ROSEBURG, OREGON, NOVEMBER 15, 1921.

CULTIVATING PLEASANT SOCIAL RELATIONS.

One of the best achievements of the modern board of trade and chamber of commerce movement has been its cultivation of pleasant social relations among business men. Twenty years ago, the social condition in the commercial circles of most towns was not good. Most business men looked at their rivals and competitors as real or potential enemies.

If there is any of the old spirit of aloofness and isolation prevailing among the business men of Roseburg they should shake it right off. All the business men ought to form the habit of regular social meetings with each other, in which they become warm personal friends and get in the habit of acting as a unit and casting out the old spirit of suspicion.

The Rotary Club organized in this city last evening has for its main object the creating of closer harmony and warmer fellowship between the business men of the community.

WOMEN STUDENTS VS. MEN.

Women's and men's colleges have not up to now attempted to compete with each other in athletic rivalry, owing to the fact that women are considered a weaker sex physically. The time may come when the girls, who are fast growing in physical ability, may be able to cope with the boys at both baseball and football.

Wonder if the disarmament conference will have anything to do with the price of turkey meat in Douglas county about Thanksgiving time? This is a very important question with the average consumer who likes the bird and its trimmings, but may have to forego the pleasure of eating turkey in order to keep within the monthly allowance for the family diet.

Some men seem destined to go down life's pathway parked on the wrong side where they get the bumps of everybody else.

Many a woman who sighs for a baby grand piano doesn't sigh for a regular baby.

The Stephens street approach is still conspicuous by its array of variegated bumps.

A genius who thinks he is, usually isn't.

AROUND THE TOWN

In from Myrtle Creek—

F. S. Johnson, of Myrtle Creek, spent the day in this city attending to various business matters.

Left for Portland—

Mrs. Glen Eddings, of this city, is spending a few weeks in Portland visiting with friends and relatives.

Wrestling at Myrtle Creek—

A big wrestling match for the welterweight championship of southern Oregon will be staged at Myrtle Creek on next Friday night. Roy Cedarstrom of Roseburg, 145 pounds, will wrestle Warner Seigrist of Kansas City, 144 pounds. Harry Pearce will referee the match. Following the match a dance will be held and music furnished by a six-piece orchestra.

Child is improving—

Josephine Jennings, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. O. Jennings, of this city, is said to be improving rapidly. She underwent an operation for appendicitis about a week or ten days ago, and for a time was in a very serious condition. Mr. Jennings returned here this morning and states that his daughter is now able to take a little nourishment, and is much improved in condition.

Prune Pickin's

GOOD EVENING FOLKS— To be great nowadays it seems that one must coin some trite saying—some little quotation that lives after we have started to push up the daisies. You will remember that it was Teddy who said "Bully," Sherman who said "War is hell," Pet Henry who said "Gimme liberty or gimme death," and Davy Crockett who crawled into the wolf's den and said, "Don't shoot until you see the whites of their eyes." All of these patriotic statements have been listed in history and now, gentle reader, if you would desire everlasting fame, ye ed. would suggest that you set your brain in motion immediately. The field is unlimited—go to it.

It takes a woman one glance to see another woman's clothes. She may devote a month in getting the same effect. That's not detective ability. It's jealousy.

Ye ed. attended a movie 'other night and they had one of them educational, showing how them old Greeks became bootblacks, used to carve their poetry in stone with a cold chisel. We wish that some of the birds who write poetry to this column would engrave in stone what they write, maybe they would reflect a bit as they chiseled.

OUR SHORT STORY. Once there was a stenographer who received $14 per week. She weighed 125 pounds, had on French sandals and open-work stockings, skirt unusually short, gray Canton crepe dress, one piece with a few beads, blonde with plucked eyebrows and a gray hat with four pheasant feathers drooping over one ear and sticking up over the other, a platinum wrist watch and a big red little finger ring on the other hand—carried a silver mesh purse and a silver cigarette case. She was the essence of loveliness in her purple upholstered limousine. But joy was not hers. Night and day, day and night, she was hounded by that horrible fear—perhaps some one in this wide, wide world would question her ability to live so luxuriously on a paltry $14 per week. But then how could she explain to all that her rich uncle had only recently passed in his checks and left his fortune of countless billions at her disposal.

The drug store keepers would be rich if they received a profit on all of the postage stamps they sold.

Grandpa used to go to town with a wagonload of chickens and a yaller houn' dawg trottin' under the wagon. Today his grandson rolls in in a limousine, gathers up his chickens and has a Boston Bull on the seat beside him.

SAP AND SALT BY Bert Moses. The way to succeed is to cash in on what you know. Among people to be discovered are those who sing out of the corners of their mouths. About all the popularity some men enjoy is what they supply themselves. The words "if" and "but" were invented by a man who was getting ready to duck. A woman is apt to judge all men by the one who jilted her. It is dangerous to tell the truth; a 50% solution is as far as it is safe to go. Movie Closeups

Scenes of unrivalled beauty will be a feature of Sidney A. Franklin's initial independent production "Not Guilty," which Associated First National releases at the Antlers theatre tonight.

Director Franklin is a lover of the beautiful, and while his previous successes with Mary Pickford and Norma Talmadge as the stars have been noted for their wonderful settings, it is claimed that his current production will far outstrip them.

Many of the scenes for "Not Guilty" have their locale in India along the shores of the Ganges. Thousands of native Hindu Women will be seen bathing in the Sacred River. The world famed temples of that country will add great beauty to the production, especially the scenes showing the Taj Mahal, the pure white marble mausoleum built at Agra, India, by the Mogul Emperor Shah Jehan, in memory of his favorite wife. The colorful tea houses at Rangoon are another feature of the production, as are the curious pearl boats.

Scenes showing in detail one of America's popular playgrounds, Del Monte, California, are another feature. The picturesque Del Monte Hotel, overlooking the historical Monterey Bay, is intimately shown. Lavish interiors are also included in the story, among them being a reproduction of a fashionable New York gambling house, and the ball room of a famous old world hostelry.

Midge Bellamy, a delightful new screen personality appears opposite Douglas MacLean in his latest Paramount-ine comedy "Passing Thru," which plays at the Majestic tonight.

Miss Bellamy was weaned away from the speaking stage by Thomas H. Ince, who recognized in her petite beauty, her vivid personality, and her rare dramatic talents the requisites of a cinema star of the first order.

At the time Mr. Ince induced her to sign a contract to appear exclusively in his productions she had just completed a highly successful season on Broadway as the "Dream Girl" of William Gillette's production of Sir J. M. Barrie's "Dear Brutus."

Prior to that engagement, in which Miss Bellamy's performance commanded the highest praise of the Manhattan critics, she had appeared in the title roles of "Pollyanna" and "O' My Heart." Miss Bellamy is nineteen, was born in Texas, and is the daughter of a university professor of English literature. Most of her education was received under the tutelage of her father, and has resulted in a wide knowledge of the English drama, which has been invaluable to her in her work both before the footlights and on the screen.

Harding Sends Message to Church

(By Associated Press.) DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 15.—If the churches fail in their high and holy tasks there is small hope for civilization, President Harding told the national conference of the Methodist Episcopal church here today in a message read by Bishop William F. McDowell, of Washington, D. C. "Whoever hails the churches must march forward more swiftly than they have done," the message said. "The churches must not fail. The world never before was in such need of right morals, right ideals, right relations among men and the right spirit for meeting the unparalleled conditions and sound religion in personal, social and public life."

National Grange Meets Tomorrow. PORTLAND, Or., Nov. 15.—(U. P.)—The fifty-fifth annual convention of the National Grange opens here tomorrow and continues until November 25. Delegates from 25 states are already assembling for the convention sessions. Farm problems discussion. Special trains from all over the country arrived today and more are expected tomorrow, one of them showing land status across the continent to Portland. Sherman J. Lowell, of Portland, N. Y., national master, will deliver his report and address tomorrow. Sessions will be held Nov. 16, 17 and 18. On Nov. 13 Grangers will inspect waterfront conditions near extending their explorations to Vancouver, Wash. On Sunday, Nov. 20, memorial services will be held and local grangers will contribute over the Columbia bridge. On Tuesday the convention will pay a visit to the Oregon Agricultural college at Corvallis, and on Wednesday they will be entertained by the Beaverton Grange at Beaverton.

WILBUR SCHOOL ITEMS

There was special assembly last Thursday morning for the purpose of singing a few patriotic songs in honor of Armistice Day.

They have actually started practicing the gymnastium, and that with the larger lights just recently installed, will make it up to date in almost every respect. Mr. Knorr and Mr. Gurnee are working on the building now. We are proud of the fact that we have the only gymnasium in Douglas county outside of the Roseburg schools.

Miss Hoover, the assistant high school teacher, spent the week end at her home in Corvallis.

Friday, being Armistice Day, was observed as a legal holiday in our school.

The high school has joined the Oregon Debating League and expects to have some debates before long.

We have 56 students in school now, which shows a decided increase since the opening of school in September.

Edwin Russell, our basket ball captain, has dropped out of school until the first of the year so it has been necessary for us to elect Barry Hill as captain in his place and he comes back to school again.

At assembly Monday morning the freshman class gave a very interesting little play. There were several actors including Mrs. Brown, Mr. Hatten, and Mrs. DeLaune.

J. T. Goodman, Sr., a former resident of Roseburg, was a visitor here yesterday from his home in Salem. Mr. Goodman conducts a general merchandise store at the Fair grounds near Salem.
