Christmas Gifts OF JEWELRY

What could be more appropriate for a Christmas gift than a dainty wrist watch, rope of pearls, or a beautiful brooch for Her. For Him an accurate watch eased in new design, hand chased and engraved case, or a nice Waldemar chain or tie pin would be ideal.

"Gifts That Last"

We have a fine selection for your consideration.

ADVICE TO LOVELORN AND OTHERS

Dear Mrs. Ellsbury: Will you please tell me what will take ink out of white linen? The material has never been washed. I soaked it in asstet milk over night, after it was done, but this did not take it out. Also please tell me how to take mildew out that has been in for some time. Thank you. ROSEBURG.

Ans. Try oxalic acid on the ink. Use it as the druggist will tell you to remove ink. The only bad effect it might have would be to leave the linen slightly yellow, but even that is better than the ink. Send the mildewed piece to the laundry, and I think they will remove it. I have never seen a bad mildew stain removed at home with any success.

Dear Mrs. Ellsbury: Can you tell me the best way to accept a man's invitation to dance. I have only danced a short time, and I am always puzzled as to what to say when they invite me to dance with them. Is it proper to accept a man's invitation to take you home when you have only met him that night at the dance? Should low or high heels be worn to a dance? Thank you for all your trouble. CLEM.

Ans. When a man asks you for a dance, it is only necessary to say yes. If you wish you can say that you would be glad to, or something of that kind. If you know who the man is and know that he is all right, there is no reason why you should not let him take you home if you have been properly introduced. However, if he is a stranger and you know nothing about him, it would not be advisable. The heels are entirely a matter of personal preference.

Dear Mrs. Ellsbury: You have given me such good advice in the past that I thought I would bother you again. I have a large lump on my neck that I am very worried about. It started coming about a month ago, and has been growing larger all the time. It does not cause me any pain, but I cannot imagine what causes it or what to do for it. It is now quite large. What would you advise me to do? EIGHTEEN.

Ans. You should go to a doctor at once, and do not try any more home remedies on it.

Dear Mrs. Ellsbury: Will you please inform me how to remove ink from cotton goods, and also how to remove grease from woolen goods? Thank you. BUBBLES.

Ans. Oxalic acid, used according to directions, will remove ink from cotton goods. Do not use on any goods but white. To successfully remove grease from woolen goods you should send the material to professional cleaners. Home remedies are not successful with grease.

Dear Mrs. Ellsbury: Will you kindly tell me what magazine H. G. Wells writes for, and what magazines, if any, Hurst is editor of. Thank you. TRIXIE.

Ans. H. G. Wells writes for the Century Magazine. Hurst is editor of Hurst's Magazine, and has a controlling interest in Cosmopolitan and a number of others.

Dear Mrs. Ellsbury: I have a very serious love problem that I am coming to you with. I have gone with a certain girl for two years, and up to a month ago thought that I loved her dearly. She is pretty, and a very nice girl, my ideal in every way, and we were to be married. A month ago a girl came to visit her from the city. In fact she is distantly related to her. She is wonderful. Beautiful and stylish and with wonderful clothes, and I think now that I am in love with her. She fascinates me when I am with her, and I am sure I could never be happy without her. Still I am not quite sure that I want to let the first girl go. What is the matter with me, and what can I do. JOHN L.

Ans. It is very probable that you are suffering from an infatuation for the girl from the city and that she is just amusing herself with you. That is very often the case, and after she leaves, you will find this out, and your love for the other girl will be stronger than ever. However, there is just a chance that the girl from the city is the right one for you. Do nothing now. Wait until she goes back, and if, after several months you feel the same affection for her, you can be sure that it is the real thing.
