Pleasing Recital
Given Last Night

One of the most unique and thoroughly pleasing recitals ever given in Roseburg was presented last evening at the Presbyterian church by Helen Clark, Joseph Phillips and Thomas George. The recital was an artistic success in every respect, and Otis Music store is to be congratulated for securing these capable and charming artists for an appearance here.

It had been rumored that Helen Clark and Joseph Phillips would sing in unison with their re-created voice and that the audience would not be able to tell the difference between re-created and living voice. Needless to say, many persons were skeptical. Attempt to match that glorious voice with a device of mere wood and metal! Impossible! The skeptics were soon convinced, however, for in Helen Clark's initial number on the program, her lips ceased to move, but her song went on. Slowly it dawned on the mystified audience that Helen Clark was no longer singing though her voice came forth as clear and sweet as before. Again, she sang, but the audience only knew it was the living Helen Clark by the motion of her lips. It seemed as if there were two artists on the stage—two singers but only one voice. The tones emanating from the new Edison were identical with those of the living artist, and it was impossible to detect any difference. The instrument produced not an echo or copy, but the real thing—Helen Clark's voice, unaltered by any mechanical transformations; unspelled by any metallic ring.

After the applause which followed this "miracle" exhibition, Joseph Phillips and Thomas George shared the stage with their fellow musician, the new Edison. They played and sang in unison with the re-creation of their art. Only by watching them could one know when the living artists were being heard alone and when the music came in double measure. The re-creation was absolutely identical with the original in every particular.

Further numbers in which Thomas George played the piano in unison with the Edison impressed the conviction of one's inability to distinguish between re-created art and its original.
