MENTAL ATTITUDE AND BUSINESS.

Many panics and depressions have started, not because there was sufficient reason for the same, but as the result of pessimism in the business community. And on the contrary, if you could create the general feeling at the present moment that highly prosperous times are immediately in sight, you could have all signs of depression cleared away within 10 weeks. Financial authorities say that the recently perilous conditions of speculation and extravagance no longer exist. But the business is held back by the lack of faith of many, who can't seem to believe that the country will buy a normal volume of merchandise at present. As the consumption of commodities even in hard times is something enormous, there is business for those who will get out and hustle. And those who lack faith in the future are the ones who fail to secure the advantage of prosperity waves when they come. If in every community you can get a group of hopeful men working to spread the spirit of business optimism, it will not be long before the reports of unemployment have disappeared, and business men will be shouting to the factories to hurry up delayed shipments. The people who rise in the business world are almost invariably optimists. Their spirit of sunshine shows out in the trifles of daily life. When other people think the weather looks bad they remark cheerfully on the brightening skies and the passing clouds. If others think the country is going to the dogs, these fellows see basic conditions sound, and unfavorable influences being dissipated. The "It can't be done spirit" fades out of sight in their presence. A fellow who has that temperament quickly wins friends and attention. If there is a question of promoting anybody, or finding a man for some big position, a fellow of that type gets it. He inspires confidence by his persistent feeling that anything that needs to be done can be done.

It is gratifying to note, in his many public speeches, the president's recurring emphasis upon the desirability of world peace and international amity. Scarcely a day passes that some evidence does not come that Mr. Harding is in sympathy with the hopes of those who would see progress toward a better civilization. It is well. American leaders cannot talk sincerely too much of the desirability of peace. At the same time, American statesmen cannot do too much to achieve some gain toward reduction of armaments and the diminution of war possibility. And all the words in the world are quite futile unless there be not only willingness, but zeal, to do. It is in the realm of doing that Mr. Harding's greatest opportunity lies. His distinguished predecessor spoke eloquently concerning the ideals of a better world; Mr. Harding can hardly hope to better his expression. The last president also achieved mightily to make his purposes, year in and year out, through many fevered months of world chaos. If Mr. Harding would equal his endeavor—if he would equal his achievement—he cannot begin too soon. Americans are not tired of hearing pronouncements of great ideals. They will not tire as long as they have evidence that the action is fitted to the word. But they will turn away impatiently if they see no desire to make words real. Is it not nearly time that the president divulge his ambitious plans for approaching the ideals he proclaims?

Tourist travel is reaching a higher degree every day. Now if Roseburg will only capitalize a few sight seeing trips—of which there are many—where the tourist can spend a few days enjoying nature at its best, it will be a step in the right direction to give this county much favorable publicity, and incidentally create a new source of revenue to be spent through various channels.

It will be a rattling celebration, with the heavenly body joining in, according to those scientists who promise us some sky-made fireworks on July 4, as a result of Winnecke's comet sweeping us with its tail.

Looks like the country was getting back to normalcy when "Bill" Cardwell commences to groom his steeds for a regular, old-fashioned horse race. You can always count on "Bill" for the unexpected.

Like competition, advertising is the "life of trade." Without it, in modern days and under modern conditions, no concern can achieve the success that it can with it.

It would take President Harding, talking sweetness and light, night and day to balance the utterances of some of those who claim to be speaking for him.

Men who protest against the increase in price of a dress for the wife, aren't so particular about how much they burn up when it comes to a Havana wrapper.

An editor has been made national prohibition commissioner, but this will have no bearing on the time when cider apples go to press.

Take in the Farm Bureau picnic to be held in Roseburg Saturday. Going to be a big meeting—both for the city folks and the farmers.

Going to be a great year in Douglas county. There's plenty of business for the fellow who goes after it.

We're going over the top today—the longest day in the year.

Improvement Club Holds Meeting

The Garden Valley Improvement Club met in the women's club room Thursday, June 16, the hostess for the day being Mrs. John Nachter. The meeting proved very enjoyable in many ways. The room was filled with beautiful flowers, which presented a homelike appearance. A flower contest was held which was very appropriate to the occasion. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess, during which time the life of Dolly Madison, the wife of the fourth president of the United States, was read. Following his delightful afternoon they adjourned to meet June 30, at the home of Mrs. Chandler Cleveland.

Lake Keechelus—in the heart of the Cascades, Washington

Through the heart of the Cascades

RED CROWN GASOLINE

The Gasoline of Quality

ON the motor road from Seattle to Tacoma and the East, the motorist passes through many points of unusual scenic interest. Lake Keechelus is one of these. It is over six miles in length, having the appearance of a great river, and is situated at an elevation of 3,000 feet in the very heart of the Cascade range. Motorists will find this region a most enchanting country dotted with beautiful lakes and mountains and huge fir, spruce and cedar trees measuring in some instances six to eight feet in diameter. And all along the route the motorist can get Red Crown Gasoline—the all-refinery motor fuel that insures quick starting, rapid acceleration and more power. Look for the Red Crown sign. Baseball Game Is Track Meet

(By C. H. HILTON)
The Baptist team had an easy time last night winning the game of ball played with the Christian team. It was the easiest kind of picking. The Christians imported a pitcher from Ten Mile, but we imagine that he has gone back to Ten Mile at the rate of a mile a minute. He lasted an inning and a half. The game started out as if it might be a ball game, but only lasted through the first. The Baptist put over one run in the first, and the Christians got a man as far as third. But after that it was only a question of how many runs the Baptists could make. They ran around the bases in the second inning till their tongues hung out, and they cried for mercy. Howard retired after a few minutes. Singleton opened up with a hit, then Howard hit a man, and walked another. They managed to get a man out at home and out of a run, then McClintock and Mike Crocker patted out hits and the bases which were crowded were soon empty. Dick Bush came along and did his best to stop the slaughter. But whenever Dick goes in, the Christian team ceases to play ball. They gave him no support whatever. The runs kept clattering in. In the fourth the Baptists put over four runs without the sign of a hit. This was enough to discourage any pitcher. If the Twilight league expects to win patronage, they will surely need to put up better ball games than have been played out there lately. The game last night was a weariness to the flesh. It is too tedious to try to go into the game. The Southern Pacific and Presbyterians will play this evening.

The score—

	1	2	3	4	5	6	R	H	E.
Baptists	1	8	3	4	1	1	18	14	4
Christians	0	2	4	0	3	9	6	8

Three base hits, Carl Black; two base hit, Meade; struck out by Singleton 2; by Black 1; by Bush 2; bases on balls, Black, Bush 1; hit with ball by Howard, 1; Bush 1; Singleton 1; Wild pitch, Black, Howard 2; passed balls, Meade 5; Umpire Relbel.
