TREATY VIOLATED

Representatives of Umpgua Tribe Gather In City for Pow-wow Today.

OVER 50 ARE PRESENT

Remant of Famous Umpqua Tribe Makes Claim For $12,000,000 in Return for Land Taken by the Government.

Approximately 50 Indians, repre-senting the Molalla, Siletz, Grand Ronde, Calapoola and Coos branches of the Umpiua tribe, met in Ross-burg today for the purpose of con-sidering action on the treaty of 1847 by the terms of which the Indians of the University of the terms the claim $12,000,000 is due from the rovernment. The indians are being represented by G. W. Rapp, who has been appoint-ed to take charge of this affair, and the legal phase is in the hands of attorney Elbert Hermann, now of Portland.

It is claimed that in the year 1847 the government set aside the lands between the Rozue and Columbia rivers and the Cascade mountains and the Pacific occan for the Indians of that district. At that time the Umpquas were a powerful tribe, em-bodying the smaller tribes mentioned above. The Umpqua tribe numbered at that time about $00 Indians, while other tribes in Oregon averaged around 100 and 250. Combined with the Calapoola tribe which was class-ed as one of the Umpqua tribes by many historians the Umpqua Indians practically controlled all of the land north to the Columbia, while several strong tribes were to be found Washington side of the Columbia river. The government, the Indiahs claim set aside by treaty all of this land but later the country become settled up by while men. Homesteaders took over the best farming lands and gradually the state has been settled up forcing the native indians out. This it is claimed is in direct violaton to the treaty

The Indians claim that as a result of this treaty violation they are en-titled to the sum of $12,000,000 in payment of the lands taken from Great Sprinter Runs Because of Love of Sport.

Advises Athletes to Pick the Fellow in Race Most Feared and Then Defeat Him-Concentration Is Big Keynote.

"Pick the fellow in the race you fear the most and then do your best to heat him to the old finish line."

That's the advice of Charles W. Paddock, one of the greatest sprinters in the world, who recently established a new record for the 220-yard dash by stepping the distance in 20 4-5 seconds, "When a man is running a short dash, his mind is so concentrated that everything in his past, present or future comes to his mind," declared Paddock today. "It is the same as with a man who is drowning-they both think of everything. The more centrated a man's mind is, the better race he will run.

"It is a peculiar matter that the physical things are not felt in a hard race. A runner may be spiked or he might strain a tendon and he'd never know it until after the race. I scarcely feel the ground the last 20 yards, fact I do not touch it the last 16 feet. for I try to make a leap for the tape. I learned this when I was a freshman in high school and one fellow who was running fourth place came in second with a bound. He taught me how to leap. At first I made ten feet, then I increased it to twelve, fourteen now I make sixteep feet.

"Form is all bunk, I think. I never was trained to run. I do it just in my own way through the sheer love of running, just as an animal does. "Athletes learn to concentrate better than any other individual, in fact it is exceedingly true with athletes that 'concentration is the keynote to suc-cess.' People claim the better the cess." athlete the poorer student, but I don't agree with them. If any athlete was as interested in his studies as he was in his particular event, he would be a better student than the average, be cause he has learned to concentrate better than the ordinary person." Paddock attributes his great speed to his ability to get in and "dig" from the start to the finish. Charles W. Murchison, of the New York Athletic club, one of Paddock's rivals, recently declared that if the Californian would leave his marks quicker he would run the century in Both Roseburg and Ashland have produced unusually strong teams this year and both are recognized as strong contenders for the state cham-pionship. The "dope" shows both to be about evenly matched. Ashland has a heavier team than Roseburg and three of its players have had a great deal of experience in the game. The game will be well worth seeing and will probably be the best to be played this year.

Roseburg has a battle on her hands tonight when they meet the basketball aggregation from Ashland and will need all the support that they can get to win from the south-ern Oregon team. LYCURGUS DID NOT "BELONG"

Old Gentleman Wrong in Classing Him as One of Seven Wise Men. of Greece.

The seven wise men of Greece, whose names and sayings have come down to us from antiquity, have been distinctly secondary in renown recently to the several score wise men of the nations gathered here in the conference on the limitation of armaments.

But the ancient wise men are not forgoiten. Here and there are men who trensure the sayings which those worthies handed down to us. They are keen on the proper pronunciation of their names, and know to a de-gree in which Greeian state they lived.

One of these scholars came in last week to settle a dispute, says the Washington Star. Several of his friends, in whom the fine flower of learning had not withered any more than it had in him, were disputing about those seven wise men of Greece.

"They could only which of six," de-clared the gentleman, nodding his white head. "I said the seventh was Lycurgus. Am I right?"

The seven wise men of Greece, not having figured in the news for a few years, it was no easy task to locate them. But a fat volume finally gave them up-and Lycurgus was not in the Blas, Chilo, Cleobulos, Pittacos, So-
