Entered as second-class matter May 17, 1920, at the post office at Roseburg, Oregon, under the Act of March 2, 1879.

ROSEBURG, ORE. MON. JANUARY 2, 1922.

A FEDERAL BILL TO HALT LYNCHING.

Lynching will be less fashionable if the federal anti-lynching bill sponsored by Representative Dyer (Rep., Mo.) becomes a law, remarks the December issue of the Literary Digest. Also, notes a Southern paper, the Columbia Record, "chicken-livered and rabbit-hearted officers of the law, with backbones no stiffer than empty flour-sacks," will be dealt with rather severely if they continue to surrender prisoners and jail keys as in the past, for heavy penalties to both the officer and the county he represents will result if every precaution is not taken to prevent the lynching of a prisoner, white or black. "The Dyer bill is drastic, but a drastic remedy is needed for the loathsome lynching disease," declares the New York Tribune, which reminds us that "since January 1, 1921, there have been sixty known lynchings—a record of shame for a civilized nation." Moreover, another editor recalls, "the records of the past thirty years show that more than one-fifth of the 3224 victims of lynchings in that time were white men." Southerners, therefore, should not feel that the Dyer bill is aimed wholly at them, points out the Manchester (N. H.) Union, for, as the New York Globe remarks, "both Northerners and Southerners have offended, and both whites and blacks have been lynched."

In the opinion of Attorney-General Daugherty, the passage of legislation by congress penalizing failure by a state to give equal protection of the laws to any person within its jurisdiction would be constitutional. Southern congressmen, on the other hand, attack the constitutionality of the Dyer bill. Besides encroaching upon a state's rights, they add, the bill, if it becomes a law, will increase crimes which cause lynchings. The bill provides, according to a summary of the Chicago Daily News, that—

"Any state or municipal officer charged with the duty of protecting the life of any person who may be put to death by a mob and who fails to make all reasonable efforts to prevent the killing, or any such officer, who, being charged with the duty of apprehending or prosecuting any person participating in a mob murder, fails to make all reasonable efforts to pursue the matter to final judgment, shall be punished by imprisonment for not exceeding five years or by a fine of $5000 or less, or by both fine and imprisonment. Any person who participates in a mob murder is declared to be guilty of a felony and subject to imprisonment for life or for a term of not less than five years."

"It is provided further that any county in which a person is put to death by a mob or riotous assemblage shall forfeit $10,000, which sum may be recovered by an action therefor in the name of the United States against such county, for the use of the family, if any, of the person so put to death; if he had no family, then to his dependent parents, if any; otherwise for the use of the United States." Payment may be enforced by the United States district court in which the judgment is obtained. If the person put to death shall have been transported by the mob from one county to another and there put to death, each county through which he was transported is made jointly liable with the others for the $10,000 forfeit."

PREVENTING WASTE IN SCHOOL INSTRUCTION.

To give children the greatest possible advantage from the schools and at the same time to cut down unnecessary costs, Denver schools are reclassifying all pupils according to mental age, studying the cost of instruction per pupil, helping children choose vocations when they leave school, and doing everything else they can to prevent waste in instruction, according to the December School Life. That the same tendency to give the new generation the best educational results possible is found all over the United States and in other countries is indicated by other articles in the same issue. The American Legion is taking a stand for spreading Americanization through the medium of the schools, and in accordance with this movement, Dr. Jno. T. Tigert, the U. S. commissioner of education, has arranged for the distribution of free copies of the Constitution of the United States.

The new interest that the United States is taking in the rest of the world is reflected in college courses of study from California to Maine. Seventy-one colleges and universities are listed in School Life as offering courses preparing young men to represent the United States in foreign trade and other foreign service, the University of Washington enrolling 407 students in this field. Georgetown University offers a complete curriculum in preparation for the steamship business, an important step in the advancement of the United States in its new era as a shipping nation. Establishment of a graduate school of geography at Clark University shows the same spirit of keeping up with foreign affairs. The international trend of education is further shown by the great number of foreign students who study in American institutions, more than 1400 being registered in the higher institutions of New York City alone.

German education is trying to rid itself of the old militaristic ideas and to give the common people some of the educational advantages which formerly belonged only to the upper classes. Teaching practice in central and northern Europe is discussed in this number by Dr. Peter H. Pearson, who spent most of last year in Europe studying educational affairs. This article is one of a series of studies of European education by Dr. Pearson which have been appearing in School Life. A report from the Philippines shows that American schools are influencing nomadic Filipinos to settle down and form permanent communities under the guidance of "settlement farm schools."

Doesn't it seem remarkable that America progressed so far before she ever heard of "efficiency experts?"

GOOD EVENING FOLKS—
"Sloppy Noo Year."

Well, it was rather sloppy this a. m., what?

But then we managed to start 1922 off without a hitch, got to work on time, Lizzie started without much trouble and there wasn't a bill collector in sight.

And then, you know, ye ed. rec'd a beautiful New Year's gift Sat. a. m. consisting of interior decorations, butter, eggs and milk. Tom Hatfield, the well known South Deer Creek farmer, blew into our sanctum Sat. loaded down with the above mentioned articles, which was certainly more appropriate at this time of the year than a New Year's greeting card.

In olden days women carried money in their stockings and no one was any wiser. How times have changed.

PERHAPS IT'S IN THE RING.
(Brooklyn Eagle).

William Jennings Bryan, in Washington to report the conference, has abandoned the sombrero and wears a high silk hat. Better evidence that he is permanently out of politics could hardly be imagined.

Two men of Roseburg were talking about the qualities of their wives. Said Jones to Smith: "My wife is an angel and I think so for three reasons: first, she is always up in the air, second she is always harping, and third, she never has a thing in the world to wear."

This comes to our hand from the land of plenty, if you get the meaning—where it clucked its first cluck between the ornate covers of "The Times of Cuba."

A well known Havana business man got a new stenographer from the States the other day. The first morning she strolled into the office shortly after 9 o'clock, hung up her hat and meandered over to the boss's desk.

"I suppose you start work here the same way as they do up north," she observed.

"I suppose so," agreed the mystified business man.

"Well," said the newest arrival, "kiss me and let me get to work."

"The Deserted Village" had nothing on Roseburg today.

Last night we meandered to a movie show and as we were awaiting the arrival of the feature picture a few slides appeared on the screen advertising future productions. Every time a slide showing a young chicken in a bathing suit or short skirts would appear we could hear the people say, "That oughta be a good show."

Why not resolve today to be a joy flinger instead of a joy killer.

We are heartily in sympathy with the good work going on to provide shelter, clothing and food for the unfortunate of poor old Europe, but we are also in favor of starting a fund to provide a warm place for the dogs to sleep these cold nights instead of letting them shiver out in the snow.

This life is just one license after another. It takes a license to get married, another one to get divorced, another one to have a dog, another one to fish and hunt, another one to get prescription whisky, and now Dave Shambrook comes along and pinches our flivver because it hasn't got a license to run.

Sam Starnier took the joy out of life for a few local citizens Saturday night when he hooked a booze car loaded down with beer. The owner of the likker said it was consigned to some of our prominent and thirsty townspeople and when the sheriff announced that he had their names, quite a few of 'em went home and locked their doors.

The French Bluebeard isn't the first man to lose his head over a woman.

POKE.

With the ladies on the jury you have got to watch your step—For they're mighty full of judgment and they're mighty full of pep. And it really doesn't matter what your lawyer says is true—They may take away your freedom for the things you really do!

Quite a few people went to church yesterday and started the New Year wrong by dropping a nickel in the collection box.

It's mighty hard to be glad on New Year's after trying to shave with a dull safety razor blade.

In the city, flowers are sent to sick people. In the country, quince jelly, raspberry jam, peach preserves, lemon jelly cake, canned oysters, strawberry tarts and um um um.

TIMES HARD FOR THE SCANDINAVIANS.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—(United Press).—The Scandinavian countries are struggling in a period of deep depression that will be a long one, according to advices received by the department of commerce.

Unemployment in Scandinavia is extremely serious. Employers struggling along on a narrow margin claim that wages must be further reduced before they can enter competitive markets.

Reports show the money market tight, prices are declining; shipping is on the increase but without much return in profit; iron and steel production is reduced to a minimum; the pulp and paper markets are rising, but prospects for winter shipments are not promising.

Belgium, however, is making rapid industrial improvements, markets are firm and food and construction industries active.

SEATTLE WOMAN LIVED ON NOTHING ELSE BUT MILK FOR WEEK AFTER WEEK

"For fourteen years my life was just one unbroken period of misery on account of the awful suffering I endured from stomach trouble, but I believe I am the happiest woman in town now since Tanlac restored me to health," said Mrs. Frances E. Lynch, 681 Sixteenth Ave. N. E. Seattle, Wash.

"I was confined to my bed for more than half the time, and although I tried everything under the sun I knew of or ever heard about, it was no use. I had forgotten what a good night's sleep was like, couldn't retain anything on my stomach, and lived for weeks on nothing but milk."

"I have a splendid appetite now and eat things that for years I didn't dare to touch. I never have a trace of indigestion and am feeling just like a different person. Such results as I have received from Tanlac are enough to make anybody happy."

Tanlac is sold in Roseburg by W. F. Chapman's Pharmacy and by leading druggists everywhere.
