GOOD EVENING FOLKS!
All of the sweet young things are spending their cash these days on Spring bonnets and sundry other items bespeaking the fact that winter has fled and we hope that when the April showers drench these darling New bonnets the sweet young things won't resemble Easter eggs.

A few of the local Rotarians returned last night from Vancouver, B. C., convention and they're so spoiled they can hardly look a cup of cold tea in the face.

Weather Observer Bell says a great deal has been said about the weather but nothing has been done.

Nap Rice, feeling quite husky this a. m. grabbed a broom and dusted off the sidewalks on the corner of Cass and Jackson streets, thus causing the street cleaning department much unrest and worry.

Yesterday ye ed. said something about Al Creason and his eternal footpick. Today we feel like mentioning Bill Cardwell and his jack-knife.

A Roseburg poker player is so tough that he plays tiddley-winks with the lids to the sewers.

Ex-County Commissioner Pinkston was in the village today hobnobbing with former associates and exercising his hand-shaking arm which has rusted considerably since he quit the political game.

"Ring 'em again please" Farrington was wearing the smile that the local telephone exchange got the right number on the phone this a. m. without half trying.

Jimmy Wallingford Perkins lost four bits to ye ed. of Prune Pickin's as a result of the walloping handed to the Portland Beavers by the Los Angeles Blue yesterday and today his tenants are worried sick over the prospects of a rent increase.

Leopold Julius Barnes, tonsorial tonsil trimmer, is still wearing his winter rain coat and declares he will continue to do so until Free Johnson appears on the streets in his straw hat.

Gawge Kohlhaugen hung a junk of beefsteak on the meat hook today, sunk the cleaver into the meat block, and announced that he would put up an apartment house that would be a credit to the city.

A business man is often surprised to find that an employe who comes from one of the "best families" is as valuable as an appendix, while one whose family started housekeeping in a box car gives indication of soon owning the business.

WILDE IS ANXIOUS TO QUIT

Little Britisher Has Gathered Much Wealth and Would Now Lead Simple Life.

Jimmy Wilde is anxious to retire from the ring. The little Briton, now thirty-one, has gathered a big slice of wealth and would like to settle down with his family in Wales.

The English flyweight champion especially can't see the idea of making another trip to the United States. Wilde has some bitter recollections of United States income tax laws and how they affect ring purses.

In a letter to friends in New York Wilde says that while bigger purses can be had in this country, the stiff requirements of our income tax laws make the net result less than ring earnings in England. Wilde writes that he may engage in two bouts before hanging up his gloves, and they will both be in England.

BABE ADAM'S GREAT RECORD

Finished Second in National League With Low Average of 2.65 Earned Runs Per Game.

Babe Adams, veteran pitcher of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who first started his major league career back in 1908, established a remarkable record for the season of 1921, according to the official averages. Adams ranked second only to Donk of the St. Louis Cardinals, in pitching effectiveness, finishing the recent campaign with the low average of 2.65 earned runs per game. Based on percentage of games won he tied for first place among the National League pitchers with his teammate, Charlie Glatner, winning 14 contests and losing only five, for a percentage of .787.

The most noteworthy feature of Adams' work during the season was his uncanny control. He took part in 33 games and tossed only 18 bases on balls. He did not make a single wild pitch nor did he hit a single batsman with a pitched ball. In addition he also compiled the longest winning streak of the season by gaining nine consecutive victories.

TO RACE WITHOUT GAMBLING

California Turfmen to Try Experiment at Old Tanforan Track, Near San Francisco.

Horse racing, novel in that it is proposed to conduct it without attendant gambling, is the principal object of the Pacific Coast Jockey club, recently incorporated in Delaware. It is announced by Rudolph Spreckels, one of the incorporators. Spreckels said the association believed racing could be conducted without betting "like basketball or any other clean sport."

The association, which has acquired the old race track at Tanforan, south of San Francisco, plans extensive improvements there. Mr. Spreckels said, including a grandstand and stables. It also plans to promote polo matches and stock shows.

HOW TO MAKE A RADIO SET

Telephone Receiver Is Essential, Making Radio Waves Audible

By WILLIAM G. H. FINCH, Associate Member Institute Radio Engineers. (Written for International News Service.)

NEW YORK, April 6.—Now we come to one of the most important items that enter into the success of any radio station—the aerial, or antenna (means for absorbing or radiating electric energy in a magnetic wave, as used in a radio telegraph or telephone).

As mentioned in one of the previous articles, an aerial, or antenna, is a conductor supported in the air and insulated from all surrounding objects. There are many types of aerials, such as the flat-top "T" type, Fig. 1; inverted "L" type, Fig. 2; Umbrella type, Fig. 3. However, most of these types are made up of a plurality of wires (four or six wires, or even more). These types of aerials are used mostly for transmitting purposes; but for receiving purposes only a single wire, suspended in the air and insulated from all surrounding objects, will serve our purpose well. To obtain the best results with this set it would be advisable, where it is possible, to have an aerial from 100 to 150 feet in length and 20 to 40 feet high at both ends.

The necessary materials are:
One hundred and fifty feet, or more, of No. 12 or 14 B. and S. gauge bare copper wire.
Two or four insulators, depending upon the conditions that must be met.
One porcelain tube.

How To Make Aerial.
The drawings are self-explanatory, and with a little advice you will be able to construct your aerial so as to obtain successful results.

First—Always bear in mind that the effectiveness of your aerial and the success that you will derive from your set depend mostly upon how effectively you have insulated your aerial. Spare no pains to do this job right.

Second—Avoid kinks, turns, and twists in your aerial and lead-in wires.

Third—The aerial or antenna wire can be put through the hole at one end of the insulator and the staywire through the other. A lead-in wire can be fastened to any part of the aerial or antenna, or simply brought off as an extension of the main wire. Where the wire runs around a corner of the building or under similar circumstances, an insulator can be fastened by means of a large screw to a wooden supporting stick. Then the lead can be put through or fastened to the hole at the extended end of the insulator.

Fourth—If due to conditions you must cut your wire, be sure that when you make the connection it is soldered.

Fifth—If a support can only be found for one end of the wire can be run from the house to a short pole 25 or 30 feet high near by. On apartment house roofs, chimneys, pipes and other objects offer good natural supports.
