Dancing Party At Looking Glass

One of the most enjoyable social events of the season took place last Saturday night when fifty invited guests enjoyed the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. George Russell at a dancing party at their home in Looking Glass. The hall was tastefully decorated for the occasion in evergreens and red festooning.

The ladies, as had been requested, came attired as school girls and the men as school boys. Many delightful quaint costumes were worn. During the dancing all day suckers and popcorn balls were given the guests. After tripping the light fantastic for several hours, the music was stopped long enough for the "boys" to fish for the name of a partner for supper. After supper the dancing was resumed until a late hour when all departed for their homes voting Mr. and Mrs. Russell the winners.

Tree Seeds Being Shipped From B. C.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Feb. 9.—(United Press).—Steady shipments of tree seeds, mostly Douglas fir, Sitka Spruce, and hemlock, are leaving British Columbia for the British Isles, where they are being used in the re-forestation work now being pushed forward in England.

Edward Walmaley, assistant crown timber agent is directing the work of gathering the seeds for shipping. They are the product of the government extracting plant operated by the department of public works.

The most recent seed shipment comprised 1800 pounds of fir seeds, the same amount of spruce, and 100 pounds of hemlock. British Columbia seeds are going to Australia, and New Zealand, as well to the mother country, and requests have been made for supplies by Finnish, Peruvian, and other nations' forestry departments as well.

FARM NEWS

ARTIFICIAL ICE MADE BY FARMER

Freezing Weather and Pure, Clean Water Are Two Things Absolutely Necessary.

METAL CANS OR BAGS USEFUL

In Very Cold Sections Water May Be Run Into House and Frozen in Layers—Must Be Cut or Chopped Out With Ax.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

To make natural ice, one essential is water, and the other is freezing weather. The trouble is that in many cases there is plenty of the right kind of weather, but little or none of the water, at least the kind of water that will be strong enough to be frozen. There are several ways of getting around this difficulty, according to "Harvesting and Storing Ice on the Farm."

In Times of Cold Weather Prepare for Summer—Harvesting Ice in a Northern State.

Farma, a farmers' bulletin issued by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Making an Ice Pond.

Suppose a farmer finds no suitable lake or pond in his neighborhood. He can create an artificial lake by diverting a stream into an excavation, or by building a dam across a low piece of ground. Some farmers have made artificial lakes in their front yards, and they have been pretty in summer as well as useful in winter. One thing that must not be forgotten is to keep these lakes pure and clean. How to do that is described in the bulletin.

But suppose a farmer has no place for a lake, although cold weather prevails in his part of the country for several weeks at a time. He can freeze his ice in metal cans or special paper bags.

"The cans may be made in any convenient size by a local tinsmith," says the bulletin, "and should be of galvanized iron, reinforced at top and bottom with iron strips."

"The bottom is made smaller than the top to make the removal of the ice easier. The cans are placed near the water supply, filled with water, and left exposed to the weather. A shell of ice soon freezes around the inner surface, and when the shell is from 1 1/2 to 2 inches thick, hot water is poured over the outside of the can and the shell removed. A hole is broken through at the top of the shell and most of the water inside is then poured out. As the freezing progresses water is poured into the shell, a little at a time, until a solid block of ice is produced. By this method only a few cans are required, which keeps the cost low.

Advantage of Bags.

"About the same method is employed when special paper bags are used, although they do not last so long as the cans. The advantage of the bags over the metal cans is mainly in cheapness, for they are not so convenient to handle.

"Another method that can be used in very cold sections of the United States is to run water into the ice house and let a layer freeze. This is done by first constructing a dam of snow around the floor of the house ten or twelve inches from the walls in order to allow sawdust insulations next to the walls. The interior of the house is then flooded with a few inches of water, which soon freezes, the procedure being repeated until the house is filled with ice. It is then covered with sawdust and closed up until ice is needed. A great disadvantage of this method is that in order to remove ice it must be cut or chopped out with an ax, which results in uneven and irregular pieces and considerable waste of ice."

MANURE SHOULD BE KEPT DRY

In Process of Fermentation Ammonia, Which Contains Nitrogen, is Washed Away.

Manure when it must be kept for a few weeks should be kept dry. It must be remembered that the nitrogen in manure is very easily washed away. Nor should manure be allowed to ferment. In the process of fermentation ammonia, which contains the nitrogen, is given off and this valuable constituent of a fertilizer is lost. Never use lime on manure as this also drives off the ammonia and hence destroys the fertilizing value in a large measure—the fertilizing value in a large measure.
