George Neuner Looks For Melon

District Attorney George Neuner is seriously considering addressing a letter to Mrs. Ellsbury to find out whether or not spritzes and super-natural beings like watermelon. In the event the answer is negative he will probably start Percy Webb investigating the past records of some of the residents of the Perkins Building.

By the process of careful thumping, George's well trained car picked out two of the best watermelons to be found in the Dillard district this morning. Proudly George drove back to town and eased his car to a stop in front of the Umpqua Valley bank and after a careful look around slipped an old red sweater over the lucious melon. He got out of the car and started over to the post office. Halfway there he became suspicious and turning back to the covering of the melons. Then with a quick sprint he dashed into the post office, seized his mail and came out on the dead run only to find his car apparently just as he had left it. He drove on to his home and there left the machine to unload his melons, but to his surprise found that in the amazingly short time it took him to get his mail someone got the biggest melon. John Throne, who is under suspicion protests a lapse of memory but will probably be given a thorough grilling after he has sufficiently recovered from his attack of indignation, caused, the doctors state, by too much watermelon.

BEARSKIN A MARK OF HONOR

Five British Regiments Won Right to Wear Headress, at the Battle of Waterloo.

Recently published portraits of the king of England at the historic British ceremony, "trouping of the colors," at the Horse guards parade in London show him wearing the high, shaggy bearskin headress which appears to the uninitiated to be a heavy, uncomfortable article of apparel. As a matter of fact it is not as uncomfortable as it looks.

The bearskin, as it is called to distinguish it from the shako and busby, is made of the skin of the Russian bear and stretched over a basketlike framework. In reality it is not any heavier than the oldtime helmet. The one the king wore on this occasion had a white plume on the side, the insignia of the Grenadier guards, of which regiment King George is honorary colonel.

Five British Guard regiments are entitled to wear the bearskin, a distinction they won at Waterloo when the British guards defeated the Old Guard of Napoleon, who wore this towering form of headdress.

Besides the Grenadier guards a regiment dating from the time of Charles II, the Coldstream, Scots, Irish and Welsh guards, the latter formed during the World war, wear bearskins. They form the brigade of Foot guards in peace time and are part of the household troops, whose duties include the guarding of Buckingham and St. James palaces.

NEW FRENCH LINER ARTISTIC

The Paris, Recently Launched, Has Eleven Decks and is Like an Art Museum.

A writer in a recent number of Le Petit Parisien devotes nearly a column of most poetic prose to the new steamship Paris of the French Transatlantic company, launched recently at Le Havre for the New York run. The Paris is a little more than seven hundred and sixty-eight feet in length (not quite as long as the Mauretania), has 11 decks, 64 lifeboats and three stacks. Her weight is 35,000 tons.

While not palatial, the new liner is described as a work of art. She carries a crew of 964 and about 3,000 passengers. Among the features of her equipment are mentioned a terraced cafe and an elaborate children's playroom. The vessel is an oil burner, and all the cooking and heating is done by electricity.

The French writer, above mentioned, observes that the Paris would do very nicely as a museum and is a "permanent, lasting salon of modern French art." In the grand drawing room, lined with mauve woodwork, the Painter Lalloue has employed a design of butterflies representing the hours, while a symbolical canvas from the brush of Albert Bernard pays homage to France and America.

Citrus By-Products.

In co-operation with the citrus fruit growers of California, the United States bureau of chemistry has been trying for some years past to develop methods whereby profitable uses might be found for the enormous quantities of oranges and lemons which now go to waste because unfit for shipment. It does not pay to ship to market any fruit that is not first class and in prime condition. Of waste oranges, called "culms," there are 14,000 tons a year. What shall be done with them? A partial answer to the question is furnished by a score of factories which have already been put in operation for the production of marmalade and jellies. Also, a profitable market has been found for orange oil and lemon oil, orange vinegar, citric acid and dried orange peel. Fresh orange acid is used for the marmalade, while the oil is extracted by pressure from the skins. Up to the present time all of our orange oil and lemon has come from Italy and Sicily.

Kipling's "Brevities."

It is quite true, as Mrs. Gerould says, that Mr. Kipling's fame rests upon "significant brevities," but what she and critics of a similar complexion cannot see is that these "brevities" are "significant" in a sense diametrically opposed to her interpretation of the word. She means, of course, to be complimentary, to intimate that Mr. Kipling is brief from choice; whereas the exact reverse is the truth, and, far from being brief from choice, Mr. Kipling is brief from necessity. Mrs. Gerould would intimate that Mr. Kipling prefers the short story, whereas, in point of fact, Mr. Kipling's gifts restricted him to the short story.—F. A. Waterhouse, in the Yale Review.

CAN ONLY SEE DARK SIDE

Unfortunate Individuals Are Those Who Essay to Make Conversation About the Weather.

The weather is a singularly unfortunate institution. When it is bad it is freely abused; when it is good it becomes an object for profound suspicion. A wet day is an abomination; a fine one is an incipient drought. Three fine days in succession are enough to bring into blossom little paragraphs announcing that somebody's water supply will shortly have to be curtailed, and a week of them sees the farmers of Blankshire eloquently face to face with approaching ruin. A bad summer will not bear thinking about; a good one is proof that the climate of Europe is rapidly changing, that the North pole will soon enjoy the temperature of the equator, and that a few more thousand years will see mankind finally frizzled off the surface of a thoroughly inhospitable planet. This grateful and comforting game of looking a gift horse in the mouth is now being applied to the only good result of the coal stoppage—our cleaner atmosphere. Having survived the first shock of ill-considered gratitude at being able to see their own city, many Londoners, an evening paper announces, are now discovering that a feeling of lassitude and an overpowering inclination to yawn are the result of living in an unusually pure atmosphere.—Manchester Guardian.

Prompt Delivery.

George L. Loft, son of the candy magnate and former congressman, created a sensation on the stock exchange recently, when he sold a suit of clothes off his back for $30 and made spot delivery. The young broker breezed onto the floor of the exchange early in the session, wearing a brand-new Palm Beach suit. It was so conspicuous some of his colleagues roughed him a bit and in the fracas the coat was torn slightly. Thereupon Loft yelled out for a bid for the outfit, just as if he were selling 100 shares of Loft, Inc. A broker in the crowd snatched back a bid of $30 and demanded instantaneous delivery. Loft was game. He peeled off his coat and then shed his trousers and departed for the Luncheon club attired in his R. V. Ds. He was able to resume business later through the discovery of an old suit of clothes in a locker.—New York Tribune.

Doubles Shooting Popular.

Doubles shooting is gaining great popularity among trapshooters of this country. By doubles shooting is meant the release of two targets at the same time, one to the left and the other to the right. The shooter then tries to break both of them before they fall to the ground, firing one load at each target. This is a real test of shooting ability, and for this reason it is gaining in popularity. No one seeks a real test of his ability more than a trapshooter. Because of the increased interest in this phase of the sport it is apparent that the doubles championship handicap tournament at the Grand American handicap this year will be a much better event than in the past. The shooters have had greater practice at this style of shooting than ever before.

Florida's Entry Into Union.

One hundred years ago the Stars and Stripes supplanted the flag of Spain in Florida, which became a part of the United States. The sum paid Spain, including the payments to claimants for damages, was $6,450,758 for a territory that included 30,268 square miles.—Miami Herald.

Movement Started to Clear Highways

"Clear the highways," is a slogan being adopted by a number of local boosters who are starting a movement which it is hoped will result in cleaning up the highways throughout the county. Many of the rural roads are lined with sweet briar bushes which brush the cars as they drive past, often scratching and injuring passengers in the machines. Unightly stumps line the right of way, fallen logs add to the appearance, poison oak bushes cover the fences, and altogether the roads which otherwise would appear beautiful have a look of neglect and unsightliness altogether unpleasing. It would require only little work to clean up many of these roads and the result would be a road of attractive appearance. It is not proposed to remove the trees or larger shrubs.
