ROSEBURG, ORE (CON. OCTOBER 5, 1921.

THE WHEAT OUTLOOK.

There is no danger of a world shortage of wheat during the coming year, and there is at present no indication of an undue surplus, according to the October issue of Commerce Monthly, published by the National Bank of Commerce in New York. World wheat production and requirements are approximately in balance.

"Estimated 1921 production of wheat in twenty countries which before the war produced 68 per cent of the known wheat crop of the world, aggregates 2,490,609,000 bushels as compared with 2,384,143,000 bushels produced last year," Commerce Monthly says.

"The 1921 crop of the United States is estimated at 754,000,000 bushels and of Canada at 294,388,000 bushels. Allowing 600,000,000 bushels in the United States and 90,000,000 bushels in Canada for consumption and seeding requirements, and assuming a normal carryover at the beginning and end of the wheat year, there would be available for export from the two countries before July 1, 1922, a little over 350,000,000 bushels.

"All hope of surplus wheat supplies from Russia has been abandoned and famine relief in that country may make an appreciable drain on international supplies. Crops in northern Africa are fairly good, following a very poor harvest last year, but a normal exportable surplus is not expected. Exports from India are reported to have been prohibited entirely, because of the poor crop and high prices, and no improvement can be expected before the 1922 harvest. Argentina and Australia still have a fairly large share of their last crops. The amount available for export from Argentina on July 1 is estimated at over 40,000,000 bushels, and from Australia at about 50,000,000 bushels, allowing for a normal carryover in each country.

"Current stocks in Europe are not large but are distinctly better than last year and are sufficient to meet requirements until the new harvest is available. Normally western Europe imports an average of 400,000,000 bushels of wheat annually. Of this amount Russia formerly supplied 150,000,000 bushels. In the last crop year, ending July 1, 1921, Canada and the United States together furnished net exports of about 475,000,000 bushels, of which the greater part was sent to Europe.

"The estimated exportable surplus of 350,000,000 bushels from the United States and Canada, together with the 90,000,000 bushel carryover in Argentina and Australia, therefore, make a total of 440,000,000 bushels available to meet the international demand. This apparently balances the probable European requirements of approximately 400,000,000 bushels, with a reasonable allowance for Russian requirements."

SAN FRANCISCO HOSPITALITY.

No other metropolitan city on the Pacific slope has anything on San Francisco when it comes to hospitality. This was evidenced just recently during a visit of the writer to that market center of the west, and where a full week was given away to "Market Week," during which period many thousands of merchants, not only from the southern state, but from all parts of the northwest, were given an opportunity to accept the hospitality of the manufacturers and wholesale dealers of the Bay City.

While the true intent of the gathering was for the purpose of stimulating trade in a general way, the business men spared no efforts to make the week one of extreme pleasure for those participating and a most entertaining program had been arranged for the city's guests which kept them busy from the moment of their arrival until their departure. With the San Francisco merchants there seemed to be a desire to forget business and in lieu thereof direct their efforts toward entertaining their guests. At any rate, that is the way it looked to the fellow accepting the hospitality of the "Frisco bunch of livewires." They made a special effort to see that all who attended "Market Week" had a good time and their energies in this respect were not unavailing. They made good in every particular.

The impression left upon the visitors will have a tendency to create a better and broader feeling between the merchants of San Francisco and the people generally of the northwest.

The efforts of the Bay City might well be emulated in a much smaller way by communities throughout Oregon in an effort to attract visitors to the trading center. If but one day were set apart for an occasion of this kind it would have wholesome results even to cities the size of Roseburg.

Make up a full one day program—but don't forget to make all entertainment, including plenty of cats for everybody, absolutely free. This latter expense to be borne by the business men of the city. It would leave a fine impression with those who take advantage of "Market Day." It is wonderful what a difference it makes to a man or woman who expects to pay for all the joy they get out of life, but on the contrary are prohibited from doing so by a most liberal plan devised for their entertainment.

The San Francisco business men have a faculty of doing things and doing them right. Making their guests happy and contented is their first thought, business a secondary consideration.

Public schools cannot be brought up to the highest standard of efficiency through a curtailment of financial aid. And if there is any one public institution that needs strengthening from the pockets of the taxpayers it is our schools. A most liberal, yet sane and conservative policy, should apply to the upbuilding of our educational institutions. Roseburg patrons of our public schools should feel a degree of pride and satisfaction that it has long been the policy of the school board to handle our institutions of learning on a broad and liberal plan.

GOOD EVENING FOLKS—
 Wouldn't it be pleasant if we could pass through a whole meal without someone mentioning the Brunfield trial.

Wise is the man who knows not what to say, and remembers not to say it.

David Hazen, ye wild pencil-pusher for the Portland Telegram, "the paper that does anything," arrived here last night via Joe Hammersley's auto from Portland, thus saving the expenses of railroad fare. In spite of the fall season, Dave continues to wear a straw hat and will no doubt keep the said headgear in operation until Jube Phivius calls 'em in.

We've heard of people being "rolled" for their wealth, but the latest wrinkle in the annals of local events is the mystery barrel rolling game which was reported in this city late last week. Though a search warrant was issued at the instigation of a local woman the officers were unable to find even the bungle of the barrel which is evidence that a "hog's head" is about as elusive as the proverbial greased pig.

Old Doc Menne, the squab professor of University of Oregon medical college, drove down with "Pirate King" Hammersley and "Fightin' Fools" Hazen yesterday. At Cottage Grove Doc met a former medical student from whom he had borrowed money years before.

"Hello, Doc," said the bird.
 "Same to you," replied Menne, trying to look non-plussed.

"Say, Doc, remember that ten spot I loaned you?"

"Sure," replied the doctor, "it was a dandy, wasn't it?"

And with this Old Man Menne stepped on her and his car was off for Roseburg like a shot.

Joseph Hammersley, deputy district attorney of Multnomah county, called on ye ed. of Prune Pickin's this a. m. and after telling us a few select jokes meandered on his way with a chuckle. Joe has the faculty of making a short joke long.

Don Skene, a young fellow from the Portland Oregonian's writin' staff, has a room with bath at the Umpqua. Don was just called in from the Arbuckle party in Frisco and has a brand new supply of adjectives which he promises to use in the forthcoming trial.

Harry Pearce's forum adjourned this a. m. to the circuit court room where several of the prominent members spat tobacco juice on the highly polished seats.

Bob W. Ruhl, the editor of the Medford Mail-Tribune, made our city a nice visit this morning on his way home from a time under the bright lights. Bob got breakfast early and having nothing much to do until the family got ready to start, he stood out on the corner and watched the boys and girls go to school. The girls seemed to interest him.

"Gee," said the Medfordite, "I always knew that Roseburg was in the center of the deer country, but I didn't know your dears were so good looking."

(What will be about all the advertising we can give Bob at this time).

Customer—"Will you please tell me where I can get something to put a chicken in?"
 Floorwalker—"Cantsole or casserole?"

After looking over the pictures of the Brunfield trial published in the Portland papers, we have only one criticism: They neglected to include the photo of the countess janitor.

While cuttin' up at a Legion party last eve, G. Gordon, local atty., let loose of the floor with both dogs and landed in a position necessitating pillows when sitting and props when standing.

A man can no more be successful in his business if he does not love it than he can be happy in his home if he does not love his wife and family.

There are all sorts of religions but ye ed. of Prune Pickin's has a hunch that the little saying: "Do unto others as tho' you were the others," includes about everything worth while.

Why does a man swear to love before marriage and love to swear after marriage?
 Beauty is only skin deep and lots of wisdom is in the same class.

Ye ed. is going to file a motion for postponement of some of our monthly bills—and if that doesn't work we're going to file an affidavit of prejudice against our creditors and remove them from this sphere.

We were just gettin' ready to grind out our daily pome when one of our subscribers leaned over our shoulder and whispered: "Please omit your pome today—the doctor says I'm troubled with indigestion."

LAFE PERKINS SEZ:
 "A shier with short tails is a god derved nuisance."

WILLIAMS FUNERAL TODAY.
 The funeral services of the late W. H. A. Williams of this city were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the undertaking parlors, with Rev. Caldwell, of the Baptist church officiating. A large number of friends were present and many beautiful floral offerings were received. The members of the family have the sincere sympathy of their friends.

Salem Woman Is Indicted

PORTLAND, Oct. 5.—Two bills indicting Mrs. Alma Louise Wurtzberger on the charge of murdering her husband, Andrew Wurtzberger, in their home at Chemawa on the morning of September 4, and the Rev. Fred R. Royston on the charge of transporting Miss Frankie Edwards from Portland to Vancouver, Wash., for immoral purposes were returned by the federal grand jury yesterday.

Mrs. Wurtzberger was charged with willfully beating her husband to death with a hammer as he was sleeping. After committing the crime, to which she confessed, she walked into Salem and told her story to the police, who arrested her. She was taken before the federal grand jury due to the fact that her crime was committed on the government property of the Chemawa Indian reservation.

The Rev. Mr. Royston, formerly a Salem minister, was said to have deserted his wife and child to lure and run away with Miss Edwards, a girl still in her teens. They were arrested in Centralia in June, after they had walked from Vancouver. Royston is said to have introduced the girl as his wife. After a hearing before the United States commissioner Royston was released on $1000 bail.

ARE CANNING APPLES.

The local cannery under the management of Frank Norton today started to can the apple crop of the valley. It is estimated that about 25,000 cases of the fruit will be canned by the local concern and will be shipped to all parts of the U. S. Owing to the short apple crop in Maine, Michigan and New York the Umpqua Valley apples will find a ready market in the east and Mr. Norton states that large shipments will be made to that section of the country.
