Foster Butner Gives Address

Foster Butner, local broccoli grower, returned Saturday evening from Forest Grove where he had been called to give an address on the harvesting, grading, packing and marketing of broccoli before the Oregon Horticultural society which held a three-day session at that city last week. Prominent speakers were in attendance from many sections of the state and the convention proved very interesting. Mr. Butner had been called upon to deal with the broccoli question, his wide experience in handling this product being as well known that the horticultural society was anxious to have him present an address, that its members might get some first-hand information from a successful grower. In closing his remarks before the society, Mr. Butner said:

"The broccoli industry of Oregon is in its infancy. Its future depends largely upon the men who grow and sell it. A study of the produce business of our country reveals the fact that the most successful producing points are those where an F. O. B. market has been established. To remind you, I need only mention Hood River for apples, Yakima for potatoes, Crystal Springs, Miss., for tomatoes, Sanford, Fla., for celery and Hammond, La., for strawberries. The list is too long to go further, but if we make of our broccoli industry the success it deserves we must establish it upon the same sound commercial basis that has made these other production centers so successful, even though it may be necessary to make some sacrifices in doing so. Suppose we do sell a few cars in the beginning below their value, based upon conditions in eastern markets, wouldn't that be about the best advertisement we could invent? It would be just like one of the department stores advertising a bargain day. Buyers or their equivalent, in the form of bank guarantees from distant jobbers, would flock in and immediately our market would be a true reflection of general conditions, and the grower—without the delay of shipping his crop upon a basis of delivery in eastern markets, would get all that his broccoli is worth—and that is all his share of the risk, but after taking one hazard after another for nearly a year, in producing, harvesting, grading, packing and loading my crop, I think that it is time that the dealers engaged in distribution should evidence their interest by investing some of their money.

"I believe that we should grow the best broccoli that it is possible for us to grow; that we should grade, pack and load it according to the highest standards of the trade, offer it for sale upon an F. O. B. basis, at a price which, based upon market conditions, should yield the buyer a liberal profit upon the purchase. If we adhere to this plan we shall interest and hold as our steady customers year after year the most desirable jobbing trade of our country. Built upon a foundation of this kind, I believe that the broccoli industry of our state has a great future.

"I thank you."

In this country would result, forestry officials took immediate steps toward establishing an effective fire patrol about the area. A field cruise, both by land and air, was made by state and federal experts, and an emergency appropriation of $100,000 was passed by the state legislature and an equal amount by congress for protecting the area against fire.

With the opening of the fire season special preventive measures were put in force. Guards were stationed on the main lines of travel into the cyclone zone, and all persons entering the area were required to register. Smoking was prohibited, except as designated camp grounds, and no camp or brush-burning fires were allowed to be built without permit.

The special patrol force was increased from 10 to 46 men. These forest patrolmen made two round trips daily in the lower country and one round trip in the higher regions. Automobile patrol was also established from Forks to Mora and from the Olympic highway to Clallam bay.

The pilots of the 51st Aero squadron supplemented the ground patrol and kept the various fire-fighting organizations informed by wireless concerning "smokes" seen on the Olympic peninsula.

Ninety-five miles of telephone line and miles of new trail were constructed by the Forest service in order to insure ready means of communication within the protected area. One of the outstanding features of the work was that at all times immediate telephone communication with any body in the district was possible. During the periods of greatest fire hazard telephone reports were made to headquarters at 15-minute intervals throughout the day.

For the actual suppression of fires near highways three auto trucks were equipped each with a 500-gallon water tank, 1200 feet of hose, and a 5-horsepower water pump. These trucks were stationed at strategic points along the Olympic highway and held for emergencies. In addition, three "speed wagons," equipped with tanks of smaller capacity, made two trips daily around the area.

Due largely to these intensive fire-prevention measures only two small fires occurred during the year, both of which were immediately extinguished by timely use of the fire trucks.

Foch and MacNider Thankful For Gifts

Leon McClintock, adjutant of the local American Legion post, this morning received the following letter from Hanford MacNider, the national commander of the American Legion, who passed through here with Marshal Foch:

"I want to assure you that both Marshal Foch and myself not only appreciate your gifts, but the spirit in which they were made. We both regret more than we can tell you that we are not able to thank you in person. It was a very thoughtful act on the part of your post.

"It is this sort of thing that is making the Marshal's visit so worthwhile. I was very proud indeed to be able to tell him this morning of your thoughtful act, and I shall see that you receive from him, when he returns to France, his autographed photograph to show his appreciation."

Prisoner Makes Pretty Shawls

The News Review today received a package containing two beautiful hand-made shawls which are to be placed on sale at the bazaar to be given by the ladies of the Christian church next Saturday. These shawls were made by Roy S. Buech, who was sent to the state penitentiary from this county for the crime of larceny. Accompanying the shawls was a note which said: "I am sending you these hand-made shawls which I have made during my spare time. The work is long and tedious and expensive, and all the cash I have is tied up in this work. My effort is to try and help mother and undo as far as possible the wrong I have done and prove I will be an honor to society. Will you see if you can get something for me, which I will be sure to appreciate."

The shawls will be sold at the bazaar and the money will be sent to the prisoner.

YOU PAY
LESS

Don't try to save money buying cheap or big-can Baking Powders. You can't do it. You'll throw out more in spoiled bakings than you save on price of the powder. And don't think that old style high priced powders are best because they cost most. They are not.

has proved in millions of bake-day tests that it is the best baking powder ever made—that's why it is the biggest selling baking powder in the world today. No other baking powder makes such temptingly good—tender, wholesome bakings. No baking powder of anywhere near the same quality is sold at such a low price.

You use less of Calumet—because it is the highest grade baking powder. One teaspoonful is equal to two teaspoonfuls of many other brands.

And there is no "luck" about it when you use Calumet. No loss. It is absolutely sure. It is the most economical of all. Millions of housewives use it—and so do leading domestic science teachers and cooking experts.

You save when you buy it.
You save when you use it.

Calumet contains only such ingredients as have been approved officially by the U. S. Food Authorities.

Fire Danger Over In Olympia Timber

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 5.—The Olympic blow-down area, which constitutes the greatest fire trap known in the history of the United States, has been successfully guarded against conflagrations through the first year of its existence, state officers of the Forest service, United States Department of Agriculture, heavy rains throughout Washington have made unnecessary further patrol this year of the 1,000 square miles of tornado zone covered by a stupendous tangle of fallen trees.

On January 29 a tremendous cyclone swept down upon the Olympic peninsula and destroyed approximately 6,000,000 feet of western hemlock and spruce timber, 1,000,000 feet of which is within the Olympic National forest. The stand of timber is exceedingly heavy in this locality, and, where the full force of the wind was felt, practically every tree was hurled to the ground, and roads, trails, and telephone lines were obliterated.

Realizing that if fire should ever gain headway among these acres of inflammable debris the most stupendous disaster of its kind ever known
