DAY OF GAYETY IN SICILY

At Festival Time the People Give Themselves Up to All Forms of Amusement.

Booths and barrows lined the streets selling fireworks and drinks, torrone made of new almonds and honey, knives and ribbons; and alternating with the merchandise and drinks were the numbling stands. There were a "How about a shock absorber?" the numbling stands. There were a dozen realette tables, silver horses elempt car.

the roofs of the churches into the little stone streets, with a ratiling and det nation like a bombardment, Beside the Duomo the band from Syracuse was playing airs from the operas. Meantime the deep blue of the early night had fallen over the walls and over the country dropping down toward the sea and rising on the other hand toward the Saracon castle above hand toward the Saracen casts above the town. A few pale stars were out and a slender moon, almost past, was shining. The whole plazar was sweet with the perfume of the Jessamlae that ran along the front of the house next the church, incredible sweetness in that soft, blue air. And overywhere were the voices, deep and bright.

Doubtful Ending.
