Navy, Princeton and California Lead in Athletics

By HENRY L. FARRELL,
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Midshipmen of the United States Naval Academy are entitled to puff a big chest out in their "tight-laced" jackets.

The Navy wrote big letters on the intercollegiate sport calendar for the 1930-1931 season.

The Annapolis rowing crew not only won the undisputed championship of the water, but it proved itself one of the greatest eights ever developed in the United States.

In addition, Navy won the boxing, fencing and gymnastic titles and beat the Army at football, which was perhaps the sweetest of all the season's triumphs to the future admirals.

With the exception of football the collegiate championships for the scholastic year were all fairly well established.

Princeton had a big year, one of the most successful in Nassau's history. The Tigers won the eastern football championship, the tennis and water polo crowns and a tie with Dartmouth for the golf title. They also lay claim to the sprint rowing championship.

California looms large also on the records with a legitimate claim to the western football championship, a clear title to the track and field title and a second in the Poughkeepsie regatta.

Rowing and track and field athletics furnished the only clear titles to a national championship. The other line of sport furnished only sectional titles. The following gives the results of the season in the east:

Football, Princeton; boxing, Navy; Track, California; Baseball, Penn State; basketball, Pennsylvania; soccer, Pennsylvania; cross country, Cornell; Hockey, Harvard; Swimming, Yale; Fencing, Navy; Golf, Dartmouth and Princeton; Tennis, Princeton and Harvard; water polo, Princeton; wrestling, Penn State; gymnastics, Navy; lacrosse, Lehigh; trap shooting, Yale.

Diamond Lake Yields Large Fish

KLAMATH FALLS, Or., Aug. 2.—(U. P.)—Diamond lake, near here, is enjoying considerable distinction as the stamping ground of some of the largest Rainbow trout ever seen in Oregon waters. Fish weighing 28 pounds and a few ounces over have been handled repeatedly lately, according to Deputy Warden Stout, and in numbers sufficient to warrant the belief that fish of this size are not uncommon in the lake.

A short time ago fishermen were astounded to hear that a Californian had lifted a trout weighing 28 pounds from the lake, setting a new record for Rainbows in the northwest. Now comes the report that such fish have been mere details in the lives of fish wardens, who have been forced to carry the trout from the stream forming the outlet of Diamond lake back up over the falls to their native waters after coming down to spawn and then being unable to return.

The size of the trout is one obstacle to taking eggs from the lake, as the fish are so fat the eggs do not hang together. Last year over 4,000,000 trout eggs were taken, and many more were available. Trout fishing in Diamond lake, which has been slow, is becoming more brisk now, according to reports.

ALSO "PLAYING THE GAME"

Children Sported While Their Grave and Reverend Elders Dwelt on the Destiny of Nations.

Mark Sullivan writes in the World's Work:

As to at least one who observed President Harding read his message to congress from the press gallery, his most vivid recollection will be of the little son of a Republican member in the fifth row, who, across the backs of four seats, improvised an acquaintance; and then, having exchanged treaties of amity and commerce through mysterious signals imperceptible to older eyes, slipped away from the guardianship of their respective parents, and by the aid of a cautious and ingratiating diplomacy, maneuvered their way past a dozen elders preoccupied with exalted matters of state, to the ends of the rows of seats. There, in the protective obscurity provided by the cavern-like depths of the aisle, they produced a roundish gilded button not so small but what unsatiated imaginations could piece it out into a marble whose defects of roundness were fortuitously and admirably corrected by the slight declivity in the floor of the aisle. With this equipment they extemporized a delectable game, which they played for an hour under great handicaps and at continuous and imminent risk of awful catastrophe, in happy unconcern of the sonorous words about the destiny of nations that rolled above their little heads.

"DAWDLERS" NOT LONG LIVED

Prominent British Manufacturer Points Out That Active Man of Business Reaches Old Age.

Lord Leverhulme, one of Great Britain's largest manufacturers, asserts that more people shorten their lives by dawdling in England than by hustling. He is a living proof that hustling promotes hale old age. He has always led the strenuous life, and at 70 is still going strong.

He presided at the annual meeting of the British Industrial Safety First association the other day. In his address he drew largely upon his American experience. Steps had been taken there, he said, to ascertain whether it was the hustling, bustling business man who was supposed to shorten his days, or the man who dawdled through life.

He declared there were men in the United States today of 80, 90 and between 90 and 100 years of age who were still in good health and actively engaged in business, whereas men who had retired early from business had shortened their lives thereby.

He thought the crawl of the dawdler was largely instrumental in shortening the lives of individuals in Great Britain—that the more a man worked, whether professionally or in other vocations, the more he would conserve his life and strength and the life and commerce of the country.

Embarrassing, Indeed!

Economizing might be all right, but first know your location! I went into a two-priced millinery store and after trying on several hats and not caring particularly for any, realized that it was next to impossible to get away without a purchase. Finally I said I had no money, but selected a hat for them to put away for me, and promised I would surely return for it the next evening. I breathed relief when I made my exit, and passing a store a few doors away, entered upon seeing a hat much to my taste, and after trying it on decided I really would buy it. As I was about to take the money from my purse, to my surprise the manager of the first store (he owned both, I later learned), entered, and seeing me, cynically smiled and said: "Don't waste your time on this customer—she's only sightseeing and has no intention of buying." My embarrassment, together with anger, was the limit, and I arose in a rage and left the store.—Chicago American.

Last "Victory" Recovered.

Dust-covered and forgotten, two big packing cases have been reposing in the yard of federal parliament house. They had been received twelve months ago from London, and had been "dumped" with other stores in an out-of-the-way place. Recently one of the cases was opened and was found to contain a female figure in bronze with a helmet on her head. This was intended to represent Victory and was designed to commemorate the heroism of Australian soldiers. The statue was a gift of the commonwealth by Bertram Mackennal, the Australian sculptor. The smaller case contained the base of the statue. The unfortunate oversight has been rectified and Australia's thanks have been sent to Mr. Mackennal.

Engineering Triumph.

A daring engineering feat was performed in Pittsburgh recently when a nine-story modern building, filled with hardware, was moved a distance of 75 feet by 12 laborers. Ninety-pound rails, 120 of them, made the tracks on which the structure was moved. The sidewalks and basement of the building, including a big engine and boiler that continued to function, went along with the building. Customers passed to and from the building as though nothing was happening.

Everything for QUALITY —nothing for show

THAT'S OUR IDEA in making
CAMELS—the Quality Cigarette.

Why, just buy Camels and look at the package! It's the best packing science has devised to keep cigarettes fresh and full flavored for your taste. Heavy paper outside—secure foil wrapping inside and the revenue stamp over the end to seal the package and keep it air-tight.

And note this! There's nothing flashy about the Camel package. No extra wrappings that do not improve the smoke. Not a cent of needless expense that must come out of the quality of the tobacco.

Camels wonderful and exclusive Quality wins on merit alone.

Because, men smoke Camels who want the taste and fragrance of the finest tobaccos, expertly blended. Men smoke Camels for Camels smooth, refreshing mildness and their freedom from cigarette aftertaste.

Camels are made for men who think for themselves.

Movie Closeups

"The Furnace," at the Antlers tonight, is one of the really big pictures that come along just occasionally; the story is a brand new English novel just off the press, written by "Pan," an anonymous writer who is creating a sensation abroad. It was dramatized by Julia Crawford Ivers, who wrote the original story and scenario for "The South of Youth," a recent Realart Special, produced by William D. Taylor, who is one of the big leaguers among picture directors.

The cast is composed of a battery of favorites, any one of whom is a powerful attraction to screen patrons. Agnes Ayres, Jerome Patrick, Theodore Roberts, Helen Dunbar, Betty Francisco, Milton Sills, Fred Turner, Mayme Kelso, Lucien Little and Robert Bolger, are among the principals. Hundreds of wonderfully dressed extras are used.

The theme of the story is that a marriage without love is a veritable furnace of unhappiness, discord and dissension and that from such a marriage the direct of complications may result. The husband learns through a friend that the wife had lightly vowed to sue him for breach of promise if he jilted her. He then marries her and tells her that he knows her feelings, and that he will be her husband in name only. Thus it is that the two most envied people of England, a rich Canadian and his popular actress wife, are in reality the unhappiest people in all England. The complications that follow are gripping and powerful and the picture ends with a big climax.

Some of the most remarkable dual photography ever obtained in a motion picture is accredited to "The Mask," the Col. Wm. N. Selig special production which is coming to the Majestic theater tonight. In the screen version of this thrilling tale of romance and adventure by Arthur Hornblow, Jack Holt has a dual role, playing the parts of Kenneth Traynor, a clean cut young business man, and of "Handsome Jack" his twin brother and black sheep of the Traynor family.

In one scene, Kenneth, aroused from a temporary loss of memory by the pleadings of his little son and the screams of a woman, tears down a door and goes to the rescue of his wife, who is being attacked by a man in another room. The man, one Signor Keralio, draws a pistol and points it at Kenneth. Handsome Jack bursts into the room through another door, rushes across the room and planting his body before that of his brother receives Keralio's bullet and atones in that way for past misdeeds.

Hedda Nova, in the leading feminine role, is the woman around which this intensely dramatic struggle is staged. Little Mickey Moore, a favorite kiddie of the silent drama, is the child.
