ADVICE TO LOVELORN AND OTHERS

BY MRS. ELLSBURY

A Daily Column of Questions and Answers Conducted by a Woman Who Knows. Address your Letters to Mrs. Ellsbury Care Roseburg News-Review.

Dear Mrs. Ellsbury: As you have helped many others, I feel confident you can help me in my trouble. In the first place I love pretty clothes, and would like some way to get them. As I am under sixteen, it is hard for me to think of anything I could do and still go to school. I have good grades in school and do not have to bring my lessons home at night. I also have fairly good things now, but when I go out I would like a change, so I feel I must do something. If you do not mind I prefer not to sign my real name.

WORRIED FASHION PLATE.

Ans. I cannot advise you to do extra work in addition to going to school. I understand your longing to have more clothes. It is a most natural instinct, but I do not think it would be right to do extra work. You cannot do it, and keep up your school work, your health, or have all the good times that are your right while going to school. Wait until your last year in high school, and then if your mother approves you might find a position for the summer, or after school hours.

"BEEN INFORMED"—I cannot give out any names that come to me signed in letters. In this case, however, the letter was signed with a fictitious name, which I published. The letter was very probably from your wife. If you are sure, I would advise you to go home to her and forgive and forget. Also I would advise you to try to understand. I am sure she is sincere and worthy of your love. Remember that human beings grow through learning their mistakes, and you can be doubly sure of her now.

No Dull Moments at Revival Services

There was not a dull moment at the Methodist revival last night. Some are coming as early as 7 o'clock each evening, and a service for prayer and council will be held at that time. The song service begins promptly at 7:30 and the sermon at

Quite a number of Civil War veterans were present last night, and often visitors are seen from Winston, Dillard, Camas Valley and other places. Prof. Isaacs sang "The Feast of Belshazzar" last evening which emphasized the sermon on that subject. One man came forward and in tears sought the better life. From the smile on his face when he left, the step will probably mean much to him, and to others with whom he associates. He is a stranger here, and the church folks found work for him.

The sermon tonight will be especially interesting to girls but of benefit to all. The topic will be: "Some Girls That Were Left." Mothers, come along with the girls. It would be better if mothers and daughters were out together more anyway. It is encouraging to see a number of whole families sitting together each evening in the good old fashioned way. Some one said the other day: "Revivals are out of date." No, some folks are behind the times, that's the trouble. People who make the effort to attend the meetings get just as great a blessing as they ever did. Men may change but truth never.

Many Problems In Granting Loans

"Rapid progress in shaping policies to be followed by the commission in making loans to eligible veterans of of the world war is now being made," said Captain Brumbaugh, in a statement issued before the meeting of the commission today. "It is already apparent, however, that many perplexing problems will have to be overcome before the machinery for actually issuing the loans is in full swing. Up to this time 6,831 loan application blanks have been mailed to applicants and up to March 13th, 2,161 of these had been returned to the commission for preliminary examination. To show that the commission is making every endeavor to expediate the granting of loans, Captain Brumbaugh pointed out that 1,654 appraisers' reports had already been transmitted to the appraisers in the various counties. In the eastern sections of the state, however, the appraisers have been seriously hampered and delayed in making their appraisals, due to the extremely inclement weather and heavy snows. As soon as the weather moderates to the extent that roads become passable, and also to the extent that careful examination of the lands in those districts can be made, the work of the appraisers will go forward even more rapidly than at present."

"For the purpose of securing reliable advice in property appraisals and loans," the commission has called into conference two experts from widely known financial institutions in Portland. The commission feels that with the early guidance of such experts' advice, the interests of the state, as well as those of the individual applicant will be amply protected and firmly assured, both in the early stages of the administrative work, and later, in fortifying the position of the state as regards the repayment of the loan."

"One condition, which has been very forcibly brought to the attention of the commission in the examination of the loans, which will need to be remedied, is the apparent lack of interest on the part of the applicant in having his property in the best of shape at the time the appraisers appear for the examination. Quite a number of appraisers' reports received so far show that the property has received scarcely any care or attention for the past several years. Fences, barns, outbuildings and even the dwellings are in an extremely poor condition of repair. In one case, the house which was included in the property submitted for appraisal had not been painted for over 22 years. Piles of rubbish and debris are allowed to accumulate in barns and outbuildings. Fences have in some cases, apparently rotted from their posts and in general it would appear that the property had been used for every other purpose than that for which it was intended."

"Applicants should realize," emphasized Captain Brumbaugh, "that the fixing of the amount of a loan depends to a very material extent upon the condition of the property at the time the appraisers visit such property for the purpose of making their appraisals. As it is with the large loan companies and financial institutions so it will be with the bonus commission—property must appear well-kept before a proper valuation can be arrived at. It is a fact that a dilapidated and run down farm or home cannot help but reflect to at least some extent, the character of the man who purposes to make it his home and to point it out as the security he has offered the state of Oregon in return for its consideration in granting him a loan."

At its meeting today the commission approved 865 claims for the cash bonus and passed upon 25 loan applications, aggregating $65,000.

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep them fit. 15c and 30c.

Minor Matters Considered by Council

The regular meeting of the city council last night was quite lengthy with much time being devoted to a consideration of the recreation park proposal. There were also a number of minor matters given consideration.

The recorder read a communication from G. W. Sparks, in which he withdrew as security for J. H. Shy, jitney driver. Shy's license was ordered suspended until he could furnish new security.

S. W. Taylor presented a communication in which he stated that he is having an agreement drawn and will present it to the council at its next meeting and which will provide that he is to be granted all concessions in Umpqua Park if he constructs a bridge across the river. He says he will start work on the bridge within 30 days after the agreement is signed.

The city council decided that the road from Winchester street to the railroad track, leading to the city's dump grounds, should be paved, and a proposition will be put up to the property holders in that vicinity whereby the city will agree to pay the engineering expenses and one-half of the paving costs.

The remonstrance of A. J. Bellows to the paving of Madrone avenue was read. The remonstrance was overruled and the improvement will proceed.

The petition of S. Madison to be allowed to construct a garage at the end of Lane street was denied.

The report of the camp grounds conference committee was adopted.

A bill for $298 for gravel on 2nd avenue and Military avenue was allowed.

Improvement ordinances on Rice street and Madrone avenue were read first and second times.

The street committee was instructed to see that gravel shoulders are constructed along the South Stephens street paving.

An ordinance granting a franchise to L. W. Metzger to build a spur track across Pine street was passed upon third reading.

Assessment ordinances covering the improvement of Riverside Drive, Laurelwood sewer, Fowler street and Lilburn street, were passed after third reading.

The quarterly allowance of $375 was allowed to the library.

The city attorney was instructed to proceed with court action to clear up the city's title to property taken in on liens.

Councilman Nichols was instructed to have a drinking fountain built at the corner of Cass and Jackson streets.

The council adopted a resolution advising the county court to construct a new courthouse building at the corner of Douglas and Main streets and that the present building be sold for a community house and be devoted to public purposes.

Mrs. J. W. Scott and daughter, Dora Mae are in this city to spend a short time looking after business matters and visiting with friends. Mrs. Scott formerly lived in this city but they now make their home at Anlauf.

FARM NEWS

LABOR SAVED IN HARVESTING HAY

Good Methods, Efficient Management and Proper Implements Are Essential.

USE HORSES FOR HEAVY WORK

Small Grower Need Not Make Large Investment in New Apparatus—Economical to Use Mowers of the Larger Sizes.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Much labor is wasted in harvesting hay, not necessarily because of idleness, but because wrong methods, inefficient management and improper or imperfect implements are employed, say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture.

On farms where considerable hay is grown, they say, methods must be adopted by which the greater part of the heavy labor is done by horses. This will necessitate the general use of certain types of labor-saving machinery, some of them not so common in the East, which have been thoroughly tested and proved satisfactory in the western part of the United States. The small hay grower, however, need not make a very heavy investment in new haying apparatus, for, by rearranging the working of his crew, and using a little more horse labor for the hard work, he can add considerably to the efficiency of his crew.

Time of Mowing Is Important.

The time of day when the mower is started has a direct bearing on the amount of hay made per day and the number of men required. This is especially true on farms where it is the custom to haul or stack hay in the afternoon only. If mowing is done in the morning and raking in the afternoon, more men and horses than usual will be required, and if mowing and raking are both done in the afternoon, still more men and horses will be needed.

The five-foot cut is the most common size used in the East, but it will be economy to use larger mowers; six, seven and even eight-foot sizes can be used on a great many farms. Some idea of the time saved by using these larger sizes may be had when the difference in the amount of work done by each is known. Under average conditions, a five-foot mower will cut ten acres in ten hours, a six-foot mower will cut 12 acres, a seven-foot 14 acres and an eight-foot about 16 acres in ten hours. It should be borne in mind that more power is required for the wider cuts. Many alfalfa growers are using the eight-foot cut with good success, and make a practice of mowing early in the morning before the dew is off, or even during a light rain.

Mower Is Important.

It does not pay to wait until the dew is off before starting the mower if the tedder is used to "kick" the water out of the hay. The size of mower used and the time of day it is started are the most important factors in crew arrangement. The use of the tedder and rake are next in importance, and these three implements should be kept clearly in mind when attempting to solve the problem of how to make a small crew efficient.

CAMAS VALLEY NEWS

The program and box social which was planned for March 18th, had to be postponed until March 25th on account of sickness of members who are to take part in the program. But March 25th is the day when everybody should be at the lower schoolhouse. Fun will commence about 8 p. m. A good program and social time will be yours and if you're not there you will never know what you missed.

Work has been started on the new contract of the Camas Valley section of the Roseburg-Coos Bay highway. March 14 two double and one single scraper started on the cut through the J. Blue ranch, but owing to the wet weather the work with the scrapers had to been discontinued temporarily. Clearing of the right of way across Mr. Porter's ranch is the next job.

Miss Laura Stoble is home from Portland and is spending a short vacation with her parents.

Bert Nealy and B. Chapman, two well known Camas Valley men, are planning to go to California in the near future.
