle and literally driven off the earth by their enemies. Soon after our arrival a powerful savage named, Tethlong, one of the Small Numbers people, arrived on Vao with twenty of his men. All the others had been killed and the women and children had been taken captive. Martin Johnson writes in Asia Magazine. The natives of Vao received the newcomers as a welcome addition to their fighting force and Tethlong set about to insure his position among his new neighbors. He invited the entire population to a feast, and at once sent his men to neighboring islands to buy up pigs and chickens for the occasion. The devil-devils—great, hollowed logs, carved roughly to represent a human face, which are erected everywhere in the New Hebrides to guard against evil spirits—were consulted to find a propitious time for the feasting and on the appointed day the celebration began with much shouting and singing and dancing and beating of tom-toms. It lasted for several days. Before it was over, 720 pigs had been slaughtered. The island had never before seen such a feast. As a result of his political strategy, Tethlong, the refugee, became the big chief of Vao, taking precedence over the chiefs already there.

Mortland Won.

The Rev. R. P. Jones, of Franklin, was talking rather seriously to his four-year-old son, Mortland, Sunday, on misbehavior, when the child interrupted him by saying:

"Daddy, you know you make me lose my heart when you talk like that."

The father says the talking stopped.

Preserving Fruit in Transit.

In an attempt to evolve methods of preventing the spoilage of fruits and vegetables by freezing while in transit or storage, the Department of Agriculture is conducting thousands of experiments at the Arlington (Va.) laboratories, to determine at what temperatures these products freeze. The experimental apparatus, says Popular Mechanics Magazine, consists of a large tank in which brine is circulated, and thermocouples which possess the peculiar property of generating weak and variable currents of electricity when they are subjected to changes in temperature. These variations are registered by delicate meters. So sensitive are the thermocouples that they will detect a difference of temperature of .0001 degree. In service, a test specimen of fruit and a thermocouple are placed in one of twelve cups in the lid of the brine tank. By watching the specimen and the meter closely the exact temperature at which freezing begins is determined with great accuracy.

Rule Announced Select Postmasters

PORTLAND, June 15.—Ralph E. Williams, vice-chairman of the republican national committee—as he contends more through recognition of the west than because of personal reward for past work done—is home again after six weeks spent in Washington, and is glad of it.

Under the new regime, Williams explains, all applicants for appointment to first, second or third class post offices will be given a questionnaire formulated by the post office department, and which will call for varied information as to the fitness and experience of the applicant. Then post office inspectors, delegated the task of checking the applicants, will make their independent investigations of the reputation, efficiency and experience of those who seek the office, and at last will recommend three as the best qualified. The postmaster general, to whom these recommendations will be sent, will in turn ask the congressmen in the district where the office lies to make his recommendation from among the three, and that lucky man, or woman, will win.

The vice chairman, who saw much of President Harding during his time spent in Washington, says that the course being pursued by him is meeting with general commendation throughout the east among the people generally.
