HOW PEOPLE PICK THEIR BANKS.

How many bank customers are influenced largely by the manner of the man at the window? And just what does make a person select one bank rather than another? remarks a writer in The Nation's Business.

Nearly everybody, even the humblest of us, sooner or later has dealings with a bank. Many probably go to a particular bank without knowing why. But even when one doesn't know the reason, there nevertheless is a reason. It may be because a bank is so accessible that it represents the line of least resistance.

Of all who answered the inquiries in a recent investigation of this question, 23 per cent, or nearly one-fourth, said that they were directed to their bank by friends. An Ohio bank in its circular goes much further and says that 60 per cent of their new business last year originated directly or indirectly from its older depositors.

According to reports emanating from Washington the country is all "fussed up"—things, generally are in a state of unrest and the administration is having a terrible time "getting down to earth." Big business heads of the nation are being called into consultation—quick action is necessary—it is demanded—in order to shape the business world in a proper course and iron out some of the wrinkles.

Sheriff Sam W. Starmer, Deputy Sheriff Percy Webb and Chief of Police Shambrook are all out of the city for a day or two. Good time to start something.

Well, tomorrow the knockout blow will be delivered. Then we'll have a day of peace and quietude—awakening Monday morning with a bang!

After all has been said and done there is one pleasant remembrance left—the May primaries are headed this way.

We'll wager a corkscrew to a hole in a doughnut that Carpenter puts Dempsey "to sleep."

Everybody will take a day off Monday—but it will be a blue Tuesday.

Movie Closeups

Tom Moore, smiling, genial and Irish, promises to delight the patrons of the Antlers theatre when he is presented tonight in his latest Goldwyn production, "Made in Heaven." The story concerns itself with the rise of a "greenhorn" who becomes a fireman in New York, to a position of affluence and power.

Tom Moore's clever impersonation of a young Irishman will be remembered by those who saw him in "Hold Your Horses." In his latest photoplay, he is again a fireman but this time it is a fireman. Of course, the hero saves the heroine, in this case, beautiful Helene Chadwick, from all sorts of embarrassing situations. But she is blue-blooded, petulant and charming. There are complications, too; a rich suitor, a match-making friend, the hero's poverty and the heroine's inability to make up her mind to marry at all. However, our heroic fireman solves them all in due time, in his own naturally humorous way.

The Goldwyn company has surrounded Mr. Moore with an exceptionally able cast which includes Helene Chadwick, Molly Malone, Kate Lester, Rene Ardore, Al Filson, Freeman Wood and John Cosnar. Victor Schertzinger directed the picture, while the artistic settings were made by Cedric Gibbons.

The opportunities of California for taking widely different environment without going beyond the state border is well illustrated in the new Goldwyn picture, "Roads of Destiny," starring Pauline Frederick, which comes to the Majestic tonight. An Alaskan dance hall, a beautiful home on Long Island and a Mexican ranch are all shown in the picture and all are filmed in California. The snowy mountains around Truckee furnished the setting for the Alaskan scenes; the desert near Victorville was the background for the ranch scene and a palatial home in Los Angeles was rented for the Long Island episode.

Miss Frederick plays four different characters in "Roads of Destiny." Channing Pollock made the stage adaptation from O. Henry's original story.

Alicia Hammerly. A Woman Who Wouldn't Remarry. By Idah McClosse Gibbons. The Hated Wife.

The Unexpected Happens.

With one accord Larry and I sat down upon a convenient bench at the side of the street.

You are very tired, aren't you, Alice? he asked.

"Yes, but it has been lovely. Larry I have never known anyone who appealed to children as you do. And think of it, dear, he called you 'music boy'."

"And you know what he called you? My 'girl.' Children know, my dear. They could see that we were not masquerading that we were really part of them and they wanted to come back. Why, Alice, for all your talking you are not grown up any more than I. You are just 'my girl'."

"Look out," said Larry, suddenly pulling me back a little. A motor had stopped so near that it almost touched us. Inside was a pale woman whose sweet face wore a pathetic pain-drawn smile. She spoke to us in Italian. Larry looked at me in consternation. I had a brilliant idea and responded in French, saying I did not understand her. Evidently she spoke French as well as she did Italian, for she answered me in the same tongue.

"Are you two young people playing a masquerade?" she asked.

"No, Madame, we are just being happy," I answered, thanking my stars that French had been one of my favorite studies.

"Is anyone happy in this world?" she asked bitterly.

"I am," came from Larry and me in unison.

"And you are really gypsies?" "Not quite, Madame, but we are really enjoying a little vacation. Our world forgetting and our world forgetting."

"I envy you, dear. I envy you—your youth, your ability to enjoy what I am sure is just a youthful escapade. Keep that part of your life as long as possible." And she tossed a gold piece into my tambourine which had been lying upside down in my lap.

"Do you know who that was?" asked Larry.

"Never saw her before in my life, but sorrow walks with her whoever she is. She envied us more than our youth. Didn't you notice that she was lovely?"

"Well," said Larry, "she has certainly supplied the dramatic touch to our irresponsible day. Have you had a good time, Alice?"

"I have had a wonderful time, 'music boy.' Perhaps the more wonderful because I knew that I was playing a part that I had come back just for a little while to that happy dream of childish things which all of us would like to have as we grow older."

"Then you did like to be the 'girl' of the 'music boy'?"

"I like to be a girl, Larry—for a little while, at least—but after all, I fear 'music boy.' I think that our

Ring Battles of Jack Dempsey and Carpentier

Since the war, Georges Carpentier has fought no battle which really tested his strength. Much of his time has been occupied in theatrical tours, including a short trip through the United States last year, at the end of which he met Battling Levinsky at Jersey City, N. J.

After a short rest following demobilization, Carpentier fought Dick Smith, a second-rate heavyweight, in Paris in the summer of 1919. Carpentier was an easy victor in eight rounds. A short time later English sportsmen arranged to have Carpentier meet Joe Beckett, the British heavyweight, in what was expected to be a classic battle. Carpentier knocked out Beckett in a single round. In 1920 "Blink" McCloskey and Grundhagen, both unknown boxers, were easy victims in two rounds each.

On Oct. 12 in Jersey City, Carpentier met Battling Levinsky in a bout advertised to be for the "light heavyweight championship of the world." It was a fiasco. Levinsky was in poor condition and Carpentier, having just completed a theatrical tour, was far from his best. He had no trouble, however, in knocking out Levinsky in four rounds, but his showing was far from impressive and is the basis for the contentions of those who expect Dempsey to defeat the Frenchman on July 2. The Levinsky battle was Carpentier's last appearance in the ring before he meets Dempsey.

DEMAND FOR TANLAC BREAKS ALL RECORDS

Amazing Success Achieved by Celebrated Medicine Not Only Phenomenal, But Unprecedented—Over 20,000,000 Bottles Sold in Six Years—Foreign Countries Clamor for It.

Never before, perhaps, in the history of the drug trade has the demand for a proprietary medicine ever approached the wonderful record that is now being made by Tanlac, the celebrated medicine which has been accomplishing such remarkable results throughout this country and Canada. As a matter of fact, the marvelous success achieved by this medicine is not only phenomenal, but unprecedented.

The first bottle of Tanlac to reach the public was sold just a little over six years ago. Its success was immediate and people everywhere were quick to recognize it as a medicine of extraordinary merit. Since that time there have been sold throughout this country and Canada something over Twenty Million (20,000,000) bottles, establishing a record which has probably never been equaled in the history of the drug trade in America.

Fame is International. The instant and phenomenal success which Tanlac won when it was first introduced has been extended to practically every large city, small town, village and hamlet in North America. Its fame has become international in its scope and England, Japan, Mexico, Cuba, Hawaii, Alaska, Porto Rico and many European countries are clamoring for it. From coast to coast and from the Great Lakes, Tanlac is known and honored. Millions have taken it with the most gratifying and astonishing results and have pronounced it the greatest medicine of all time.

Restored to Health. Still others, who seemed fairly well, yet who suffered with indigestion, headaches, shortness of breath, dizzy spells, sour, gassy stomachs, coated tongues, foulness of breath, constipation, bad complexion, loss of appetite, sleeplessness at night and of terribly dejected, depressed feelings, state that they have been entirely relieved of these distressing symptoms and restored to health and happiness by the use of Tanlac. Tanlac is sold in Roseburg by W. F. Chapman Pharmacy, and leading druggists.
