GOVERNMENT PROPAGANDA.

While government propaganda aimed at establishing economy among the people is all right as far as it goes, the people will do well to remember there is a wide difference between economy and a determination not to buy, remarks an exchange. Economy is wise buying of necessities, and it is well also to have a pretty clear idea of what necessities consist. A new talking machine record to bring relief from monotony on the farm is a better investment than a doctor's bill incurred as the result of shattered nerves. Naturally the government's aim is the investment of the public money in government securities, undoubtedly the safest in the world, but there is a business side of spending as well as of saving that must be taken into consideration. The merchants of this town, as well as those of every other town, must be kept busy. If our people are to have the convenience of home town purchasing, then the people must keep the goods moving off the shelves of the merchants. There is no loss, no waste in home town buying because the money circulates in our own territory, and eventually gets back to the purchaser. It is only when money is taken out of town that the harm is felt. Thrift should be encouraged, but thrift does not mean no buying. Russell Sage, who left millions, was thrifty. He bought his straw hats in the winter time and his flannel underwear in the summer time when prices were down, but even he bought what he needed. Healthy home trade will do more than anything else to restore sound prosperity. We are all in the same boat. We cannot be prosperous at the expense of our local merchants, and we don't want to be.

The News-Review received a telegram this morning from Hon. Charles Hall, of Marshfield, saying he would be a candidate at the May primaries for nomination for governor of the state of Oregon. Mr. Hall is the gentleman who recently received the endorsement at Portland of the "Federation of Patriotic Societies," a secret organization that few people know anything about. However, this is no reflection on Mr. Hall, as he is a mighty fine gentleman and widely known throughout the state. But before any candidate comes before the people of this state supported by a secret organization claiming to control many thousand votes, it will be necessary for a full explanation why such organization is in effect and its absolute sincerity in the political field. People generally, don't like to have anything "put over" on them, and no matter what the qualifications of a candidate, if he is receiving some strong secret support there must be a reason. If the voters don't get this reason from the right angle the results might be disastrous to an otherwise excellent candidate. A little "inside information" would be appreciated.

It is expected that the $75,000,000 farm loan bonds now being offered by the federal land banks will be sold to net the holders 4.7 per cent. The demand for this investment indicates that it should be possible to finance the country's farming operations at a very reasonable rate, thus relieving the leading cause of business trouble in the agricultural districts. The farmers of the country demand better credit facilities, and complain that after mortgaging their real estate, they can't get the loans they need to carry their crops until the same can be marketed to advantage. They ought not to be forced to sell their product all in a lump soon after harvest, when it always brings the lowest prices. The country needs a nation-wide scheme similar to the mortgage plan operated through the land banks, to give the farmers as good credit facilities for carrying their products as other business men have.

More applications for babies to be adopted are received than can be filled, said an official of the Child Welfare League of America a few days ago. Prohibition is said to be largely responsible for the fact that fewer children of poor homes are offered for adoption than formerly. A great deal of money that used to go to support the saloon, is now being used to keep families together, and not so many children are being set adrift. The number of childless homes increases among educated people. A lot of folks finally wake up to the fact that they need young life. Many people face a lonely old age, unless they have the enterprise and initiative to take the bother of bringing up an adopted child, an enterprise that usually brings splendid rewards.

Spruce up. The state merchants will convene in Roseburg Monday. While they are coming to Roseburg to hold a business convention, they will not fail to give our city the "once over."

From all parts of the state receptive candidates are trotting around the political arena—but many of them fail to find the gates ajar.

It's up to the weather man to round out some good weather for the last week in February—and he will have to hurry.

GOOD EVENING FOLKS—

The city was a scene of activity this evening as the city lights shined brightly. This is evidence enough that they've abandoned the are light scheme. One of the village fathers arose in all his oratorical majesty recently and suggested that a couple feet of iron pipe be added to the present poles—and then place 2 or 3 lights on top instead of the present five. All of which reminds ye ed—didja ever see a bunch of shik-spokes standing along the edge of the Umpqua?

Now that some kind-hearted individual has purchased the auto camp grounds and decided to furnish shower baths for the weary tourists, ye ed, thinks it would be time for some one to provide tubs in the "jungle" for the weary Willies.

After having planted congressmen seeds in our garden plot for the past three seasons and reaped a harvest of dandelions the same number of times, we've decided it's cheaper to buy lettuce at 5c per bunch at the grocery store.

This a. m. we noticed a list of society birds who were sojourning at Palm Beach—and from all appearances some of them were working for a living. We, who look forward to the Saturday night pay-check, can't imagine looking an entire winter without being hounded to death by the butcher or grocer.

Some people are so lazy they won't even change needles on the phonograph.

Have you ever heard the "Stockyard Rag"? The words are not very touching, but the air—oh my!!

Why is it that the fellow who's made his money in a town never wants to see that town forge ahead?

Dear Ed. of Prunes: I'm thinking of having a swell party. What shall I do?

Ans. Eat some yeast.

The gay white way has nothing on us. Why any night after the show you can walk down Jackson St. and see the Palace of Swartz. Duds for Men and The Rose electric signs—and if you look closely, you can see the cluster lights.

He staggered up the walk with a silly grin and faltering step. She saw him a block away. "Hiary," she said, "you're drunk again."

"Well, if I ain't, I've spent ten bucks for nothing."

PROOF.

He sought illumination. On a matter rather dense. "Twins Mazie's hair that puzzled him. Its quantity immense. She vowed it all belonged to her—The wily little witch.

By accident, light came to him—His hand had touched the switch.

Miss Roseburg must put on her best dress next week. Oregon merchants will flock here in numbers and it's up to us to prove we're the best convention city this side of Tia Juana.

LIFE PERKINS SEZ: "It's purty hard to blow yer nose graceful-like in public."

LAST DAY.

Tomorrow will be the last day of the demonstration of the Paridian Perfected Art Embroidery needle at J. C. Penney Co's. Department Store. The needles will not be carried in stock by any store, so if you wish one you must get it tomorrow before the store closes.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the neighbors and friends who so kindly rendered their assistance during the late illness and death of our husband and father. We also wish to extend thanks for the many beautiful floral offerings.

Signed: Mrs. Geo. DeWald; Mrs. Effie Schwarz and family; Mr. and Mrs. C. E. DeWald.
