

Peter Clark MacFarlane Coming

Noted Writer Is Spending Summer Months on the Chautauqua Platform

Hiram Johnson is an ardent admirer of Peter Clark MacFarlane, the noted writer who is appearing on the Chautauqua platform this summer for the first time. Not long ago Senator Johnson said, "As a public speaker Peter Clark MacFarlane has few equals and no superiors. With rare oratorical power he unites real eloquence, and with these he has the happy faculty of describing and illustrating. I have been with many of those who are considered orators and great speakers but there are none I would rather listen to than Peter Clark MacFarlane."

The name of Peter Clark MacFarlane is one of the most familiar in the magazine world. He is a prominent contributor to the Saturday Evening Post, Colliers, The American and other leading periodicals of the country. He went into Germany with the Second Division, was with the Seventy-seventh Division on the Vesle and with the Marines at St. Mihiel. Out of his war experiences came, "African Golf," "Cross and Double Cross," "The Last Patrol" and "In the Enemy's Country," published in the Post and Cosmopolitan, and said to be among the best stories of the entire war period.

LEAF FROM LANDLADY'S BOOK

Drummer Devised Scheme for Putting End to Series of Petty Extortions.

"Like cures like," said Speaker Gillett, apropos of certain extortions. "Abuse may cure abuse, too."

"I once knew a drummer for a chemical firm. This drummer would visit Pottsville four or five times a year. He would arrive late in the evening at the Pottsville hotel and depart after lunch the next day. He didn't stop a full day, you see; he got no dinner; nevertheless he was always charged a full day's board."

"The extortion got on his nerves at last; so one afternoon when his bill was brought him, he took out his pen and drew up an account against the landlady for a carboy of sulphuric acid."

"Take this to Mrs. Tompkins," he said to the waiter, "and ask her if she would mind settling up at once."

"In a few minutes Mrs. Tompkins herself appeared."

"Why," she said to the drummer, "I never bought any sulphuric acid from you in my life. This bill is a mistake."

"Neither have I ever eaten any of your dinners, ma'am," said the drummer, "but you charge me for them every time I come to Pottsville."

"After that the Pottsville hotel never charged the drummer for things he hadn't had."

The Catch.

A New England spinster was much enamored of a neighboring farmer, but the affection was not returned. One day, starting on one of his weekly visits to town, the maiden came rushing out, crying:

"Yoo-hoo, Mr. Simpkins, do you mind taking me with you?"

The farmer considered warily and finally allowed her to climb in.

In vain the lady tried every topic of conversation without eliciting response and finally in desperation fell back on the passing bits of scenery. Going by the minister's house, she cried: "Oh, Mr. Simpkins, what a beautiful hitching post Pastor Watson has."

"Gee darn," cried the other cracking his whip. "I knowed there was a hitch in it somewhere. Dohlin, giddap, Ma'am, that's fer hosses only."—American Legion Weekly.

SENT FRIEND UNIQUE GIFT

When Andrew Johnson Resumed His Needle to Fashion a Mark of Personal Affection.

There's always just one more story about any of America's former Presidents. This time there is another about Andrew Johnson, Lincoln's tempestuous successor.

Johnson, while governor of Tennessee, once resumed his vocational implements. He had formed a strong friendship in the Tennessee legislature for W. W. Pepper of Springfield, a staunch Whig, and once a blacksmith. Despite their irreconcilable political creeds the personal relations of Johnson and Pepper were extremely cordial. Pepper became a judge in 1854, and after a visit to Johnson, then governor, set about fashioning a shovel, which he sent with a note explaining it was intended as a memento of a friendship proof against all political differences.

Johnson, to show his appreciation, took up his scissors and needle and made a handsome heavier cloth coat which he sent to Pepper. It was a splendid piece of workmanship, probably the last of that kind of work Johnson ever did, and exists to this day.

His Time Was Not Up Yet.

A man of mercenary spirit had a son whom he kept well under parental charge, allowing him few liberties and making him work hard.

It was with a feeling of considerable satisfaction that the young man rose on the morning of his twenty-first birthday and began to collect his belongings preparatory to starting out in the world.

The farmer, seeing his son packing his trunk, which he rightly judged to be evidence of the early loss of a good farm hand, stopped at the door of the young man's room and asked what he was going to do.

The boy very promptly reminded his father of the day of the month and the year and declared his intention of striking out into the world on his own account.

"Not much you won't!" shouted the old man. "At least not for a while yet! You weren't born until after 12 o'clock, so you can just take off them good clothes and give me another half day's work down to the potato patch."

Save the cost of cleaning out carbon

Cleaning out carbon costs the average motorist from $2 to $8 every 1500 to 3000 miles. In addition, carbon damages the engine, reduces its power, cuts down gasoline mileage and runs up repair bills. You can avoid carbon troubles by using SUNOCO Motor Oil—the oil that eliminates hard carbon deposit.

SUNOCO is a wholly-distilled, non-contaminated oil—free of carbon-forming elements. Begin using it at once. We will tell you the right type for your car.
