

CHEVROLET—Why not Pay $98.00 More and Get a Car Everywhere You Look You See a CHEVROLET

The Economy Car of Quality

That uses about 25% less gasoline. That uses from one-third to one-fourth as much oil. That is easier to guide. That is more comfortable to ride in. That has a Stewart speedometer connected on transmission. That has an oil gauge on dash. That has a one man top.

That has a grey style back curtain. That has three speeds forward. That has a water pump. That has a radiator that will not freeze when motor is running. That has a slanting windshield. That has movable windshield glass for summer comfort. That has the Willard Rubber Thread.

Battery, guaranteed two years. That has a low theft insurance rate. That has pockets in all four doors. That has a hand shift lever. That has both a hand and foot gas accelerator. That is easy to start in cold weather. That is noted for its great pulling power.

That has a fine appearing body. That has a triple baked enamel body and fenders that will last for years instead of paint that soon needs another coat. That has a new spiral gear differential (rear end) that carries a $50.00 reward for anyone that will break the ring or pinion gear on a test.

That has an organization back of it that is not trying to see how cheap they can build it but how good they can build it. That has a host of satisfied owners that are very much pleased that they paid a "little more." Don't take my word or someone else's.

But ask the owners. Everywhere you look you see a Chevrolet. There is a reason—it is the lowest priced and most economical fully equipped car on the market and the best automobile buy today.

ELKS' GOLDEN JUBILEE

PORTLAND, March 29.—The Festival Commission, having in its arrangements for the Golden Anniversary and Prosperity Week festival, May 15 to 21, has received assurance that during that week, Portland hotel and restaurant proprietors will make no increase in their rates. It will cost no more to live in Portland that week than at any other time.

These business men have entered into the spirit of the celebration and declare they will do their utmost to help bring back prosperity. They have heartily endorsed the Elks' plan and no one of them will take advantage of the rush into the city to increase their rates, they say.

C. W. Band Elect Officers

A large number of the members of the Christian Workers' Band were present last evening at the First Methodist church at a very important business meeting. The semi-annual election of officers was held at this session and the following members will serve as officers during the ensuing term: Harry White, president; Neva Walker, first vice president; Lois Cobb, second vice president; Evelyn Young, secretary; Jeanette Gibbs, treasurer; superintendent of teams, Beulah Jarvis; pianist, Fay Calhoun; and song leader, Inez Goddard.

The retiring president, H. L. Caldwell, made a short speech expressing his appreciation of the cooperation and willing spirit of the young people during his presidency and his desire that they assist the new leader in a like manner.

The gospel teams have again resumed activity and will be at the disposal of any communities desiring a Sunday afternoon service and appointments may be made by correspondence with the superintendent of teams. Two services will be held next Sunday, one at 4:30 under the direction of Loren Harvey and the other at 6:30 under the direction of Evelyn Young.

A pleasant surprise of the evening was the presence of Joe Neo, now a student at the Willamette University and who is preparing to enter the ministry. Mr. Neo sang a very delightful solo.

The next meeting will be held at the Presbyterian church.

GIRLS ARE EXPERTS WITH THE RIFLES

SEATTLE, Wash., Mar. 29.—There is a suspicion around these parts that Terrible Tommy, the slick-haired youth, who separates old men and mauls from their pocket money on dark streets, had better leave the malls out of his calculations. If they start totin' guns it's all over for Tommy but the dull thud of earth on wood.

The University of Washington has taken up rifle shooting for girls in an earnest sure of fashion, and has made that effective "study" a regular part of its physical curriculum. Major Fisher, of the university military department, is coach and declares the young ladies fine pupils.

"Flappers! Hum! well, I'll put a team of 'em against" teams of men any time, and with the same amount of instruction, mind you, and I'll bet a target patch against a snipehead the girls will win," says the major.

"Girls have fewer bad habits to the major. Fisher believes. "Men get in the habit of handling a gun and handle it any old way. Because they are hit any thing they shoot at a woman of them, they think they are as good as the correct style. Girls, now, come out to learn with practically nothing to unlearn. So they get it straight."

HORSE THIEVES BECOMING EXTINCT

PORTLAND, Ore., Mar. 29.—(United Press.)—Here's another association that seems about to die on the Pacific coast, for sheer want of material on which to exist. It's the National Horse Thief Detective Association. Despite its call for northern delegates to meet with delegates from the rest of the United States at the annual convention at Los Angeles, Ind., Oct. 4 and 5, next, there's mighty little response from this section of the wild and woolly, according to M. J. Peck, head of the association here.

Peck says that the association recently asked for reduced rates to its convention, but not a dropped application has come from the western states, right where law and lots of horse thief detectives ought to be. It's the association's motto: "It's the automobile," I guess, "steals Peck. "With gasoline forcing like milk and honey in the Portland road, horse thieves, and consequently horse thief detectives, are about as rare out this way as pieplanters in the Yukon or gamblers in the desert. They ought to change their name or get out of business."

Bootlegging Like Lingering Disease, Asserts Girl Mayor

Finds Rum Rears Up Head Like St. George's Dragon, Aided by Hypocrites.

By WILLIAM J. HUSKE
(International News Service Staff Correspondent.)

FAIRPORT, O., March 29.—"Bootlegging," said Dr. Amy A. Kaukonen, Fairport's pretty girl mayor, to the International News Service today, "is like a long, lingering disease. When you think you have it cured and done for it rears up its head, like the dragon in the legend of St. George, and takes another form and a fresh hold. It's harder to eradicate than the itch. This country is a hub of bootleggers, and whenever you knock one on the head another head is there to take the last one's place."

"Many a man gets up in prayer meeting and yells 'Down with Booze!' then, ten minutes later, sneaks up a back alley to some disreputable resort and pours down his hypocritical throat some bootlegger's concoction that would make a sign-store Indian go a war dance. I know the superintendent of a Sunday school that is always rooting for prohibition and yet rents his property to the proprietor of a blind tiger."

"Have Home Brew on Brains." "The fact that liquor is hard to get seems to make it more desirable. People who seldom tasted booze when the country was wet now seem to have 'home brew' on the brain. They forget more recipes for hooch every fifteen minutes than an ex-bar tender could remember if he lived to be as old as Methuselah. Instead of spending in for outdoor exercise and sunshine many 'tired business men' are going in for indoor exercise and 'moonshine'."

Mayor Kaukonen is also a physician. She graduated from the Woman's Medical College of Philadelphia with high honors and is the youngest graduate of that institution. She is a petite blonde and cheerfully admitted her twenty-five years. However, the correspondent was reluctant enough to say that she didn't show her years.

She was elected last fall over a candidate who had strong backing from all classes, and her battle cry was "Clean out the bootleggers!" She has named an entirely new police force and other subordinates and is re-evaluating, she says, the heavy support of the council elected with her. Congratulated by President.

Her election—she is the only woman mayor of a town having the city form of government in Ohio and perhaps in the United States—brought forth hundreds of congratulatory letters and telegrams, and one which she treasures most highly is from President Harding and reads: "Highest respect and congratulations to Amy Kaukonen, the first woman to head the municipal government of her home city."

She says that she will personally conduct all raids and will analyze in her own laboratory whatever liquor is seized.

"I'm not a feminist," she said, in explaining her political affiliations. "I have no platform save the promise of strict law enforcement, economy and a square deal to all, regardless of sex, race or political affiliations."

Her strongest supporters are said to be the children. Fairport boasts more children than any town of its size in the United States, and both as a physician and executive, Dr. Kaukonen takes a deep interest in their welfare.

Her election has brought her many invitations to speak, and she will leave soon for an extended tour in the interest of law enforcement.

grim business," she concluded. "Last week two men entered my office. Immediately one fell on the floor in violent convulsions. The other man turned to me and said excitedly, 'For God's sake write out a whiskey prescription! It's the only thing that seems to bring my poor brother, Pete, out of these fits.'"

"I never write prescriptions for whiskey," I replied. "At once the man on the floor stopped jerking his arms and kicking his legs. He rose from the floor and remarked with a grin: "If there's no whiskey coming I reckon the fit is over.'"
