TRAGEDIES TRACED TO OIL

Pipe Lines and Overflows Responsible for the Deaths of Many Animals and Birds.

That almost unerring instinct which carries animals through grave dangers has led in many instances in the Midway and Sunset oil fields of California to their undoing. Chief among such victims are rabbits and water fowl.

A jackrabbit and a cottontail find a nice round, smooth hole. There are many such in the oil fields where oil piping is a necessity for the transportation of oil to the retainers. The rabbits decide to set up housekeeping there. The cottontail desires a permanent home and the jackrabbit wants a refuge safe from malevolent man.

Soon they discover their habitat is being moved. No doubt they are frightened, but they instinctively stay within their retreat. One end of the hole is closed. Even then they do not leave. Soon the other end of the hole is darkened. Then it is darkness eternal for the furry pair.

Some time later it is discovered that a newly laid oil pipe line is choked. After great labor the line is disjoined and the remains of many rabbits removed. Thousands of rabbits have been thus exterminated in the oil fields.

The death rate among waterfowl is even greater. Again, as with the rabbits, instinct leads them to certain destruction. Every little lake of oil in the vicinity of a gusher is a trap for the unthinking birds. At twilight and dawn these tar-colored lakes appear as bodies of water to the deluded fowl.

LONDON HAS GROWN TOO BIG

Metropolis of the British Empire is Loosely Knit Together, and Confusion Results.

Poor old London is so big that she doesn't know what to do. She has outgrown her administrative clothes and finds that her outskirts are sorely bedraggled. She hopes that parliament will come to her relief, but she has waited so long without anything being done for her and meanwhile has grown so outrageously that parliament is a bit dubious about undertaking the job.

London, you understand, is merely a name, and it may mean one of several things. No railway company sells tickets to London; they are careful to specify the exact station in that vast conglomeration indefinitely spoken of by that name.

There is first of all the City of London, the original London, built around the Tower and walled in for defense, a square mile of twisting streets and alleys, where business houses are built on old churchyards and the ancient church tower rises behind a five-story stone office building. Then there is the London of the 28 boroughs, the County of London, which includes the towns that grew up outside the ancient city. There are also almost innumerable suburbs.—W. K. Kelsey in the Detroit News.

Finest of All Languages.

There is no modern language to compare with the ancient Hellenic tongue. There never was a language its equal. As scholars have said, every other speech compared to the ancient Greek is stammering. Other tongues have their merits and defects, but the Greek has all the merits combined and none of the defects. It is the perfection of speech. As a language for affairs it is as direct as the English or Latin; as a language for philosophy it is as good as the German and for science is better; as the language of polite society it is as elegant as the French; and it is more melodious than the best Tuscan Italian. This is no eulogy (eulogy, by the way, is a Greek word, of our own, but a summation of the dicta of scholars).—Exchange.

Bull Became Municipal Idol.

In 1835 a Barcelona bull became a municipal idol, the object of a regular Apis worship. When he had killed five men and ten or twelve horses, the yard around his stable was thronged with devotees, though his keeper, fearing foul play, would admit no stranger to the interior of the sanctuary. After his last victory, on the festival of San Antonio, the crowd went almost crazy with excitement under deafening cheers and a continual shout of "Bullios por el toro!" (Cakes for the bull); a libation of real wine came down like a shower, and when the victor was dragged out of the gate a young girl who had got a prize in a pantomime, leaned over the balcony, and at the risk of being impaled, crowned the gory brute with her own garland.

Britain's Bible Towns.

When a man is to go to Jericho he might ask, "Which?" for there are at least a dozen in the world. On large ordnance maps of England and Paradise occurs five times and Nineveh, Mount Ararat, Mount Zion and Mount Ephraim three times each. In the county of Bedford there is a Calvary wood, and in Dorset a Jordan Hill, not to mention the famous Quaker burial place in Buckinghamshire known as Jordans. Hampshire rejoices in a sleepy hollow called Land of Nod, Cambridgeshire has a Noah's Ark, and Worcestershire a Mouth's Wash Pot. After that such commonplace as Hebron, Joppa, Bethlehem, Gideon and Herod pass almost unnoticed. All the same, all are to be found in England.—London Tri-Bits.

This is a Studebaker Year

We have been asked the question how we account for the tide of Studebaker popularity which has swept the country.

Among others, two fundamental causes explain it:

1. The outstanding cause is the value of Studebaker Cars, in quality, style, performance, durability, and price, demonstrated by the complete satisfaction and enthusiasm of nearly one-half million owners who know values.
2. The universal respect for and confidence in the integrity of the name STUDEBAKER which for seventy years has been the symbol of quality and fair dealing.

Crowning proof of the dependability of Studebaker cars is reflected in our diminishing business in service parts.

With approximately 116,000 more Studebaker cars in operation on September 1st, 1921, our parts business the first eight months of this year was 3% less than in the same period two years ago.

While our car manufacturing plants operated this year 41% ahead of last year, our service parts manufacturing plant has operated at from one-half to two-thirds of last year.

Studebaker Cars are standing up in service and staying out of repair shops, to a degree unexcelled, we believe, by any cars of whatever price.

HUMAN EYE SELDOM PERFECT

Sit down in a chair and fix your attention on some object on the other side of the room. Quickly hold your finger up right in front of the object and instantly shut your eyes. Then, without moving your head or your finger, open your eyes one at a time. If when you open your right eye you find your finger directly in front of the object, you are right-eyed. In that case you will find your finger very much to the right of the object when you open your left eye.

If you are right-handed you will most probably find that you are right-eyed.

This is due to the fact that of the two halves of your brain one is slightly more developed than the other. And the organs and limbs on that side of your body which is controlled by the more-developed half are able to carry out your wishes more easily and quickly than those of the other side.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel.

The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place. Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "loggy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 15c and 30c.

Found a Singing Crow.

The great crow of the North, a bird as large as a raven or a young buzzard, is a talented singer. Most crows have a raucous cry, but this black bird, who appears so often on the totem poles, is a singer.

R. P. Bonham tells of his first experience with the great crow of Alaska. A party were ashore looking over an old Indian village when suddenly a golden voice broke forth in melody. The nearest bird to them was a great crow, and in a jesting way Bonham assured his companions that it was this crow that was singing, thinking to have some fun with the party. But to his surprise he was proved a truth-teller, for while they all watched the bird opened his spacious mouth. Instead of the expected "Caw, caw," a rippling flood of song burst forth.—Portland Oregonian.

Plant "Dog in the Manger."

Quite a number of plants seem to have developed something very like a consciousness, enabling them to divine the best way of circumventing the encroachments of their neighbors. A remarkable instance of this is seen in connection with the common bramble, when, as is often the case, it is found struggling over a pile of stones or up against a roughly-built wall. In such circumstances the plant has the power to turn its growing roots into clubbed roots, which completely fill the crevices where soil is to be found, and effectively keep competitors out.

Lucky Kid.

Bob was brought to the barbers every week to have his hopped hair trimmed. This always was a terrible ordeal for him. One day he was called into his mother's room to see the new baby. After making a mental note of the fact that its head was bald, he said enviously: "Gee, my baby sister won't have to go to a barber."
