HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

The second lecture of the series to be given by the teacher training class was given last Thursday by Miss Stetson, of the University of Oregon. The first was given by Miss Wallace, the county health nurse, one time ago.

Miss Wallace's talk was on the importance of the county health department and how we as teachers in the future can help accomplish it. She said that the purpose of the health department is to prevent the spread of disease, to protect remedial defects and to protect good healthful habits through good healthful habits. She explained how we could help prevent the spread of disease in the school by watching for symptoms of contagious diseases, and by seeing that children with contagious diseases are sent home. We should also see that the heating and ventilating of the school room are well regulated and that the janitor work is well done. She also told us that we could greatly aid the county health department in locating physical defects among the children and the remedying of them. Miss Wallace explained the organization of the good health campaign, urged that, if we became teachers, we introduce it into our schools.

Dr. Stetson's lecture was on the part of personal equipment in the teaching profession. He began by giving us a little of the past history of the teaching profession, telling in a humorous way of the methods employed by teachers for controlling the school in times past. This was followed by the description of the personality of the model teacher. He showed how the ability to meet people without any embarrassment, to have a good firm handshake, to carry on a good conversation, and to take the lead in community activities contributed greatly to a teacher's success. Last he explained the value of reading in any one line such as dramatic reading, singing, drawing, and especially in being able to direct around activities.

EUGENE-ROSEBURG DEBATE.

The R. H. S. took part in two debates Friday night, February 10. The affirmative team, consisting of Brian Orcutt and James McClintock, stayed here and the negative team, consisting of Delorne Parrott and Mildred Starrett, went to Eugene. The afternoon train with their coach, Miss Holloper, the question discussed was, "Resolved, that immigration should be prohibited in the United States for a period of not less than five years." The debate was held after the game, and the judges were C. A. Brand, B. L. Eddy, and Capt. J. F. O'Neil of Oakland. These were a result of the triangular debate of the two districts.

"R" CLUB MEETING.

The "R" club of the Roseburg high school held a meeting Wednesday evening for the election of officers. The following were elected: President, Harold Cooper; vice-president, Wallace Rapp; secretary, Albert Abraham; treasurer, Raymond Parlow; sergeant-at-arms, Ralph Byers; attorney, Charles Thurston; censor, Allen Hewitt; adviser, "Dad" King.

The "R" club is an organization of the letter men of R. H. S. The purpose of the club is to promote cleaner athletics and to get more students interested in athletics.

ROSEBURG DEBATING TEAM WINS OF TRIANGLE.

The Roseburg debating teams were victors in two debates held in the Roseburg high school auditorium, Friday afternoon, February 10. The local team coming out in the lead with six points won the championship of the triangle, which is composed of Roseburg, Wilbur and Myrtle Creek.

The question as stated was, "Resolved, that immigration be prohibited in the United States for not less than five years." The affirmative was represented by Vivian Orcutt and James McClintock, who gave the rebuttal. The negative at Wilbur was represented by Mildred Starrett and Delorne Parrott.

ENTERTAINMENT EXTRAORDINARY.

John Claire Monteith, Portland's popular dramatic baritone, is to make his first appearance in Roseburg on Friday, February 17. Mr. Monteith needs no introduction to the music lovers of Roseburg, for no artist has been heard more frequently in the cities of Oregon, Washington and Idaho than has this popular singer. No one who ever had the opportunity of hearing him ever forgets the pleasure derived from listening to his full, rich baritone voice. His subtle interpretations held the audience in a bond of sympathy and leave in the memory haunting melodies never to be forgotten.

Mr. Monteith will be accompanied by Mrs. Elaine at the piano. On the program will also appear Olen Frederick Mason, interpreter, impersonator and humorist. Mr. Mason is unexcelled as an impersonator. He is the person he represents. Homer Davidson said that a good cartoon looks more like the man than the man does himself. This may be truly said of Mr. Mason's impersonations. Whether his characterizations are of the English gentleman, the Italian workman, the Irish lover, the Scotch dominie or the negro philosopher, each may see himself not only as he is but as others see him.

These artists are appearing under the auspices of the high school faculty at the high school auditorium on Friday evening, February 17, at 8 o'clock. Tickets, adults 50c, student 25c, may be purchased from the high school faculty or from the students, or they may be gotten at the door.

The complete program will be published later.

ANNUAL SENIOR PLAY.

The manuscript for the annual Senior play, which is "Daddy Long Legs," has arrived, and the members of the class are preparing for the try-outs which will be held on Monday by Miss Holloper, class advisor, and Miss Parrott, coach. The seniors had to secure the play thru Klaw and Erlinger, dramatic producers, of New York, as it has not yet gotten into the hands of the publishers. This is the first time amateurs have been given the right to present it. The play is teeming with interesting situations and clever lines, and with the histrionic ability known to exist in the Senior class, the public can look forward to a performance that will uphold the splendid reputation made by former classes. The date will be announced in the near future.

P. T. A. MEETING MONDAY.

The high school Parent-Teacher association will meet in the auditorium Monday, February 13, at 7:30 p. m. This will be a social as well as a business meeting, and a full attendance is urged. Invitations have been sent out through the aid of the English classes, but if anyone interested was missed, the committee urge his attendance. The following program has been prepared:

Piano solo—Ray Burr.
Reading—Miss Alice Ueland.
Skit—Dorothy Eddy and Arthur Fraux.
Vocal solo—Mrs. Hiney.

This meeting should prove one of the most valuable of the year, and the committee desires the hearty cooperation of all parents and teachers.

GRADE SCHOOL NEWS

ROSE SCHOOL NEWS

Miss Olson of the primary department of the Benson school spent Wednesday forenoon visiting in Miss Parrott's room.

The pupils in the 1-B and 2-B classes will tell the story of the life of Lincoln. They will also tell the story of the flag and will wear soldier caps and carry flags while marching. Washington will be an important character and interesting stories will be told connected with his life.

Arbor Day was observed in Miss Wickham's second grade by oral talks on the value of the forests in Oregon, their preservation, the names of the wild flowers and shruberies, and special mention was given to the roses. The "Oregon song" and "The Beautiful Oregon Rose" were sung after which the boys and girls gave their reasons for liking the state of Oregon. One little boy caused a bit of anxiety among the children when he openly said there was one reason that he didn't like Oregon and when asked for that reason he said, "Cause I have to buy my own books since I came here." (Cheer up, little boy, you may not always have to.)

A Valentine box has been arranged in Miss Wickham's room and already a number of red hearts, lacey and comic valentines have been deposited for Archibald, Percival and Petronella.

The pupils in Miss Ford's 8-B civics class have written some interesting compositions this week. Following are three of the compositions that were handed in:

PLAN OF AN IDEAL COMMUNITY

The three principles the planner of a community ought to have in mind when making the plans for a community are health, beauty and convenience.

In order to make and keep a community healthy the streets should be paved and kept clean. When the community is planned the streets should be made wide in order that the wind may sweep through and clear away the foul air.

Well-kept streets and parkings add much to the appearance of a community. Also, if the streets are wide enough, a tree lined avenue gives shade from the sun and adds to the beauty of the street. If the community happens to be on a river, the river bank would be much more attractive if it was fixed as a park. Parks, if kept beautiful, are attractive and add much more to the appearance of the city than anything else. Green lawns, flower beds and trees on private property add to the appearance, too.

The business streets should be wide and paved with good material. When the community is planned, if the streets are laid out in checker-board fashion, it is easy to find a house or a business building. Well lighted streets do much toward lessening the number of accidents and also aid in decreasing crime.

A civic center ought to be established with the court house, armory, postoffice, city hall library and other buildings frequently used by the people. It is also a good plan to adopt city zones where a business section is in one zone, a residential in another zone.

A city planned like this would attract outsiders and help make contented and happy inhabitants.

WHAT THE RAILROAD MEANS TO ROSEBURG

The railroad is the most important help to business in Roseburg and means a great deal to our city. All our transportation is done by the railroad. Our city is a division point on the Southern Pacific. If there was no railroad in our city it would not grow. All the needs of our city are shipped in and our products are shipped out by the railroad. There are eight passenger trains every 24 hours in and out of our city. The pay roll for the Southern Pacific for employees is about $140,000 a month. A good portion of our population is made up of the Southern Pacific employees. From these figures some idea may be obtained regarding the value of the railroad to Roseburg.

LYLE McCULLOCH.

WHAT THE RAILROAD MEANS TO ROSEBURG

Several years ago, Roseburg, like many other towns, was small and unimportant, but what a change has taken place between then and now, since trains have been running through Roseburg. At present it is a thriving little city.

Not only has the town itself built up, but the farms about it which now export many agricultural products. In fact it has brought Roseburg to a high agricultural standing in Oregon.

The business district has also been added, for it can boast of many good stores.

The residential district can thank the railroad for many of its beautiful homes. Without it people would not have come in and consequently they would not have been built.

As a whole the railroad has proved itself to be a valuable asset to the community.

VELMA McDONALD.

BENSON SCHOOL NEWS

Benson school has just received 20 two-year old Caroline test-out rose plants from Supt. J. A. Church. He asks that they be put out for Arbor Day and assures us that with proper care we can have roses by the first of June.

SPECIAL P. T. A. MEETING

A special P. T. A. meeting was called for Friday, February 16th, for the purpose of completing the plans for raising money for the completion of the playhouse. All work will be finished soon.

CLASS ROOM NOTES

Miss Wickham's room enjoyed a very short but enjoyable program on Arbor Day. The children told about all the ways of making the city beautiful, a number of recitations were given and the program ended with the singing of "Beautiful Oregon Rose."

Miss Olson visited Miss Parrott's room at Rose Wednesday morning.

On Friday afternoon some time was devoted to Arbor Day exercises. Children told of planting trees and vines about their homes.

The garden project is being carried out on the 1-B sand table.

The children in the second grade have been thrilled about the adventures of Robinson Crusoe. They are consequently preparing a sand table to represent this story. A very pleasant period was spent discussing Arbor Day. The children all resolve to help make the school grounds look better. A small garden club will be organized where the children will plant small gardens and then every week report the results to the teacher.

Miss Jessie Millikin has had charge of the arithmetic work in the third grade during the past week.

Nora and Viola Tilly were dropped from the roll of the third grade room on Friday as they now expect to attend the Green school. There are now 41 in that room.

The children are eagerly making plans for their Valentine box. They are making valentines of every description and the box is rapidly filling. We are sure that on Tuesday every child will be happy with several Valentines.

The fourth grade enjoyed having Miss Florence Fuller teach them Geography this week.

The fourth B class have been dramatizing language stories. The two Goats and The Elves and The Shoemaker.

The 5-A class in geography are making notebook outlines on the study of Europe. It is hoped this will help to make the work easier and a little more thorough.

The sixth grade has begun reading "The Little Lame Prince." This will not be studied before class but used for sight reading.

The seventh grade is reading with a great deal of pleasure a supplementary reader, "Modern Americans." We look forward each day for new hero or heroine.

The 8-A class has been making an extensive study of "Ivanhoe" and each member of the class has taken an active interest.

The 8-B class has finished studying Wilson's "War Address to Congress." While this has been a more difficult selection, some good work was done.

The 8-A class has practically completed all new matter in arithmetic and will devote the balance of the time in a general review preparatory to the state examinations.

The sixth grade has been doing some excellent work in composition on the life of Abraham Lincoln. A series of facts have been compiled by each pupil. The class has also found pictures showing Lincoln in the different phases of his life.

Following is a list of facts which they have discussed.

Facts About Abraham Lincoln.
Date and place of birth: He was born February 12, 1809, at Nolin Creek, Kentucky, in a log cabin.

The kind of a home he had: His home was a log cabin out in the forest. At the age of seven he moved with his parents to Indiana. Here they built another log cabin.

Education: He had little schooling as he went to school only two years. He was taught at home by his kind mother. He did not have many books. Those he had were the Bible, "Life of Washington" and an old arithmetic book. He read and studied every book that he could get hold of.

Early occupations: He split rails to buy a suit of home spun clothes. He took produce to New Orleans, going down the Mississippi in a flatboat. While there he saw slaves being sold at auction. He then said: "If I ever get a chance, I'll strike that custom a blow." He worked in a country store. While doing this he studied law. He studied surveying and was a captain in the "Black Hawk" war.

His public life: He practiced law in Illinois. He had a number of debates with Stephen A. Douglas over the question of slavery in the new territories. He served one term in the state legislature. He became president of the United States on March 4, 1861.

Things that he did as president: He freed the slaves. He kept the state united by refusing to let the South leave the union.

His death: He was shot while at Ford's theater by John W. Booth, an anarchist, on April 14, 1865. He died the following day, April 15, 1865. Both the north and the south mourned his death for he had lived his life "With malice toward none, with charity for all."

The English freely admit that the system of telegraphic time signals adopted by the naval observatory at Washington is much to be preferred to that in use at Greenwich for supplying Great Britain with standard time.

At Greenwich a signal is sent out at noon, whereas at Washington a series of signals is used, beginning five minutes before noon. During these five minutes every tick of the observatory clock is electrically transmitted, except the twenty-ninth second of each minute, the last five seconds of the first four minutes, and at last ten seconds of the fifth minute. After this final ten seconds break, the noon signal is given. In this manner the middle of each minute is clearly indicated, and yet more clearly the instant of noon. The length of the series facilitates the regulation of clocks and chronometers.

SPORT

Roseburg Wins From Medford

All predictions that Roseburg would win the basketball game last night were fulfilled. The game was a fast and slightly rough one from start to finish. The Roseburg boys were confident—a little too confident in the first half, but when Medford's score began to creep up and gradually came into the lead at the last of the first half things began to look different to the local boys and they went into the game the second half to win. Their passing had been fast but careless and the ball had dropped into the hands of the Medford team several times during the first half but during the second, with Merford in the lead, things had a different view. The local boys became more careful of their passes but still kept their wonderful teamwork and passed the ball through Medford's five-man defense time and time again for shots at Roseburg's basket, many of which rolled off and out.

This was the first real game that the R. H. S. boys have had this season and the successful outcome of the game is certainly a boost for Roseburg's basketball team, especially when so strong an opposing team is in the lead the first part of the game and the local boys overcome that lead and win the victory by a margin of 10 points. The final score was 21 to 31 in Roseburg's favor.

A great deal of credit is due to Captain Don Hunt for the exceptional teamwork of the local boys. Don was continually in the game backing up every play from start to finish despite his being heavily guarded by the Medford team who remembered what he did for them at Medford last year. "Deb" Abrahams, "Bill" Burr, Phil Singleton and Don Hunt were the point makers in the game. "Wally" Rapp showed himself impossible to run down and was forever in the way of Medford's passes and sending them in the opposite direction. "Shorty" Singleton showed himself a fit partner for "Wally." Charles Thurston was put into the place of Shorty the last few minutes and convinced Medford that they could not knock him down and walk on him as they had tried to do to "Shorty" once or twice.

Another big game is expected to-night when Roseburg meets Albany on the high school floor. This will be the first time Albany has come to Roseburg to play basketball for a number of years and the local boys feel that they can show her a few pointers in the game. It is hoped that the game will be as well attended as the one last night, which taxed the seating capacity of the gym to its utmost. A crowd like that makes the team work harder and assures them of victory.

The line-up for last night's game was as follows:

Roseburg:	Medford
Hunt (Capt.)	F.....
Burr
Abraham
Rapp
Singleton
Thurston
Phil Singleton	took Burr's place
and Thurston	George Singleton's place in the last half.
