Service Man Fights Insanity

SALEM, Oct. 6.—Tormented by the knowledge that his mind soon will be that of a mad man's, harassed by the unforgettable idea that he is becoming insane, Robert Richardson, 22, an overseer's man being held at the Salem police house today, is alone behind the heavy iron door—a gray, lifeless shadow of Hendrick Ibsen's character in "Ghosts." He is nervous, unsteady, weak, and his eyes, black and sunken, give evidence of what he has gone through.

He says he is an army deserter. He told Desk Sergeant Davis that when he was given a narrow cot in the jail at 2 o'clock yesterday morning, it doesn't worry Richardson to him that is nothing. He wants the military authorities to know where he is. There is but one thing that counts with him now. He's fighting to remain sane. Richardson according to his story, has softening of the brain. Like Ibsen's character who likened his brain to "cherry red curtains," and who, fighting against which could not overcome, finally died crying for the sun, Richardson presents a pitiable figure as he tells of his condition. He is fairly well dressed, and clean. His memory, ordinarily, is dependable. He deserted because he had a "crazy streak," he told Chief Moffitt this afternoon.

ADVICE TO LOVELORN AND OTHERS

BY MRS. ELLSBURY.

A Daily Column of Questions and Answers Conducted by a Woman Who Knows. Address your Letters to Mrs. Ellsbury, Care Roseburg News-Review.

Dear Mrs. Ellsbury: Would you please tell me some ways in which I might dress for a hallow'een party? Thanking you in advance.
YOUNG GIRL, Roseburg.

Ans. Although you do not say so in your letter, I judge you want to go in costume. Any masquerade is appropriate for a hallow'een party, although the time-worn characters of a witch and ghost are usually the most in evidence. If you are clever with a needle and crepe paper you might make for yourself a pumpkin costume from yellow paper, or go as a keg of cider. These costumes would be new and different. The cider costume should be made from dark brown crepe paper, with your head appearing out of a lighter brown cork. An apple costume would also be easy to make.

Dear Mrs. Ellsbury: I am a married woman, and recently went to Portland to spend a few days shopping. While I was there I was greatly surprised to meet in the lobby of the hotel where I was staying a friend of my husband and myself, a young man from Roseburg. He was a good friend of ours, and had frequently visited at our home here, both for dinner and to spend the evening. Naturally he felt called upon to entertain me a little, and took me to a show, and to dinner twice. I was alone and thought it very good of him to give up his time to taking me around. When I returned I told my husband about it and he was pleased we had such a good friend to take me out while I was there. Recently a lady friend of mine heard some gossip about me that she repeated to me. Someone had told her that she heard that this man and I were together in Portland and went to the city just to see each other. I am considerably worried for fear it will be repeated to my husband for the truth, and also because people think such things of me. Did I do wrong to go out with him in Portland, and what shall I do about it?

YOUNG WIFE, Roseburg.

Ans. If the man in question is a friend of your family and you knew that your husband would be pleased if a friend of his was nice to you, there is no reason why you should not have gone out with him. In fact your husband would probably expect a friend of his to do that. There are always gossips who will talk about everything, and I would not let what you heard worry you. Tell your husband yourself what people are saying. To stop gossip it would be a good idea for your husband to thank his friend, in public at the first opportunity for taking good care of you while you were both in Portland.

Studebaker

LIGHT-SIX TOURING CAR NOW $1150

This is a Studebaker Year

The car that is converting thousands to the SIX

The popularity of the six-cylinder automobile is universal. Everyone admits that there is great pleasure in driving a Six, and the six-cylinder motor is now recognized as the most satisfactory unit of power.

The Studebaker LIGHT-SIX motor embodies the most advanced engineering developments—

—it is powerful. Its 40-horsepower motor supplies much more than the usual power per pound of car weight.

From the first moment you sit behind the wheel you get that velvety feeling of a strong, continuous flow of overlapping power impulses.

—it picks up quickly and smoothly, affording a quick getaway in traffic; it throttles down to a snail's pace in high gear.

—it is free from vibration, up to 55 miles per hour, than any car of its size and weight yet produced in Europe or America.

The LIGHT-SIX is the most evenly balanced car you can buy. Its light weight (only 2500 pounds) is so equally distributed that if the chassis were halved or quartered each section would weigh practically the same. This means tire economy, and steady road-holding at high speeds.

See this car—drive it—test it. You will be won by it. You will understand why it is the Studebaker ideal of what a light, six-cylinder car should be.
