UNCLAIMED MONEY WAITING FOR ITS OWNER.

Industrious and careful persons, who find it not always easy to adjust their expenditures so that they may run somewhat below their incomes and thus afford a basis for adding to the sum laid away for a rainy day, and who anxiously scan their bank balance after making out checks for the month's expenses, probably wondered to themselves when they read that more than $83,000,000 was lying in the United States treasury waiting for its owners to send and get it. This money is not due as the result of successful suits against the government for work done or supplies furnished. It simply represents interest coupons on the new issues of government bonds put out since the beginning of the late war and is immediately available, all that is necessary to obtain it being to present the coupons for payment. It is not necessary even for the owners of these millions to make personal application. All they have to do is to deposit the coupons in any bank and the matter will be attended to with no further trouble on their part. The money referred to is chiefly the interest due on Liberty bonds which have not been converted into permanent securities. The coupons on the temporary bonds being all cashed, the bonds themselves should be presented for exchange for new bonds, to which all unpaid coupons are attached. This can be done through any bank, without expenses to the owners, and it ought to be done promptly. The millions of dollars the undeposited coupons represent should be converted into credit at the bank, through deposit, the same as cash or checks. The large sum would add to the circulating medium, and its place is in the banks where it will be available for business users, and help in restoring commerce and industry to a basis of normal activity.

Secretary Weeks is exactly right in his opposition to any disarming of the United States as an "example" to other nations. There must be world-wide partial or total disarmament, or none. America would be foolish if it junked its navy and disbanded its army organizations without knowledge that every other nation was doing the same thing at the same time. This world has a lot of Bryans in it, who think that the way to stop an invading army is to present the commander with a bouquet of roses, but the commander of such an army would be no Bryan. There are nations that are looking for advantages. They talk peace because peace talk is politics now. But what would they talk if the United States had no navy, no arms factories, no shells, powder or army, while these other nations had great navies, trained armies and mountains of supplies? Has the lesson of the world war been lost on the Bryans?

When a crime is committed in Portland somebody is always scheduled to be made a "goat." What do you think of marshalling evidence of a six-year-old boy to convict his own mother? The woman may be guilty, but it looks like robbing the cradle to secure a conviction.

Bandit Gardner practically gave himself up. He was not "caught" in the usual spectacular way—but will likely make his getaway in his own peculiar manner as soon as the officers think they have the bandit all "sewed up."

The Utah law making it illegal to sell or give away cigarettes went into effect last week. Its greatest advantage is claimed to be that it will protect citizens from the fellow who is "just out of smokes."

Our congressman doesn't want the Dempsey-Carpentier fight permitted until those of our country who served in France have been paid, but Dempsey's interest in that is only half-way.

Officers claim it was through a "woman's tip" that Bandit Gardner was taken into custody. Further evidence that women cannot keep a secret.

Championship Battles

Short Sketches of Fights for the Heavyweight Title.

Anybody who wasn't afraid of Jack Johnson and who packed a stinging wallop in either fist was known as a white hope after the Texas negro became heavyweight champion of the world. The first important white hope to tackle Johnson was Stanley Ketchel, whose triumph had been among middleweights.

He was no match for the powerful Johnson, who knocked him out in 12 rounds at Colma, Cal., Oct. 16, 1909. Ketchel weighed only 177 pounds, while Johnson's total displacement was 198 pounds.

Only once in the 12 rounds was there an opportunity for the Michigan fighter to win. This was just a moment before the finish when Ketchel sent the champion to the floor with a left swing to the jaw. Johnson toppled over on his back and made several attempts to rise before he succumbed. Whether he was purposely staying down for a rest, no one ever learned.

Seeing that Johnson appeared dazed, Ketchel rushed at the negro as soon as he arose. Johnson calmly awaited the attack and jammed a right and then a left against the challenger's jaw. These terrific swats not only sent Ketchel sprawling on his back, but their force overbalanced Johnson and he, too, fell down. Both men were on the floor when the referee began calling the seconds. Johnson got up, but Ketchel remained prostrate and was counted out.

Miss Nola Kent arrived in this city last evening from the north, to spend several days visiting at the home of Dr. Lucette Smith. Miss Kent will return to her home in Ashland within the next few days.

Adventists Fight Sunday Blue Law

PORTLAND, June 16.—Seventh Day Adventists assembled at the Creston Park camp grounds Wednesday night, went on record against Sunday "blue law" legislation in a resolution passed unanimously by a large delegation, calling upon congress not to consider any of the compulsory Sunday observance laws now pending.

The resolution was passed following a sermon by the Rev. Herbert G. Thurston, secretary of the north-west division of the Religious Liberty Association of America. During his sermon the preacher said:

"Religious legislation, unchecked, knows no limitations and no mercy. The last step in that direction is the Inquisition, with all the horrors that bigotry can invent. It is therefore necessary that we take alarm and raise our voices in protest against the first step heading us in that direction, and the first encroachment upon liberties. God made the conscience free in the real world of religion, and no man has a right to enslave it."

"Civil laws and carnal weapons were not employed by Christ to advance the cause of religion."

"Let America be the home of free men, an asylum for the oppressed, the dispenser of equal justice, the defender of the individual conscience and the cradle of liberty for all men of every religion and no religion, as long as they do not trench upon the same and equal privileges and rights of their fellow-men."

Miss Katherine Diddel, returned to her home in Riddle last evening after spending the day in this city visiting with her mother, who is nursing in this city. Miss Diddel has just finished her last year at the Oregon Agricultural college.

CARPENTIER HAS STRONG COURAGE

Ability to Stand Punishment Is Point In His Favor In Coming Battle.

HAS GREAT WAR RECORD

Unflinching Courage When Fighting With French Air Forces Caused Him to Become Popular With the Soldiers.

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, June 15.—Georges Carpentier, challenger of Jack Dempsey, is one of the most unusual boxers who ever competed for the heavyweight championship. In temperament and intelligence, there has been none like him among aspirants for heavyweight honors. He will be outwitted by Dempsey when they clash. Other physical measurements may also appear to be to the disadvantage of the Frenchman, but the essential item of courage will not be included in these shortcomings.

Carpentier, born in the coal mining district of Lens, France, fought as a youngster of 12 years and progressed steadily through the various weight classes, meeting the best boxers of France, England and America until he now stands near the pinnacle in pugilistic sport.

A survey of the opponents Carpentier has met in the ring and sketches of several battles in which he revived from a count of nine to outpoint or knock out his rivals in subsequent rounds convinces one of his ring courage. He has fought among others Joe Jeanette, Frank Klaus, Billy Papke, Jeff Smith, Harry Lewis, Bombardier Wells, Joe Rockett and Gunboat Smith. Some of them he met when a youth in his late teens. His fights with Frank Klaus and Billy Papke when he was only 18 are declared to have been the most thrilling in his career. In victory or defeat throughout his ring campaign, Carpentier has been guided by Francois Descamps toward the heavyweight championship goal which he will endeavor to reach at Boyle's Thirty Acres in Jersey City on July 2. The list of opponents Carpentier has met is more impressive than that of Jack Dempsey's rivals. In ring experience, Carpentier is by far the older.

The first battle with Bombardier Wells at Ghent is declared to have been one of the most impressive exhibitions of courage by the young Frenchman, who was outwitted many pounds. He took the count of nine in the first round, to come back and knock out his opponent in the fourth. Before they met the second time, he predicted Wells "right last one round, but the Englishman was knocked out in less than one minute."

Harry Lewis, in the fourth round of a bout, broke two bones in his right hand, hitting Carpentier on the cheek bone with a smash that cut a deep gash under the eye. Carpentier came back to outpoint Lewis in 20 rounds. When he lost a 15 round decision to Joe Jeanette, Carpentier was sent to the mat two or three times, but refused to stay and dropped the negro twice for a count of nine.

But this anomaly of the boxing game has done his most important fighting outside the ropes. The cockpit of an army combat plane has seen his most thrilling engagements and greatest demonstrations of courage. Cited for heroism several times in the world war, Carpentier wears the Croix de Guerre and the Military Medal, of all decorations, the most prized by the French soldier.

Comrades of Carpentier relate how they had watched him thousands of feet in the air attacking an enemy or swooping low over a Boche camp or airfield while German anti-aircraft guns tried to make a sieve of his plane. Often, they say, they mournfully uttered goodbyes to the youth, only to see him a few minutes later climbing out of the ship wearing the smile that spectators at Jersey City undoubtedly will see when he enters the ring to meet Dempsey.

Elks' Ladies Night Enjoyable Affair

The entertainment afforded the wives and lady friends of members of the Elks lodge of this city last evening at their temple was carried out in a most delightful manner. Prior to adjournment of lodge the visitors were entertained in the ladies' parlor playing cards, after which all adjourned to the dancing hall where the immense throng remained until a late hour. Delicious punch was served throughout the evening and ice cream and cake dispensed in the dining room upstairs to the members and guests. The affair was carried out in a very pleasing manner and all present had a delightful evening. It will be the desire of the lodge to entertain the ladies once each month from now on at a social gathering. There was a large number of members present at the regular meeting of the lodge.

CONTRACTOR CAN'T SAY HALF ENOUGH FOR GOOD TANLAC HAS DONE HIM

"What I needed was just an all around building up and Tanlac has done that very thing for me," said E. P. Frentress, well-known contractor, of 316 Russell street, Portland, Ore.

"The fact is I hadn't felt well in four years, I had no appetite and even what I did manage to eat didn't seem to do me any good. I was constantly suffering with severe headaches, and although I managed to stay on the job I was losing strength right along and had little energy for my work. I couldn't sleep well, either, and was in a badly run-down condition.

"A number of my friends had taken Tanlac with such splendid results that I began taking it myself. I have an excellent appetite now and eat a good square meal every time I sit down to the table. The headaches have all disappeared, my sleep is sound and refreshing and I have regained my strength and energy. I just can't say half enough good of Tanlac for what it has done for me, and will always give it my highest endorsement."
